Josephine Bolofsky, a twenty-three-year-old Lowell girl, was locked up last night without bail at the House of Detention, in Boston, charged with murder of her one-day-old baby boy. This action followed a trip to this city made by the girl in custody of Police Inspectors Campbell and Metting of the neighboring city. The journey was made by automobile, and its object was to test her story of the infant being strangled by another woman in a Lowell residence.

The Bolofsky girl's first story was to the effect that on July 4 the black bag, found containing the baby's body in the shrubbery lining the Charles river esplanade, was given her at Lowell by a Mary Lofosky, who asked her to take it to Boston and get rid of it there. She persisted in this explanation even after being grilled at the Joy street station. However,

MAJOR KNOX SPEAKS OF SHOE BUSINESS IN ENGLAND

Says There Is Little Chance of Demand for American Footwear There—McElwain Co. at Manchester Doing a Big Business

In the following article Major Knox, editor of the Manchester Union, tells of the shoe industry in England, pointing out that there is little chance of any large demand from Britain for American footwear. The American McElwain Shoe company at Manchester, Eng. has a large plant and is doing a prosperous business according to this writer. The letter:

BY FRANK KNOX
LONDON, June 14.—Amid all of the gloom which surrounds British industry I found today one spot upon which, through a rift in the clouds, shone the sun of prosperity. It was a shoe factory in the shoe-making city of Manchester, and it possessed for an American, an interest aside from its exceptional busy-ness, for it was the last of a little bit of New England, set down in the midst of an extremely British type of industrial city. As a matter of fact, this factory of which I speak, is modelled exactly after the McElwain central plant of the McElwain Shoe company at Manchester, and not only is it a faithful reproduction of the physical equipment (on a much smaller scale) but one finds within its walls also a successful attempt at reproduction of the McElwain system of handling employes and happily a very successful achievement of the shop psychology for which the McElwain people have been straining every effort in the development of their great group of shoe factories.

This particular factory, modelled after the best and latest of American methods and equipment, instinct with the spirit of pride in workmanship and loyalty to shop and craft, which is the goal every manufacturer in America seeks, is the one factory in a city with over two hundred shoe factories which was running at full capacity and selling its output as fast as it was turned out. Here was justification for American efficiency. In the very heart of British industry, and convincing evidence that the British workman is sensitive to the same suggestions and susceptible to the same arguments which control American workmen in those industries where substantial progress has been made toward establishment of sound and successful relations between employer and employee. And not only was this particular factory manufacturing all of the shoes of which it was capable, and selling them readily, to the satisfaction and profit of its owners but what is of equal importance, its McElwain system of handling em-

SHORT SKETCHES OF CITY HALL DWELLERS

Meet Stephen Kearney, city engineer and an all-round good fellow. Mr. Kearney occupies one of the highest offices in city hall, architecturally speaking, for he presides over the des-ties of the engineering department on the third floor of the municipal building, very near the roof.

But, joking aside, Stephen has one of the most important positions of anybody in city hall. There are constant demands upon his time and with the assistance of a bustling corps of workers he is called upon to solve many difficult mechanical problems and there are few that have yet baffled him.

For the past several months Mr. Kearney had been acting as superintendent of streets and his performance during his brief reign caused widespread favorable comment. He got a lot of work done and done well without over-heralding the fact and for the first time in many years systematic monthly reports of what was being done in the department were made public while Mr. Kearney had charge.

Mr. Kearney was also called upon to assist in the water department in Commissioner Salmon's absence but now that the commissioner has returned and a new superintendent of streets has been elected, Mr. Kearney has returned to his own department and will concentrate all his efforts there.

Stephen is a world war veteran having served in the western part of the country with an engineering outfit. He is one of the best looking officials in city hall and his friends say that the best part of it is that he isn't aware of the fact. He is a prominent member of the Washington club and one of his hobbies is walking. Not a noon passes that he doesn't walk from the hall to his home in Third street. He was one of five brothers to offer their services in the recent conflict.

BRITISH TO KILL 30,000 ARMY HORSES

LONDON, June 25.—Horse lovers throughout the country have been shocked by Colonel Secretary Winston Churchill's announcement in the house of commons that 30,000 army horses in Mesopotamia are to be killed because it is too expensive to bring them home.

It was explained that they are mainly heavy draft horses for which there is no local use, and that they had to be fed on imported fodder. The nearest possible markets are India or Egypt but the difficulties and cost of transportation thence are said to be prohibitive.

Shipping men say it costs 40 to 50 pounds to bring a horse from the east to England, not counting horsemen's wages.

The war office view is that it is better for the horses to be killed humanely and scientifically than to be left in the hands of natives who would not care for them properly, and no one would suggest turning them adrift in the desert.

FLOWERS

Crushed and faded looking artificial flowers can be made new and fresh looking if held over the steam of a boiling kettle a few minutes. They should be pulled and shaken into shape while being steamed.

SMELLING SALTS

After You Are Fifty

You can expect almost anything because your vitality is fast becoming used up and as a rule one becomes over-anxious to lay aside money enough to care for their old age, and during this nerve-breaking period, and worries, you are liable to have a nervous breakdown, and become a fit subject for kidney, liver, and heart troubles.

When you find yourself approaching or afflicted with these troubles, you can build yourself up again by taking from 10 to 20 drops in a little water of the old and reliable remedy, SEVEN BARKS. Don't wait until you are down sick, but step into your nearest drugstore and invest a small sum for a bottle of SEVEN BARKS and be prepared.

It doesn't matter whether you are twenty or fifty if you find that your digestive organs resent what you eat, your heart palpitates on the slightest exertion, your back aches after a day's work, you need a good tonic, kidney and liver regulator, this you will find in SEVEN BARKS, the old fashioned root and herb remedy that our parents and grandparents used to keep their families rugged and well.

If you want to get the greatest efficiency out of your body, enjoy and prolong your life, take SEVEN BARKS. For sale at druggists.—Adv.

NO PARADE HERE

ON LABOR DAY

There will be no parade in Lowell on Labor day. This was definitely decided at a meeting of the Trades and Labor council last evening. There will be a band concert on the South common in the evening and a speaker of national reputation will be brought here to deliver an address.

The council also voted to ask the election commission to have the hours for the special election on the chamber of commerce initiative petition from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.

It is said that a branch of the I.W.O., with office files and records complete, was organized in the Northumberland, Pennsylvania, county prison. The organizer was sentenced to seven additional months in the prison for his work in connection with the affair.

PLAN BIG OUTING AT SPALDING PARK

An important meeting of the committee in charge of arrangements for the big outing to be held at Spalding park Labor day under the auspices of the local councils of the American association for the recognition of the Irish republic, was held last evening with Michael J. Sharkey acting as temporary chairman. Interesting committee reports were given and the council voted to have booths around the field for the sale of delicacies and fancy articles. Michael Quinn reported that he had made arrangements at the O. M. L. novitiate in Newbury, for the appearance of Miss Mary McSwiney, sister of the late lord mayor of Cork, who is now touring the country, and also that he had secured the services of an Irish pipers' band from Worcester. The proceeds of the affair will be devoted to the Irish refugee fund.

ASSISTANCE APPRECIATED
Members of St. Joseph's sewing circle, who were in charge of the annual outing of the children of the French-American orphanage, which was held in the early part of the week at the O. M. L. novitiate in Newbury, are very grateful to all who assisted in making the event a success, and particularly to Mayor Thompson, Commissioner Marchand, Messrs. G. E. Monaghan, A. Desrosiers, O. Lamontagne, W. Cognac, J. Chouinard, D. Hogan, J. O'Sullivan, Carrier & Laplante, J. Sharf, M. J. Doyle, A. Vigneault, Rosse, W. Blouin, P. Bourcier, Vigneault Bros., P. Ene and Giroux & Lahaie, who have contributed automobiles, ice cream, cake, bread and other things which helped to make the day enjoyable for the little ones. The drawing contest, which was organized in connection with the outing was brought to a close and the winners and prizes were announced as follows: Pierre Caron, gold beads; Miss E. J. Leclaire, $2.50 gold piece; P. Morrisette, bag of flour; Miss A. Bibeault, girl's dress; Miss A. Delisle, fancy napkin and Miss Alphonsine Cyr, cut glass vase. The president of the circle is Mrs. C. H. Boisvert.

TOBACCO DIVIDEND
NEW YORK, July 14.—The American Tobacco Co. today declared a special dividend of 4% per cent on its common and Class B stock. The dividend is payable at par in the capital stock of the Mengel Co. Inc. from the stock of that company held in the American Tobacco treasury.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

THE STRAND

If there were more photoplays like "Her Lord and Master," which is to be shown at The Strand for the last half of the week, beginning with matinee today, there would be less need of a censorship and fewer complaints about motion pictures. It is a clean, wholesome production, free from gunplay, sex element and melodramatic absurdities. It presents a role as she has ever portrayed. The character of Indiana furnishes her material for clever picture studies of a spoiled child who becomes the obedient wife. Holmes E. Herbert plays opposite Miss Joyce and presents a British aristocrat in capable manner. He has a role that could easily be overacted and spoiled; but this artist begets a temperance in drawing his character with a result that is entirely satisfactory.

An expose of the methods used in a crooked gambling house is one of the features of interest in "The Frozen Out," in which Harry Carey is featured. The picture shows the star as a "straight" gambler who arrives in a lawless western town to drive out the crooked followers of the game of chance. He succeeds, but not until he has experienced some adventures of a most thrilling and hair raising kind. Two famous villains plot against Carey. They are John Barrymore, the suave and well dressed desperado of many screen successes, and Charles LeMayne, the rough working deputy villain of equal film prominence. Besides these two high grade pictures, there will be a good comedy and an excellent Weekly. Don't forget it's always cool and comfortable and that there are 1000 seats sold at 10 cents each at all performances.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
A dramatic story of modern life with plenty of thrilling situations is "Women Men Love," starring William Desmond, one of the leading attractions at the Merrimack Square theatre today. When this production was

Mr. Desmond is supported by a strong cast. The other big feature for the week-end is "Wings of Pride," a most absorbing story, starring pretty Olive Tell. A comedy and the International News complete the bill.

NEW LAKEVIEW PARK
Who is Lowell's best swimmer? As a long distance proposition, of course, Henry Sullivan holds the title—in fact, we think he's the best in the world. But as for speed—that's another thing again. One week from today, races are to be held at Lakeview to decide the question. Suitable trophies will be awarded, and the entries will be limited to Lowell. All who desire to participate may do so by filing their names with Mr. Coughlin at the Kittredge store, Central street. Meanwhile, Lakeview continues the real picnic ground of Lowell, with amusements in variety, afternoon and evening.

workers were earning on the average, so I was informed, about $6 per cent. more than the workers in the other plants in the city run on the old-fashioned British model. All work in Leicester is done on the piece basis, and the rate paid is identical, so this increase in the pay of the employees of this factory, modeled after our own, represents only the different spirit which animates the worker, plus the added fact that conditions and pay had both attracted to this particular plant the cream of the shoe-making craft of the city.

On the whole, the shoe-making business of Great Britain has been going through the same liquidating process as has the American. A seven-year contract between the shoe-makers' unions and the shoe-manufacturers ran out this spring and was renewed at the same rates of pay for another six months, pending the readjustment incident to the making of another long-term contract. Most of the factories are running on about one-third time and the shoe trade is in the doldrums.

A development in the shoe business

of Great Britain which will be of interest to the shoe-making communities of New England is the rapid spread of the chain store principle in the retailing of shoes. This has at its root the economic principle of eliminating middlemen and bringing producer and consumer nearer together. Most of the customers of the British shoe factories are chain store proprietors. Some firms operate as many as five hundred separate retail establishments, and as a result the shoe jobber in Great Britain is by way of passing out. This process, however, is about to enter upon another phase which will further reduce the number of middlemen in shoe merchandising, and that is the purchase, or establishment, of chain shoe stores by the factory, without intermediary, the producer and consumer. This common practice is already being exemplified in the United States by the makers of the Reagon, Douglas, Walkover, and other makes of shoes. British shoe men incline to the idea that ultimately practically all of the shoes made in Great Britain for the domestic market will be sold in this way.

Under present conditions Great Britain offers slight promise as a field to be exploited by American shoe manufacturers seeking export business. Without attempting to be derivative of English taste in footwear, or to indulge in any gibes at the expense of the size and contour of British women's feet, it is quite within the facts to say that American styles in footwear will never have a wide appeal in Great Britain because most of them would make British feet deucedly uncomfortable. English women as a rule have wide feet. The great bulk of women's shoes are made only in "d" or "e" widths, and one can fancy the results when they try to squeeze such a foot into the long narrow models of women's shoes so popular in America. Then there is a great deal of rain here and soles of shoes are habitually made heavier. An English woman's dress shoe carries a sole that reminds one of a sport shoe in America, while well-dressed Englishmen carry around brogans on their feet that look awkward and clumsy to the American eye.

But while Great Britain does not offer a very promising market for our surplus output of shoes, neither does British competition in the markets of the world in footwear present any great difficulties for the American shoes on the continent when business gets back to normal and exchange conditions no longer present an impassable barrier to export trade. Continental taste in shoes responds very promptly and enthusiastically to American styles in footwear, while the English shoe finds a ready customer only at home.

Novelists Have Stubbed Their Pens In Writing Photoplays

GERTRUDE OLMSTEAD'S FACE DOESN'T HURT HER. SHE'S BEAUTY CONTST AND IS BECAUSE SHE WON A CHICAGO BEAUTY CONTEST AND IS BEING STARRING IN UNIVERSAL PICTURES

NEW YORK, July 14.—The photoplay producer and the author have reached a stalemate. Neither knows how to meet the other.

Producers, in an effort to gain the best story material available, used ready money to induce the better writers to devote their attention to the screen.

Many writers who had pooh-poohed the photoplay became willing converts to the screen when the price per scenario reached a handsome figure.

Goldwyn and Famous Players were leaders in bringing most of the prominent writers of the day to the screen.

This was on the false supposition that great authors write only great stories. Pictures that have been made with the closest co-operation of the author have shown no improvement over those made without benefit of the writers' suggestions.

That is because the mind trained to express action and setting in pretty phrase and high sounding hyperbole does not adapt itself to the exigencies of pantomime action.

It is the belief of this writer that of all the authors who are spending their time at the studios to have a direct hand in the filming of their stories Rupert Hughes is the only one who has thoroughly grasped the needs of screen writing.

It would be unfair to pass judgment on Elmer Glyn. Her first story for the screen has not yet been shown. It should show definitely the value of an author's help.

She wrote the story, followed every movement of the players, dictated the

Booth Tarkington went into great detail in his suggestions on the filming of "The Conquets of Canaan." Yet the picture is not provincial. Indiana as Tarkington knew it, or as his writer knows it, or as anyone who ever lived in Indiana knows it.

The two pictures of the last six months that have been faithful to their stories from A to Z are "Sentimental Tommy" and "Without Benefit of Clergy." Barrie had little to do with the former and although offering suggestions on the latter he was in England when the story was filmed in America.

"The Four Horsemen" made a masterpiece of "The Inland Empire" with no appreciable aid from Ibanez.

John Emerson and Anita Loos, deans of scenario writers, continue to grind out sure-fire pictures. Universal has announced that it wants product of scenario writers. No more novelists for that concern.

And the biggest pictures now in production are from the works of authors whose only criticism can come from the spirit world—Dumas, Charlotte Bronte, Balzac.

POPULAR OFFICIAL SAYS IT SAVED HIM

I Don't Believe I Would Be Here But for Tanlac, States Thomas Normile

"I'll say this much: If I hadn't got Tanlac when I did, I believe I would have been missing in this world in just a little while longer," was the emphatic statement made by Thomas Normile, widely known and popular city official residing at 14 Viall street, New Bedford, Mass.

"The way I eat corned beef and cabbage, pork sausage, turnips and other things like that since Tanlac has fixed me up, one would think I never had a sick day in my life. But for the past five years I've been in such bad shape that only through will power was I able to keep at my work. For weeks I could scarcely eat enough for a kitten, and the gas in my stomach burnt me like liquid fire. I lost 23 pounds in weight. I was just a skeleton. I was as nervous as a bee, and day or night, it was all the same with me. I just could not rest or sleep.

"Well, I don't believe I would be alive to tell my story if it hadn't been for a lady who thought so much of Tanlac that she was determined that I should try it. She gave me half a bottle, and it helped me so much that I didn't lose any time in getting more, and now I'm in as good shape in every way and have picked up 15 pounds in weight. Tanlac has made me the happiest man in the world by restoring my health, and nothing pleases me more than to tell others what I think of the medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Green's drug store under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass.; A. D. Patis, Chelmsford, Mass.; Snow's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

Eve Unsell and Mary Murlilo, scenario writers, have signed contracts to write stories for Robertson-Cole.

Julien Josephson, scenario writer, does his best work when the producer is urging him to make speed with his script.

"Beating the Game" is the first picture. Harold Daly ever appeared in which was not directed by her husband, Harry Beaumont.

Alfred Duer Miller is writing another original screen story. It is called "Say It With Flowers" and will probably star Tom Moore.

Emanuel List, basso profundo, has sung "Hallelujah" 500 times as the prologue to "Humoresque" and "The Godfather" at New York theatres. He wins the endurance handicap.

"The Spirit of '76," historical picture which is being revived, was made five or six weeks ago but was withdrawn because some censors believed it unfavorable to England at a time when we were allied with that nation against Germany.

The drawing room of the Duke of Buckingham and the ornate palace of Louis XIII are two of the massive sets erected for "The Three Musketeers." The film is to be given its New York premier Aug. 14.

YOUR DRESSING TABLE

AN EFFECTIVE DRESSING-TABLE ARRANGEMENT.

If your dressing table isn't a restful, refreshing, inspiring place, it isn't serving the purpose that it should.

There is a certain mental poise and a feeling of well-being that lingers all through the day which begins with 30 minutes spent at a well appointed dressing table.

The wise woman will have as few things on the top of the table as possible. She will have only those things which she uses constantly. The remainder of her toilet articles will be closed in a smart little folding top cabinet, which stands on four legs quite high from the floor.

An exceedingly effective arrangement for the woman who loves the distinctive is the black enamel-topped table over which a long mirror is hung. A scene of interesting design on either side of the mirror adds much to the charm of the place.

With a black enamel top, black bottles for cologne, astringent and so on will harmonize and can be made quite easily by simply coating them in black sealing wax.

If a few artificial flowers are desired, and surely they do add to the beauty of the arrangement, old blue would be the best to use in summer and yellow or burnt orange in winter.

Mrs. Britten Tells How She Was Restored To Health After Suffering for More Than A Year.

Another Triumph for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dimondale, Mich.—"I had inflammation and a displacement and weakness, and it had been neglected so long that it affected great pain, and this increased my mind, and nerves so that I was very irritable. I had severe pains every month, so that I was often obliged to lie in bed for two days at a time. I suffered for more than a year before my friends said, 'Why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' So I purchased one bottle after another until I had taken ten bottles, then Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I received so much benefit from this treatment that I am now able to do my own work."—Mrs. W.D. BRITTEN, R. No. 2, Dimondale, Mich.

Another Michigan Woman says: "I was bothered for a long time with female troubles and was so nervous I felt almost afraid at times. I also had a pain in my right side and was certainly in a bad way. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has relieved me of these nervous feelings and pains and I am much better in every way. I don't know just how many bottles I have taken, but I took it for nearly a year and it has done me a world of good."—Mrs. JESSIE GRANGER, R. No. 8, Box 61, Kalamazoo, Michigan.

Good health is a woman's greatest asset. With it she may be the inspiration of her husband, a happy mother, and the life of the home. Without it she suffers agonies herself, household duties are a burden, and her family is made miserable by her condition.

Is it any wonder that these women were nervous and irritable after suffering so long from such deranged conditions? Such ailments act directly upon the nerves, and it has been said that a large percentage of nervous prostration, nervous dependency, "the blues," and nervous irritability of women arise from some derangement of the female organism.

If women who are in this condition would only profit by the experience of others and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, much suffering and unhappiness would be averted, as everyone knows a nervous, irritable, ailing mother makes the home unhappy and her condition irritates both husband and children.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

STEPS TOWARD FORMING BALTIC ALLIANCE

RIGA, June 22.—Rapid steps toward the formation of a Baltic triple alliance embracing Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania, which may later take in Finland, are expected by political leaders here to result from the formation of a new Lettish coalition cabinet headed by Sigmund Meyersvitch as premier and minister for foreign affairs, which latter post he held under the old government.

The new coalition includes almost all the numerous Lettish parties except the most radical left wings.

K. Umanis, formerly an instructor at the University of Nebraska, who headed the old regime, is left out, as is also A. Berg, whose prosecutions of the communist and socialist elements as minister of interior led to the downfall of the old cabinet. Berg has been succeeded by A. Quesis of the farmers' union, which forms part of the Meyersvitch party.

(Aids to Beauty)
A simplified method is here given for the quick removal of hairy or fuzzy growths and rarely is more than one treatment required. Mix a stiff paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every hair has been killed. This simple treatment cannot cause injury, but care should be exercised to get real delatone.—Adv.

DIAMOND IS OUT OF LUCK
BY RUTH ADEL LUCK
Ruth—lovely ladies with sun-kissed tresses—have been given a tremendous verbal wallop by F.A. Daniels, president of the Aetna Insurance company.
Mr. Daniels. It would seem, can't forgive the blond her blondness, though he does exempt the Swedish type, even grants that she may have, as well as beauty, a certain quality of faithfulness. (Stress the faith. Men always like faith when it happens to be a woman's faith.)
But as for blonds in general—out with them! Such is the philosophy of the insurance man.

It even goes so far as to intimate that if any blond ever penetrates the fastnesses of his office she will have to effect her entrance by way of the keyhole. Most undignified, assuredly. But Mr. Daniels should be fairly warned—if a blond ever felt any real mad desire to breathe the atmosphere within the confines of a certain office, she'd get there—keyhole, chimney, or transom.

It's a way woman has—blond or brunette.

Other Means
And Mr. Daniels should be enlightened—Monday's blond can be Tuesday's brunette. The ways of the hair-blond from brunet?

Nothing is permanent even unto the wave known by that name and for the possession of which soft tresses cruelly bound in long queues.

And long queues are the results of little bottles opened and little jars untopped.

So effectual are they in their disguises that a mother knoweth not her own daughter and a husband recognizes his own wife.

POLICEMAN IN CUSTODY

Caught in Boston Clothing Loft From Which Goods Had Been Stolen

BOSTON, July 14.—Wilbur F. Harris, a policeman, was taken into custody by other officers today after detectives reported having discovered him in uniform in a South End clothing loft. Several shots were exchanged before Harris was captured. Police Commissioner Curtis immediately ordered him suspended from the force of which he had been a member for 20 years.

Repeated thefts from the store of the Trimount Coal Co., had resulted in detectives being placed on guard. Early today a man placed a ladder against the building, opened a window with a knife and entered. The watching detectives said they found Harris inside and that when he was confronted he opened fire which was returned. Four shots were fired, but no one was injured.

Officers at the police station said Harris told them he heard a noise in the building and went in to investigate. The detectives said he admitted to them that he had stolen goods at his home. Officers who went to the house said they found several suits of clothes, pieces of men's suiting, a number of coats and other goods.

Harris, formerly a member of the motorcycle police squad, was seriously injured in a collision with an ice wagon some years ago. Fellow officers said that for the past two or three years his health had appeared to be declining.

Irish Outlook Much Brighter

cial residence was punctual to the minute as it was exactly at the time appointed that he stepped through the door. Mr. Lloyd George was awaiting him, and their conversations over the peace question were begun immediately.

Interview With De Valera

LONDON, July 14.—Eamonn de Valera, the Irish leader who is here to attend a conference with Prime Minister Lloyd George, broke the silence he had maintained since his arrival in London, in talking with correspondents this forenoon. Speaking of his meeting with the prime minister, he said:

"This is simply a private conference with Mr. Lloyd George, instead of a long range bombardment, to see what can be done at close quarters."

Asked what he considered the conference's prospect for the settlement of peace, Mr. De Valera replied:

"The outlook is brighter than it ever was in history."

"I am sure," De Valera added, "that the atmosphere in England and Ireland is right for peace. The only thing that is necessary now is for us to get down to rock bottom."

Difficulties of the Moment
"I have been told," he said, "that you have been rather disappointed in my not talking more freely with you, but I am sure you quite understand the difficulties of the moment. I have come to tell you that it is not that I do not wish to say a number of things to the people of Great Britain, but that the moment isn't opportune for it."

As far as I can see from your press here, which I have studied very carefully, there is no country in the world which needs more to understand the aspirations of the Irish people and the right and logic of their case than your own people here."

"I should be very glad indeed to put the case before your people, but as I am putting it before the representative of your nation, I think it unwise to put it before your public."

Quotes Wilson's Phrase
Asked whether he would insist on the discussion in London being given full publicity, Mr. De Valera employed President Wilson's phrase, declaring he personally was in favor of "open covenants openly arrived at."

Mr. De Valera will be accompanied to No. 10 Downing street, for the interview at 4.30 p. m., by Art O'Brien, president of the Gaelic league in London, and Robert C. Barton, member of the Irish republican parliament, it was stated. O'Brien and Barton, however, will not be parties to the interview.

Reports published today that an agreement was reached at the recent Dublin conference between De Valera and the southern unionists regarding the terms which would be demanded from the British government at the conference in London were categorically denied at De Valera's headquarters this morning by Secretary Childers of the visiting Irish party.

"There was no discussion, direct or indirect, of any such terms," said Mr. Childers. "The conference confined itself exclusively to discussion of Mr. Lloyd George's invitation to a conference and of the arrangements regarding the truce."

MASS. MILL TEAM WILL HOLD ANNUAL OUTING AT CANOBIE LAKE PARK

Nearly 500 boys and girls, some of them accompanied by their mothers and "big" sisters, boarded five special electric cars at the junction of Merrimack and Allen streets this morning and went to Canobie lake park for the 21st annual outing of the Angel Guardian sodality of St. Joseph's parish.

The merry excursionists left the city at 8 o'clock via Pawtucketville, Dracut and Pelham. Upon reaching the grounds all were led to the baseball field, where an exceptionally pleasing program of sports was carried out.

First there was the traditional baseball game between St. Joseph's college, Capt. Laurier Caron and the Angel Guardians. Capt. Joseph Bergeron. This proved a source of great amusement. The next number was a race around the field and a 100-yard dash for the big boys. There was also a 50-yard dash for the little ones, and a three-legged race. The remainder of the sporting events included a three-legged race, relay race, potato race, bag race, backward race, shoe race, thread race, cup race, wheelbarrow race, pie eating contest, race for little girls and the final was a race for the mothers. The starter and timer were Luchance and Bergeron.

At noon basket luncheon was enjoyed and in the afternoon games were played and the "kiddos" were taken on sight-seeing trips, while many of them took in the amusements at the park. Some of the boys played a game of pool, while others matched their skill at bowling. The homeward trip was started at 5.45 o'clock.

Rev. Aurelien Mercier, O. M. I., spiritual director of the sodality, had general charge of the affair and he was assisted by the following officers of the sodality, who acted as a committee on arrangements: Joseph Bergeron, president; Andre Luchance, secretary; Lucien Desmarais, treasurer; Andre Payette, Louis Blodreau, Victor Lozeau, George Matte and Leo Desmarais, councillors. Looking after the welfare of the children were the following clergymen: Rev. Andre Cary, O. M. I.; Rev. E. J. Carrier, O. M. I.; Rev. Jos. A. Bolduc, O. M. I.; Rev. Antoine M. Amyot, O. M. I.; Rev. Outing of Store Clerks with Dudley L. Page in outing togs at their head and with Salisbury beach as their destination. The trip over the road proved most delightful and upon arrival at the beach a tasty shore dinner was enjoyed. Later there were sports, dancing and bathing for the candy-makers.

The committee in charge consisted of James Grant, Herbie Blown, Thomas Fitzpatrick, Frank Huntley, Austin Page, Miss Maud Ryan and Miss Jessie McRae.

Ben Marche and A. G. Pollard
The Middlesex street railroad station was the scene of a lively and colorful gathering this morning when the several hundred employees of the Ben Marche Dry Goods Co. and the A. G. Pollard Co. joined forces for an outing at Nantasket. The trip, which was ten minutes late, but that didn't dampen the picnicers' spirits in the least.

Upon arrival in Boston the employees of the two stores took the elevated to Rowe's wharf where the 10.20 steamer to Nantasket was boarded. The sail down the harbor was delightful and by the time the beach was reached every body had a good appetite. Dinner was served at the Hotel Nantasket.

The afternoon was given over to sports, boating, bathing and strolling up and down the beach. The picnicers hadn't made arrangements to come home at any special hour, but many of them will return on the 5.30 train from Boston.

The outing of the Ben Marche clerks was under the auspices of the Ben Marche Employees Mutual Benefit association and the general committee in charge consisted of Morton M. Walker, Frank J. Sullivan and Francis Pare.

The Pollard Co. committee in charge included William Tucker, Raoul H. Munier and P. H. Farrell.

Members of both firms were among those who enjoyed the festivities of the day.

J. L. Chailfoux Co.
The J. L. Chailfoux Co. employees chose a beach for their annual picnic. Several trucks conveyed the scores of clerks and officials to a large store to the beach leaving Lowell shortly after 8.30. Dinner was served at the Pleasanton and during the afternoon the various attractions of the beach were enjoyed.

The committee in charge consisted of J. J. Gilley, chairman; Albert Burns, secretary; Louis Cole, treasurer; Eugene G. Quenneville, F. E. Woodman and Margaret Wilcox.

The Gagnon Co.

Revere beach was also the destination of the Gagnon Co. employees. Two trailer trucks conveyed the merry-makers to the seashore and there were 75 in the party. The start was made shortly after 8.30 and at noon a lobster dinner was enjoyed at the Revere house. During the afternoon a program of sports was carried out and the regular amusements of the beach enjoyed. Among the invited guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Gagnon and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Desnoyers.

The committee in charge of the affair consisted of George Lancelot, Michael McInerney, Emile Gagnon and Thomas Teague.

The Nelsonian Club

A third Lowell organization to go to Revere was the Nelsonian club, composed of the F. E. Nelson store in Central street. The trip was made by truck and dinner was enjoyed at the Revere house. Inasmuch as the Nelson clerks are making plans for the big union outing of all Nelson store employees in this section at Canobie Lake, Labor day, no formal sporting program was carried out today. However, the various attractions of the beach were enjoyed. The committee in charge consisted of Josephine Wrenn, Mary McInerney, Bertha Craven, Bertha Parent and Mrs. Payette.

Lowell Druggists' Outing

The annual outing of the Lowell Druggists' association was held today at Whalom park, Fitchburg. All the local drug stores closed at 10.30 and at 11 o'clock the druggists and their families boarded automobiles in John street and started off on their picnic. Sporting events and the amusements of the park were on the program for the afternoon and early in the evening dinner was served. The committee in charge included John Walsh, chairman; F. J. Campbell, Fred Jones, George Dow and Fred K. Hurt.

Lowell Rotary Club

Half a hundred members of the Lowell Rotary club left the Boys' club in Dutton street at 12.30 this noon with the Merrimack Valley Country club in Lawrence as their destination. The occasion was a joint outing of the Lowell and Lawrence Rotarians and a fine program of sporting events had been arranged by the down-river organization. There was considerable rivalry in every event between members of the two clubs. The trip was made by automobile. Golf, tennis, band concerts, baseball, bowling and a big appetizing dinner were among the features of the affair. The committee from the Lawrence club in charge of the affair consisted of David C. Barr, chairman; Joseph J. Flynn, Joseph Blithorne, Fred W. Gay and Reinghardt Knaeuper.

Cherry & Webb Outing
More than 50 employees of the Cherry & Webb store left Lowell on a special electric at 8.15 this morning bound for Revere beach. Dinner was served at the Pleasanton and during the afternoon an enjoyable program of sports was carried out. The return trip will be made at 10.30 this evening.

City Council Meeting

tion, was adopted at an adjourned meeting of the municipal council held this morning. In the course of the meeting Commissioner Marchand was authorized to enter into a contract for the installation of a new boiler at the Varnum school and he also received authorization to sell at public auction land and building in the rear of the Lyon street school, while monthly bills were approved.

The meeting was called to order shortly after 11 o'clock with all members of the council present. The first business was the order calling for a loan of $34,000, presented by Commissioner Marchand. Before the order was passed it was explained by the commissioner and the mayor that this money was not for extras, but for regular equipment not included in the original appropriation for the addition to the Morey school. The vote was unanimous.

The commissioner of public buildings and licenses was authorized to enter into a contract with the Scannell Boiler Works for the installation of a boiler at the Varnum school at a cost not to exceed $1580. The mayor said that the present boiler at the school was condemned by the inspector of boilers. The mayor said he would have condemned the apparatus last year, but owing to the high cost of materials he allowed the department to use it another winter, but he will not tolerate its operation next fall.

The land and building in the rear of the Lyon street school, will be sold at public auction and the commissioner of public buildings and licenses was authorized to hire an auctioneer to dispose of the property, which is owned by the city.

The following bills were approved: Street department, Doherty Bros., sewer construction, $370.25; Fred Meloy, general construction, $1220.10; John Brady, sand, $141.57 and Antonio Pili, crushed stone, $1260.60. Construction of new schools: Morey school, heating, $1500; general contract, $2000; plumbing, $2000 and painting, $1418.65. The bill of $150 for the decoration of city hall Memorial day and July 1 was approved. A bill for $330 in connection with the erection of the Morey school addition, was approved, this being to correct an error as the bill had been charged up to the department of public buildings instead of to the fund for the construction of schools.

ASKS TO BE PLACED ON PENSION ROLL

Patrolman William H. O'Brien has filed a petition with the mayor to have his name placed on the pension roll of the police department. Officer O'Brien states that the request is being made upon advice of his physician, Dr. Welch, and as a result of injuries received while on duty September 26, 1920.

Senator Norris, who was a member of the unofficial committee of 100 investigating Irish conditions, expressed hopes of "a durable settlement which will give the Irish people the full measure of self-government for which they are striving and put an end to the war in Ireland."

The members of the First Spiritualist church held an outing at Lakeview park this afternoon. A special car was chartered to take the members to the park where a basket luncheon was served. About 40 members of the congregation were present on the outing which was a very enjoyable affair. The party was scheduled to return to this city at about 3 o'clock this evening. Mrs. Charles S. Harvey, president of the congregation was in charge of the outing.

Bresnahan declined to tell where Barney was staying at any time, he said.

"I told them it was none of their business and if they wouldn't let me handle it our way, I'd wash my hands of the whole thing."

Up to that time, the witness said, no information so far as he knew, had been given to any police officer in Northampton or to the district attorney of that district as to Barney's whereabouts.

Wanted to See Mother

Barney would not agree to surrender unless he could see his mother, Bresnahan said. After two or three days, the witness took the elder Barney and his wife to Northampton. Asked if he saw Tufts at that time, he said he thought he saw him on the road behind him. They stopped by the roadside in Northampton, and Mr. and Mrs. Barney saw Herman. Later, the mother and father, O'Halloran, Tufts and the witness held a conference at the railroad station.

While Tufts waited at the station, Bresnahan said, he with Mr. and Mrs. Barney, drove to the home of Joseph Meisse and saw Barney. The fugitive agreed to surrender in three days and Bresnahan so reported to Tufts. The surrender took place on the road from Northampton to Brattleboro, Vt.

"How Are You, Mr. Tufts?"

At the appointed time they went to the place designated by Barney, Bresnahan said. They met the convict who shook hands with O'Halloran, said "How are you, Mr. Tufts?" and got into the machine.

Barney said he did not want to go back but supposed he'd have to, adding that he didn't mind going back but hated the humiliation. Then Barney wanted to go back to the Meisse home to change his clothes, and after some demur, Tufts allowed him to go with Bresnahan. While at the Meisse home, the witness said they had lunch.

Barney hesitated about returning to give himself up and while Mrs. Meisse was urging him to do so, Bresnahan went back to tell the district attorney about it. When he returned to the Meisse house after that Barney had disappeared and the witness reported to Tufts that he thought Barney had "cold feet." A search was started. After about three-quarters of an hour, Barney reappeared and entered the car. They drove to Greenfield where the witness left the party.

When shown Tufts' statement published in the newspapers on the day after Barney's surrender, the witness said he knew it was untrue and added that he had given Tufts false data. Counsel for the defense said it was admitted that Tufts' statement as to where he met Barney was untrue and asked if it were contended that anything else in the statement was untrue. For the prosecution, Mr. Hurlbert said he contended that the statement was given for the purpose of deceiving the public and that the whole of it was false.

Johnson Objects

Counsel for the defense, Melvin M. Johnson, objected to the introduction of a stenographic report of a statement by Bresnahan to Mr. Hurlbert before the present trial, but the chief justice declared it admissible as bearing on the witness' credibility. The witness said he did not recall making some of the statements and he denied others. He said in cross-examination that he had refused to sign the stenographic report because the attorney general would not let him have a copy.

Mr. Packard Owner!

WE'VE always been mighty proud of that twin-six engine of ours—we Packard boosters. And I, personally, haven't been especially bashful and retiring in telling people about its performances.

Which makes my tale sadder!

My cousin Tom from Worcester came to town last Wednesday in his 1917 Runwell Six and we drove our respective families out to Brookline to call Sunday afternoon.

Coming along to Corey Hill Tom suggested a race up the hill. I took him on with a poor attempt to hide a smile. But I had no smile to hide when we reached the top. Tom's old Runwell made it about fifty yards sooner than my comparatively new Packard.

When we reached our destination Tom told me all about it. "The simplest thing in the world," he said, "just an eight-ounce can of FAM-O poured into my gas tank before I left home. It cleared away the accumulated carbon on my way down and put new life into my engine. And now I'm getting almost 30 per cent more mileage from my gas."

I thought of the money I had spent—at my service station—having carbon removed, and knew that had been my trouble in the race up Corey Hill.

Need I say that a few days later I raced Tom again up the hill. And I almost lost sight of him he was so far in the rear. FAM-O did it? Sure thing you know! And anyhow you and I know that you can't beat a Packard motor when it's running true to form. 8 oz. $1.00, 1 gal. $12.00 at all dealers. GORDON MFG. Co., Foxboro, Mass.

Greek and Turkish Forces Are Locked in Battle Before Kutaia

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 14. (By the Associated Press.)—Turkish nationalists and Greek forces are locked in battle before Kutaia, about 75 miles southeast of Brussa. Airplanes are taking part in the struggle for mountain heights near the town, which is the first objective of the Greek offensive which began last Monday. The nationalist forces consist of the Third Turkish army corps, commanded by Col. Arif Bey, who recently received reinforcements from the Armenian front.

A national official statement declares the Greeks are holding a line running southward from Yeni-Shehr, a village situated near the northern branch of the Bagdad railway. The Greeks are said to be advancing with four divisions.

Rioting Again in Cork Street Area

BELFAST, Ireland, July 14. (By the Associated Press.)—Rioting broke out again in the Cork street area, here this morning. The police managed to restore order without being compelled to use firearms.

French Celebrate Bastille Day

PARIS, July 14.—France today celebrated Bastille day, the anniversary of the fall of the ancient prison which symbolized the oppressor which brought about the French revolution. Observance of the holiday was begun last night, when vast crowds gathered in the streets of the city and danced for many hours. There were, in addition, great torchlight parades along the boulevards.

NEW YORK, July 14.—French quarters in New York today celebrated Bastille day. The French consul general kept open house until one o'clock, and practically every French organization in the city arranged a fitting program for the event. A grand ball in the evening, sponsored by the French veterans of the world war, will feature the celebration.

Find Rich Gold Field in Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, July 14.—Strikes of gold quartz apparently bearing more than $100 to the ton in a district 39 miles south of here, were reported here today. Prospectors stampeded to the area of the discovery. Men returning from there said a dozen big pieces of quartz heavy in gold, had been uncovered within a region 12 by 7 miles. The first strike was at Girdwood, on the government railroad. According to messages received here the original find was followed by numerous others of equal importance. The quartz is described to have been found largely in porphyry rock formations. Mining men here who have made preliminary investigation of the discovery predicted it would prove epochal. Some of the strikes they said, developed in railroad cuts along Turnagain arm.

By A. H. PALMER
The accompanying photograph illustrates a novel way of obtaining cool and refreshing sleeping conditions where the weather is warm and at times sultry.

This sleeping tower was designed by and erected at the residence of L. H. Gregory, city engineer of Winters, Yolo county, California.

It is constructed of 2-inch galvanized pipe with a 1/2-inch steel rod in the center, the pipe then being filled

The excessive humidity of the present week has served as a great obstacle to the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. in its efforts to restore to normal the hundreds of local telephone lines that were put out of commission by the big storms last Saturday morning and evening. Conditions are about as bad today as they were last Saturday morning, Manager Chas. J. Leathers said this noon. All new work of the company is being sidetracked for the present so that the damage done to lines already installed may be repaired.

Manager Leathers explains that when lightning strikes a cable it is liable to jump from the place it strikes to another place 10 feet, 20 feet or even a greater distance beyond and do more damage. Thus, when employees of the company think they have a cable repaired, they later find that there is more work to be done on another part of the cable. This necessitates delay and slow results. Another matter with which the workmen have to contend is the burning of fuses. A fuse may be burned almost enough to destroy its value for service but not quite enough to render it useless. Then suddenly, when to all appearances it is in O. K. condition, it will break. Managers Leathers says that the humidity of the present week has been most disastrous to the company's lines. Even in his own office, high and dry above the earth, he has been compelled to keep a fan blowing on the distributing board so that the instruments won't be affected. From this one can get an idea of what damage the humidity would do to instruments down in a cellar, for instance.

with rich concrete. Each section is cross-braced with 1/2-inch galvanized cables. The pipe posts are anchored in solid concrete blocks, and have a wind resistance of more than 200 miles per hour. The floor of the sleeping apartment is 15 feet above ground, and is reached by a weight elevator lifted by an electric motor, and lowered by gravity guided by a 2-inch galvanized pipe. It can be operated in a 60-mile gale. The tower and elevator are absolutely safe under all conditions. Comparative thermometer readings have shown that the temperature of summer nights is about ten degrees lower in the sleeping compartment than at the surface of the earth below. The sleeping tower here described has proved to be so effective in providing the conditions sought that it is already being imitated in many places in the hot, interior valleys of California.

IN THE POLICE COURT

Maine Man Arrested and Woman Detained Here

Yesterday Released Today

Mrs. Ethel Tibbets, detained here in company with Lewis R. Dearborn yesterday when the woman's husband, through the Newport, Me., police, notified the local authorities that his wife and an automobile were missing, returned to Maine this morning with her seven-year-old daughter and her husband, who reached this city on an early train this morning. Lewis R. Dearborn, the man in whose company she came here in a Dodge touring car said to be the joint property of herself and her husband, had a charge of operating without a license dismissed. It was testified in the police court that Mrs. Tibbets had a license in her possession, and that in view of the fact that there was a license in the car, no breach of the law was committed. The case created a great stir in the police circles here yesterday. The sheriff of Newport, Me., communicated yesterday morning with local headquarters, saying that Tibbets was searching for his wife, who had departed with a Dodge car with a Maine registration number, with a number of household articles, and with her daughter, a child of a former marriage. Word was despatched at once to the officers on route, to look for a car answering the description given and heading this way. Officer Frank J. Murphy located the machine, as it reached Bridge street, and the machine with its occupants were taken to police headquarters, where a charge of operating without a license was lodged against Dearborn.

Mrs. Tibbets and her child were detained in the detention room. It was stated by counsel this morning, that during the latter part of yesterday afternoon he demanded the release of the woman from Superintendent Redmond Welch, claiming that there was no charge against her. It is stated that she was freed, and that later Dearborn was allowed to bail himself out.

This morning he appeared in the police court, and the charges against him were dismissed for lack of prosecution. Officer Murphy told the court that Mrs. Tibbets had a license in the car to operate. "I advise you," he told this woman alone, "I declare his Honor is dismissing the case, 'she is this man's wife. Don't have anything more to do with her. Get out of here as quick as you can.'"

Later Mr. Tibbets requested the key to the machine from his wife, but it was refused. It is understood that she contended that the machine belonged to them jointly. A traffic officer from the Maine town accompanied Tibbets when he arrived in Lowell this morning, as the man is unable to drive the car himself. He told the officials here, it is stated, that he purchased the car for his wife to drive. After a session in the inspectors' room behind closed doors, it is understood that Mrs. Tibbets agreed to return to Maine with her husband. The numerous articles brought with her when she came here were replaced in the tonneau, and husband, wife and the latter's child, together with the traffic officer who was at the wheel, started back in the direction of home.

Other Offenders
Ludger Langlois, charged with drunkenness, told the court that he wished to go away to the hospital. He was informed that the house of correction was the nearest substitute the court could furnish. The defendant then requested to be released, so that he could seek a hospital on his own account. He was allowed to go, although already on probation.

The case of Toni Barbinski, charged with assault and battery on a companion was filed on payment of costs of $9.20. It appeared that the two were good friends until the time of the quarrel, when, they fell upon each other and fought while on their way to "get a glass of beer." It was testified that "you can get beer anywhere in Lowell," but witness added that "it is like water." "You mean, I suppose that it flows as freely as water," interjected counsel. Judge Enright, in filing the case, criticized the quarrel between the pair as "childish."

The case of Maurice Orbach, charged with operating a cinematograph at a local movie palace, without the machine having been properly inspected and approved, was held over for one week. Angus N. McDonald, for the state, complains that the cinema machine had not been inspected and approved by an inspector of the building inspection department of public safety.

The case of John J. Cookley, charged with drunkenness and assault and battery on Costas Bletsas, was put over to July 21. The defendant, while out on bail on the intoxication charge, was taken into custody on the complaint of assault.

The case of Charles P. Korsack, charged with larceny of $500 from the International Service company, was dismissed for lack of prosecution after settlement had been made.

The case of Manuel Silva, arrested by Lieutenant David Petrie and Officer Owen Conway, charged with assault and battery on a girl, was put over to Saturday, on his plea of not guilty. One version of the affair is to the effect that the defendant accosted the girl in an indecent manner. Then she is said to have slapped his face. He is alleged to have smitten her in return, with such force as to cause her mouth to bleed. Eyewitnesses then called Silva, it is stated, beating him up copiously.

Silva displayed bruises on his countenance and added that he was "the same all over." He continued to shout that these contusions were inflicted on his anatomy by "some of her witnesses." He was advised by his counsel to remain quiet.

Held for Murder

when Captain Richard Fitzgerald of the station declared that he intended to have Dr. Nicholas Duvalle, of the West End, make an examination of her physical condition, she broke down and changed her narration. She said that she gave birth to the infant in Lowell on July 4, and that a short time afterwards a tape was placed about the infant's neck by some woman in the house. The little one was thus strangled, she said. Continuing, she said that the infanticide took place at 2 p. m. and that she started for Boston about six hours later, reaching here since early in March when he surrendered on the steamship Pyro at New York. The complaint charges embezzlement on or after July 1, 1915. It is alleged that Martin deserted June 21, 1920 from the receiving ship at Philadelphia.

He is the second officer to be tried within a week by the same court for misappropriation of funds. Ensign George J. Schoonover was charged with the theft of money belonging to the Galveston amounting to $107.

When tobacco first reached England, women and even children learned to smoke.

Story Is Discredited

This, she claimed, was the correct and complete story, but the Boston authorities discredited it as the result of her journey to this city. It was stated at police headquarters here this morning. According to the information given out today here, Sergeant Thomas McLoughrey, of the local force, accompanied the girl and the inspectors in a search for the dwelling where she claimed the crime was committed. It is stated that when first queried on her arrival here as to the location of the house, she replied that it was situated on Church street. She was asked to lead the officers to the place, and the authorities here stated that instead of going to Church street, she proceeded to Appleton street, where she failed to point out any dwelling as the scene of the alleged strangling by another woman. As the girl is said to be a former resident of this city, her inability to assign any location for the alleged crime by another was considered evidence of the falsity of her statements. It was announced this morning. At the police station here it was added that the whole body of details, relative to the presence of a Mary Lzofosky when the child was born, is believed to be a fabrication. Investigation will be made by the Lowell officials, of course, in co-operation

Place Crime in Boston

Mrs. Sawishka, with whom the girl roomed in the West End, has been queried at the house of detention by the Boston police in the presence of the prisoner. It is stated that the Bolofsky girl is to remain as a patient at a maternity hospital for some days, because of her physical condition. The Boston officials believe the true facts of the case may be that the child's death occurred in the West End, at a short distance from the room engaged by the prisoner, some two weeks ago, the time when she says she departed from this city. Mrs. Sawishka is looked upon as being an important state witness. The baby's body was found in the bag by John Stack, of Laverett street, Boston. A note in Polish furnished no

Met Prisoner at a Dance

Mrs. Sawishka, after a lengthy questioning last night by the inspectors, declared that she first met the prisoner at a dance during Easter week. Miss Bolofsky left Lowell in a search for employment, she declared, but failed to secure it. Then, said Mrs. Sawishka, she left her Joy street lodgings to room with the girl on Causeway street. Miss Bolofsky went away Saturday, July 3, saying that she was going to see a woman on a Lowell farm in whose possession her trunk was. The girl came back at 3 a. m. July 5, said Mrs. Sawishka, but had no bag answering the description of that in which the child was found. The Boston police believe that both women are holding something back, and they claim that Miss Bolofsky could not have returned from Lowell at 3 a. m. as no trains run at that late hour.

ALCOHOL LADEN BARK IS SEIZED

Boston Officers Find Large
Quantity of Forbidden
Liquid Has Disappeared

Mystery Ship's Cargo Originally Had a Value of Over $275,000.

BOSTON, July 14.—United States prohibition enforcement agents yesterday afternoon seized the three-masted bark "Tiburon," anchored in the harbor, and its contents, supposed to consist of 27,500 gallons of high grade alcohol, and assert that examination of 50 of the alcohol drums revealed that 40 were empty, four contained water and only six were filled with alcohol.

What became of the missing alcohol is, in reality, a mystery. The agents express the opinion, however, that the contents of the empty drums were sold or smuggled out before the vessel had been seized. This belief, they say, is based on the fact that small launches have been detected running alongside the "Tiburon" since her arrival in Boston, causing a thorough examination of the cargo and resulting in the seizure.

The agents will continue their examination of the drums, and just how much of the liquor is missing will not be known until a federal inventory is taken. It is expected that the cargo will be removed as speedily as possible to the Massachusetts Storage Warehouse on Washington street, there to be gauged and tested.

A strong guard was placed aboard the vessel after the raid. The value of the cargo before, as is alleged, any had been removed, was estimated at $275,000.

The seizure was made only after a long conference in the United States marshal's office, in which U. S. Atty. Harris, Asst. U. S. Atty. White and Acting Field Supervisor Albert Lynch of the prohibition force took part. After the prohibition agents are said to have produced proof that non-beverage alcohol had been diverted for beverage purposes, Commissioner Hayes issued a search warrant.

As there was no one on the vessel competent to accept service, the official document was tacked to the foremast, and the officers began a search. After taking off the main hatch and entering the holds, the alcohol drums were found packed in a bed of gravel on the ship's bottom.

There were 250 drums, each supposed containing 110 gallons of alcohol.

The "Tiburon" is somewhat of a mystery ship and has been sailing to many different American and European ports under many different officers. Its papers are made out with the Atlantic Coast Transportation Company of New York.

NEWS FROM THE HORSE ASSOCIATION

NEW YORK, July 13.—All of the corn belt states are working to secure more efficient horses and mules, according to a statement just issued by the Horse Association of America. This organization reports that many stallion associations are springing up, the purpose of which is to secure better breeds of work animals on the farms.

Satisfactory experiments are being made in increasing the size of animal motive power units in farm work. On one farm it was found that one man driving ten horses or a three-horse plow may average nine acres per day, despite hot, dry weather and difficult soil conditions. Under the same conditions a driver has been using twelve horses on a double-disc harrow, cutting a strip sixteen feet wide, averaging about forty acres a day.

The use of large seeding units has also been brought out very effectively in this farm horse experiments are being tried out. Three grain seeders are hitched abreast, drawn by twelve or sixteen head of horses. With this equipment one man seeds seventy-two acres per day or eight times as much as accomplished by the ordinary farmer in the corn belt with three horses.

Farmers in the last few years have found that by slight variations in their horses and mule power units they greatly increase the efficiency of their work. They have found how easy it is to change from two to four, six, eight, or even ten horse teams.

Census figures of 1920 show that the corn belt continues to be the main breeding section of the country for horses and mules foaled in 1919 were produced in the following states: Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, and North Dakota.

The policy of producing the motive power needed on corn belt farms and selling before depreciation sets in is one of the potent factors contributing to the wealth of farmers in this region.

Oklahoma alone had more colts foaled in 1919 than the twelve states enumerated in the eastern zone which consists of Pennsylvania, Maryland, the District of Columbia and the states east and north. Only 40,230 colts were foaled in 1919 in the eastern zone.

At this rate it would require about forty years for this particular zone to replace horses on its own farms. The ten states in the southern zone, North Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas and all states south had 58,755 horse colts foaled in 1919 and had a fair quota of mule colts. This region, however, fell far short of producing as many animals as were actually needed.

YOU'LL LIKE THE TANG OF CURRANTS!

Use currants! This fruit with a tang gives just the necessary tone to the winter dinner or to the ice cold drink in the summer.

There are numerous ways of preserving them for winter use.

CORNS

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn. Instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation. Adv.

Bring slowly to the boiling point and simmer for five minutes. Put fruit in jelly bag and let drip over night. Put jelly in preserving kettle and boil 10 minutes. Pour into sterilized cans and seal while boiling hot. Sugar can be added when the juice is needed.

Four-Fruit Jelly
Two quarts currants, 2 quarts raspberries, 2 quarts cherries, 2 quarts strawberries, measure for measure of fruit, juice and sugar.

Hull strawberries and heat to extract juice. Stone cherries, preserving juice that is lost in stoning. Heat and crush to extract juice from fruit. Pick over currants and raspberries and heat separately to extract the juice. Mix the fruit and strain through a jelly bag. Use cup for cup of sugar and juice. Mix juice and sugar in preserving kettle and boil for 30 minutes, skimming frequently. Try the jelly on a cold plate. When it sets it is done. Pour into sterilized glasses and cover with paraffine when cold.

WILL OF HELEN BARKER FILED FOR PROBATE

By the will of the late Helen M. Barker of Methuen, just filed for probate, there are several public bequests, effective after the death of relatives who are given a life interest. There is no estimate given of the size of the estate but the sum of $6000 is left in trust for the benefit of testatrix sister, Alice M. Merrill, and on her death the trust fund is to be divided, half going to the town of Derry, N. H., to be known as the Merrill-Taylor fund, the income to be used for the purchase of books for the public library; the other half goes to the First Church, East Derry, to be known as the Miss S. C. Merrill fund, the income to be used for general church purposes.

After a few private bequests the sisters and sister-in-law of testatrix are given the life interest in the residue of the estate and if anything remains upon their deaths it is to go to the Forest Street Union church of Methuen to be known as the Stephen J. and Helen M. Barker Memorial fund, the income to be used for general church purposes.

ATTEMPT TO BURN CASTLETOWN MOUNT

BELFAST, Ireland, June 25.—An attempt has just been made to burn Castletown Mount (the ancient castellated building near Dundalk which tradition says was the birthplace of "Cu-chullain" (meaning the Hound), the Irish hero and leader of the Red Branch knights.

Members of the Archaeological society were in the building, which is used as a museum, and they had to jump for their lives.

Military forces were to occupy the place shortly and this is believed to be the reason for the attempted burning.

ROY INJURED

John Pitrosky, aged nine years, was taken to the Lowell Corporation hospital last evening, with a deep cut in the head, alleged to have been caused by a blow given by a companion, Joseph Pavika, while both were playing on the gravel street dump. The boy's injury is not serious.

AT WILLOW DALE
An outing for the boys and girls of the Dally Vacation Bible school, which is being conducted at the Worthen Street Baptist church, will be held tomorrow at Willow Dale. The excursionists will leave this city on trucks at 1 o'clock and will be entertained with games and sporting events at the resort. Dinner will be served and the homeward trip will be started late in the afternoon.

FUNERAL SUNDAY
The remains of Priv. Alberton W. Vinal, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Vinal of the Groton road, North Chelmsford, who died in France, arrived in this city yesterday afternoon and were immediately removed to the North village town hall, to remain until Sunday, when the funeral will take place. The parents of the young man as well as a large delegation from Chelmsford, post 212, American legion, were at the station, when the body arrived.

THE COAL QUESTION

At the present time the people of this city are giving earnest attention to the matter of getting in their winter coal. The prices are high and as a result some people are holding off expecting a reduction. There is little or no reason to expect a reduction, however, when all the conditions surrounding the production and sale of coal are considered.

There is much difference between the market for anthracite or hard coal and that for bituminous or soft coal. In fact the production of both represents two very different industries. The soft coal mines of the United States produce in a single day as much as the anthracite mines turn out in a week. Small quantities are mined in Virginia, Arkansas and Colorado; but Pennsylvania has the great monopoly of the anthracite supply in an area of 480 square miles, or about one-thousandth part of the area of the soft coal mines.

The anthracite lands were bought up long ago and are now owned almost entirely by eight companies known as the railroad coal companies. These companies were supposed to discontinue the coal business from that of railroading; but somehow the dual relation is still maintained.

These companies mine about 75 per cent of the anthracite and the independent companies the remainder. The railroad companies usually agree upon a price for the various grades of coal; but the independent companies sell sometimes higher and sometimes lower than the railroad companies. They have to pay higher for storage and have fewer advantages on the railroads. The big rule the price except where the government steps in.

But the general public seems to be expecting a reduction in prices resulting from a cut in labor costs and freight rates. In this, however, there can be no change to be effective this fall, nor perhaps before next summer. In the first place the miners are working under a contract that runs till April 1, 1922, so that there is absolutely no chance of a reduction in wages. Furthermore, it is almost a certainty that there will be no reduction in freight rates as these come only after a long agitation and hearings before the Interstate Commerce commission, and at present there is no proposition before the commission from which a reduction might be expected this year.

The one great danger, therefore, is that if the public refuses to buy there will be a demand in the fall that will overwhelm the railroads and cause what is known as a "runaway market." That is what happened last year and caused a rapid advance in the price of coal.

For this reason it is good policy to buy now, buy as soon as possible and get your winter supply stored in your cellar. There is evidently nothing to gain and there may be much to lose by waiting until the fall rush gets in. The strike against buying that is now in progress will defeat its purpose. It is necessary to keep the mines working and the product moving out to the retailers through whom it is delivered to the consumers. Beware of a runaway market. Get your coal now. Those who want to get full information on the coal situation are advised to watch for the articles to appear in this paper next week giving the result of a thorough investigation of the situation as referred to below.

Special Investigation

In order to get at the bottom facts in the coal situation and to be able to draw a fair conclusion as to future price probabilities, the New England Newspaper Alliance, of which The Sun is a member, decided some weeks ago to send a representative to the coal fields, to Washington and wherever the information might be found, to investigate the coal question and prepare a report on his findings to be published simultaneously by all the papers in the association.

Mr. E. Robert Stevenson of Waterbury, Conn., was selected for the job and he has notified the various papers concerned that he has concluded his work and is ready to report.

The first article will appear in The Sun next Monday, and will be followed by three others. These articles will be of great importance and should be read by every business man and every manufacturer in Lowell.

CHASING AUTO THIEVES

We are supposed to have a first class police department, one that uses all modern conveniences for overcoming time and space in the capture of criminals. It is but a few weeks ago, that in this column, we suggested a wireless outfit for the police department so that they could use the fastest methods known to science in heading off criminals. We felt that the police department, headed by an experienced official who goes out lecturing on police work and police methods, would gladly grasp at any opportunity of improving the service by a quicker method of sending out to neighboring cities notifications of crime committed and descriptions of criminals to be captured.

We had no reason to believe otherwise than that the present appliances were used with the utmost haste and to the greatest possible advantage until we heard of a theft of an automobile from a Pawtucketville garage early Tuesday morning. About 2:30 in the morning, it appears that a man stole a Hudson coupe from the garage of Mr. Adolphe Lamontagne on Mt. Hope street. Owing to the noise made by the machine in leaving the garage, Mr. Lamontagne was aroused and got to his window in time to see his auto turn the corner into Riverside street. He notified the police promptly and assumed that they in turn would notify the police departments of all neighboring cities. To his great surprise about 15 or 20 minutes later he received a call from the police station asking with the utmost simplicity, whether he wished to notify the Nashua police. He supposed that the Nashua police had already been notified and were on the lookout for the man who had stolen his auto. It seems that in such cases the citizen who calls upon the police department for assistance is required to pay for any telephone calls that may be necessary. If the department waits in such a case until it finds whether the necessary telephone calls will be paid for by an outside party, the thief will have plenty of time to escape. If any such antiquated methods as this, are in vogue in the police department, when its service is called for to capture thieves or robbers, they had better be abandoned as soon as possible. It appears that the department spends considerable time haggling over the question of who will pay for the toll calls when out-of-town police are notified in any such case. It should be understood that citizens, and especially taxpayers, contribute their share for the maintenance of the police department and that if their property is stolen and as a result it becomes necessary for the police to communicate with other cities and towns, the expense should be borne by the department and not be shifted to the private citizen who has already suffered loss which the police are paid to prevent.

CHILDREN OF CHANCE

Eat enough peaches and you will live forever. This is an ancient Chinese superstition, now given wide publicity by the California Peach and Fig Growers of Fresno.

Many years ago, a Chinese maiden—believing in this superstition—gave her sailor sweetheart a peach seed, to carry for luck.

At the end of his voyage, in America, he lost the seed. From it sprouted the first peach tree in the United States.

That shows you what chance will do—move a fruit from one continent to another. Keep it in mind next time you are on a picnic and throw an apple or pear core or a plum seed by the wayside. Great crops, great wealth, may spring from a single seed—if chance is on its side.

A Frenchman, Louis Perrier, in 1856 brought to America his first prune tree. His sole purpose was to have near his new home, at San Jose, Cal., the tree he had always loved. That one tree started a great industry.

The first peanuts were brought to our country by African slaves, landed in Virginia. A few were not eaten. They dropped to the ground, sprouted and, advertised by old Tom Rowland 60 years ago, originated a big industry, of which Norfolk is the leading market. The date-palms of Mexico, Persia, sprang up from date-seeds dropped by the soldiers of Alexander the Great on their way home from India.

It was in similar ways that the cherry spread over the world from its original home in Asia; and the apple, pear and plum from Armenia.

Years ago, a Canadian stuffed to a friend abroad a bird-skin muffled with the seed-down of the Canadian thistle.

Some of the seed got out, sprouted, spread like wild-fire and today the Canadian thistle is a pest in many parts of Europe.

About 1870 some thoughtless individual brought two carp from Germany and turned them loose in a tributary of the Mississippi. Those two carp were the ancestors of every carp in American waters today.

Two English sparrows, brought to our country as pets years ago, were the grandparents of the sparrows that fly around your house today.

The rabbit pest in Australia started the same way.

There are thousands of other instances.

Are they creatures of chance? Or is there, behind them, some great and methodical process of nature which uses man and his thoughtlessness as an instrument for spreading vegetable and animal life throughout the world? —N.E.A.

MARKING THE DATE

If you are a voter, put the date—August 9—in a book, write it down on a slip of paper and paste it in your calendar. Mark it in red on the calendar, make some sort of step to avoid forgetting it, for then comes the first important election in the history of Lowell.

An initiative election is an event of the first civic importance. It is, in a way, a return to the method of the best form of government the world has ever known—the New England town-meeting. It affords to every citizen a chance to share individually in shaping the policy of the government near at hand under which he lives.

It is desirable, therefore, that there shall be the fullest possible participation in the balloting that whatever the result may be, it shall express the deliberate desire and intention of as large a portion of the electorate as possible.

Our nearest contemporary says that "Attorney General Daugherty simply voiced the popular verdict" in administering the oath of office to Chief Justice Taft. Vermont and Utah alone voiced a similar verdict about eight years ago.

The Boston Globe tells us of a Maine woman who "has as a visitor this summer a snow-white robin." Perhaps our contemporary's enterprise may yet discover a white red-winged blackbird.

British torulem dies hard, but one more jolt is given it when the English people join in a tumultuous welcome to Valera, and his Sinn Fein associates, on their arrival in London.

Wisconsin women now have full equality with men and there are some of the male sex left who are gallant enough to believe that the levelling process has been downward.

Objectionable pictures on the screen are less a cause of wonderment since recent developments have shown the taste of some "movie men" in matters of entertainment.

A news despatch tells us that a Brinkton girl insists on keeping a promise to wed a man at the end of a prison sentence. It is hard to escape 'em.

"Credit Restrictions a Handicap to Farmers," says a headline. Newspaper men are then in good company.

The suspense is over. Now we know the law is on against voters planning vacations to include August 9.

SEEN AND HEARD

These are the days when certain things "stick" closer than a brother.

Asked How Mon the other day after he had returned from a business trip to the state of business in general, "Business is poor, too many selling, too few buying and too many looking," was the answer.

There are still conscientious folk about who carry conviction into the slightest detail. A bookseller had a letter from one of them recently, ordering a copy of Tennyson's poems, with the postscript, "Please do not send me one bound in calf, as I am a vegetarian."

Very Polite Man

An extremely polite traveller had been for a walk along the deck. When he came back to his deck chair he found a very buxom woman in possession. He approached her timidly and said, "Excuse me, madam, but could you tell me—or, without getting up, whether you are sitting on my hat?"

Dying Poor

The late Franklin D. Lane, who was secretary of the interior in the Wilson cabinet, left an estate worth $10,000. It's very well to say that he died rich in the esteem of his fellow-citizens and rich in the legacy of good service rendered. But the best tribute that can be paid to a public servant who, like Lane, had in his keeping the fabulous undeveloped resources of the nation, is to say this of him: He died poor!

Gun-Toting

Gun-toting has been made an unpardonable offense in Kentucky. Never will a gun-toter sentenced to prison be pardoned by him, says Gov. Edwin H. Morrow. The gun-toter is the potential man-killer. To give him a good lesson before he has a chance to kill someone is much cheaper for all concerned than a good lesson after he has committed murder. Governor Morrow's crusade for disarmament in Kentucky should be studied by the more backward communities, like New York, Chicago and Lowell.

Hard to Believe

An English farmer hired a man to help him gather his corn last season. Now, the farmer had a reputation for hiring an efficient worker, but the hired man was not daunted by it. They started out by side, the hired man being advised by the farmer to keep as close to him as he could with the row he was gathering. But let the new worker, after a few minutes of keeping up with the farmer, passed him and soon was several feet ahead. Frantically the farmer worked, but the new man still kept gaining. Then all at once he heard the farmer shout, "Stop!" he yelled, "Stop, if you want to work for me, I never yet let any man who worked for me get ahead of me." And because he wished to hold his job the hired man "stowed up."

Let Something Good Be Said When ever the fair face of friend or foe.

The shadow of disgrace shall fall, instead of words of blame, or proof of thus and so.

Let something good be said. Forget not that no fellow-being yet may fall so low but love may lift his head.

Even the cheek of shame with tears is wet. If something good be said.

No generous heart may vainly turn aside. In ways of sympathy; no soul so dead.

But may awaken strong and glorified. If something good be said.

And so I charge ye, by the thorny crown, And by the cross on which the Saviour bled, And by your own soul's hope of fair renewal.

Let something good be said! —By JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Mayor Thompson has not yet mapped out any definite program of activity for the remaining months of 1921, he told newspapermen the other day when asked about his ideas on what the city government should undertake before the close of the year. On various projects he has come up in the past the mayor has always expressed the opinion that they could wait until later on in the year when the city would have more money available and would be a greater distance from the debt limit. It is well known that there are several large projects waiting action by the municipal council.

The first street oval, the new highway through the purchase of Washington park and spending part and the expenditure of more money on the proposed improvements in Pawtucketville are all matters that have been urged for some time. However, the mayor seems to think that provision should be made to carry on the regular routine work of the various municipal departments before new projects are entered into. For instance, he says that it would be unfortunate if the street department early in September should have to cease operations because of lack of funds and thus throw several hundred men out of employment. He believes such contingencies as these should first be taken care of before steps are taken to lay out money on projects that are not absolutely urgent.

That common warts are caused by a virus having a long incubation period is indicated by the result of recent experiments, including those at the University of Michigan medical school.

The experiments seem to show also that warts are contagious, as indicated by their tendency to occur in crops. These conclusions were reached by planting the skin with powdered warts and producing new warts.

The evidence may not be conclusive. But at any rate the new explanation is more convincing than the familiar superstition that warts result from touching a load, and can be charmed away by hocus-pocus with a peach twig.

Belief in such charms has been fostered by the fact that warts often disappear suddenly. Also they seem peculiarly susceptible to suggestion, and the belief that a wart will disappear can make it vanish.

A correspondent writes The Sun asking where the frogs come from that fall like rain after a thunder storm. The question is one that has puzzled many people who wondered if the frogs came from some other planet. But they belong to our planet. They were taken up into the clouds by a waterspout that draws the water from ponds under certain conditions of the atmosphere. When the disturbance ceases the frogs fall back to the earth. A short time ago a great shower of frogs fell in Rhode Island. Nobody knew where they came from. They might have been carried many bridge police testified yesterday afternoon that he arrested "Brownie" Kennedy under the name of "Helen A. Morse," Jan. 19, 1918, in a raid on suite 6,353 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge; that he identified her as the former keeper of Mishawum Manor, and convicted her in the Cambridge court; that on her appeal she defaulted, and that he asked Tufts for a capias for her arrest. In conclusion he declared that although Tufts promised to send the capias, he never did.

Ralph N. Smith, assistant clerk of the superior court for Middlesex, presented the original records against "Brownie" Kennedy and "Helen A. Morse, alias Lillian Dale," showing how cases were placed on file by Mr. Tufts, and also presented the record of an affidavit, executed by Dist. Atty. Tufts, averring that the reason the case of "Helen A. Morse," for selling liquor, was placed on file, was because she was out of the commonwealth. The Fresho evidence is depended on by the commonwealth to hear out the allegation that Tufts made a false affidavit, since Sergt. Fresho avers he told Tufts he knew she was in Brookline.

On a Window Sill

Sergt. Fresho was corroborated to some extent by Lieut. Wyman of the Cambridge police, who testified he found "Brownie" in her pajamas, straddling the window sill in the attempt to escape via the balcony. One man, James G. Whitney, and three girls as witnesses, were also taken into custody, together with two and a half pints of champagne, 10 bottles of beer, and some glasses.

The "and" of most importance in the present case, however, was the "Brownie" book, containing the names of men of consequence in the community, and of girls, and money paid, and a big bundle of cancelled checks, numbering nearly 100, also slips, used at Mishawum Manor in her business. The attempt on the part of Mr. Huriburt to introduce these literary curiosities met with fierce objections from the defence.

Never Showed Exhibits

As for a "bitter quarrel" between Capt. Hurley of the Cambridge police and Tufts, the witness admitted that there has been a "disagreement," but didn't know that Tufts had ordered Hurley out of the district attorney's office "because of an attempt to influence the jury in the Harris case."

Sergt. Fresho denied that he had always stood with Hurley. Admitting that he had never shown the exhibits to Tufts, the witness averred, that "Mr. Tufts said I needn't bring the evidence." The name under which "Brownie" was arraigned in Cambridge was "Helen A. Morse, alias Lillian Dale," because "Dale" was on her door-plate, and she sometimes went under that name, but the witness informed the clerk of the court that her name was Kingston.

Didn't Ask For Information

Lieut. Charles W. Wyman corroborated Fresho as to the raid, and declared Dist. Atty. Tufts never asked him to go to the window sill where they were drawn into the air.

Chivalrous as our natures may be, we are sometimes forced to admit to ourselves that certain characteristics of certain of the ladies are somewhat of an irritant. These are the wives who occasionally intrude into our care the purchase of more simple family groceries often find ourselves marooned before cashier's windows, because a female ahead of us evinces no haste to gather up her change. Standing directly in front of the opening, she opens her purse, carefully counts her pennies, nickels, dimes, transacts other mysterious business, and when she is through meditating she moves aside to allow us to pay for our goods. I have never yet seen a man do this trick.

Men invariably glance behind them when at the cashier's desk, and if anyone is waiting, they hurriedly gather up their money and move to one side. Whereas the average woman doesn't give a hoot, apparently, whether you miss your car, lose your temper, or are otherwise physically or mentally inconvenienced. Sublimely self-centered, she attends to her concerns, and the devil take the individuals whom she inconveniences.

for any information concerning the case. Questions as to whether Fresho told the witness of his talk with Tufts concerning "Brownie" were excluded on objections by the defense.

Probation Officer James P. Ramsey of the superior court testified that it is his business to obtain the records of defendants, and he remembered the Kingston case. He obtained the woman's record from the probation officer at Woburn. The defence interposed objection, and Atty.-Gen. Allen said he purposed to show that the record of this woman was in the possession of the probation officer long before any of the cases against her were disposed of, and Mr. Tufts disposed of them without inquiry of the probation officer and had knowledge that the woman was the same under the different aliases.

Chief Justice Rugg inquired of Mr. Allen: "Do you claim that was ever communicated to Mr. Tufts?"

The court, after further colloquy, excluded further questioning along that line, except that the witness was allowed to say that he was not consulted by Tufts before the cases against "Brownie" were disposed of. In cross-examination, undertaken by Senior Counsel Johnson, the witness was led to state that his office is not a part of the district attorney's, that he does not report to the district attorney but to the court direct; and that he is never consulted by the district attorney in defaulted cases when the defendant is not in court.

Tells of Barney Case

Mr. Bresnahan, now a member of the bar, told of Barney's escape, May 30, 1920, and how on the next night, at midnight, he came to the home of the witness, 67 Montgomery street, Cambridge. He saw Barney three or four times in North Cambridge, the last time on a lumber pile in Russell's field, and in Northampton, June 30, going there with Inspector O'Donnell, following the receipt of a letter, and finding Barney at the house of Joseph Melrose. After two trips to Boston, the witness went to Greenfield, and Dist. Atty. Tufts appeared at 2 a. m. in his automobile.

Ralph N. Smith, clerk of the Cambridge court, identified the original court records against "Brownie" showing that in the Woburn court she was fined $100 and given four months, on the charge of selling liquor at Mishawum Manor, and sentenced to six months for keeping a house of ill-fame. On her appeal the cases were returnable the first Monday in June, 1917. On June 27 she pleaded guilty on the liquor charge and paid a fine of $100, the other case being continued, and on Nov. 18 it was placed on file.

Helen A. Morse, alias Lillian Dale, was sentenced Jan. 24, 1918, to six months for keeping a house of ill-fame in Cambridge. Chief McDermott of the Woburn police being one of the witnesses against her. She appealed. On her appeal, the case was returnable in February. On Sept. 27 the case was placed on file. She also appealed from a fine of $100 on the liquor charge, which case was returnable in February. On March 13 the case was called, and the security defaulted. On Nov. 4 the case was placed on file.

Attached to the papers was an affidavit, signed by Nathan A. Tufts, averring that:

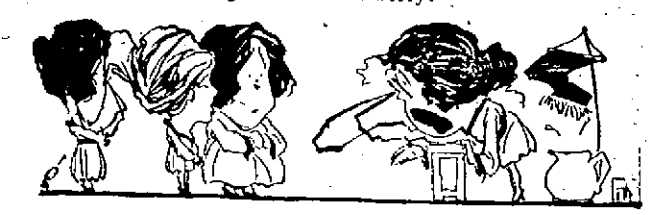

"The above case was entered in February. Since that time every effort has been made to apprehend her, but

SAY, every so often some minister guy,
Or maybe some college professor,
Insists the American Girl is too fly,
Too flip, and too classy a dresser;
They pan her, I know, but it's only because Their brains are all dusty and furry;
She's as straight and as good as her grandmother was,
The kid is all right—we should worry!

SHE knows things her grandmother didn't it's true,
And isn't afraid to disclose 'em;
She's wise to the world and she's fond of it, too,
She's "joe" to the men, for she knows 'em.
In sport and in business, at work and at play,
She can size up a bunch in a hurry;
And the guy who is brash gets the razz right away—
The kid is all right—we should worry!

SHE dances a lot, the American Girl,
She swims in a bathing suit scanty;
She lives in a sort of perpetual whirl
That shocks every middle-aged auntie.
But she's square and she's true in the big things of life,
Though she hands the old fogies a flurry;
A man is in luck if he gets her for wife—

she is reported to have left this commonwealth." The affidavit was executed before Clerk Smith as justice of the peace.

The Stearns Case
Only once did he raise his voice to even his ordinary tone. That was when Mr. Huriburt demanded if Coakley did not go to Long Island within the fortnight to interview Mrs. Stearns, who is accused by the government of being a conspirator, with Tufts, to induce her former husband to commit a crime that she might obtain a divorce. The witness denied that he knew her deposition was to be taken and defended his attempt to induce her to come to Boston and testify.

Mrs. Stearns is now Mrs. Benjamin Sewall. Coakley said: "Mrs. Sewall and I were charged with a criminal transaction, and I went there to induce her to come to Boston to testify here because I knew that if she came here and she testified before these worthy gentlemen and they took one look at her, they would know it wasn't true."

The papers he took down there, he said, "were newspapers and others" to show her the whole situation. They were the only two papers in the Stearns case that haven't been stolen.

False Claims.

WE hope there is no Mother who thinks she can treat her sick baby without calling in a Physician, or with remedies that she uses for herself.

Most Mothers know that Baby requires remedies especially prepared for babies, yet there are some who think that what is good enough for them is good enough for Baby, and it is to these Mothers we appeal to give nothing to their babies that is not specially prepared for babies or recommended by their Physician.

Your own judgment tells you that Fletcher's Castoria having for over thirty years at great expense held up its reputation, must jealously guard it. IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION

Constitution and By-Laws
Improvement Association

Members to Attend Hearing on Question of Paying
Lakeview Avenue

The members of the newly organized Centralville Improvement Association, over 100 strong, will attend in a body the hearing to be held Tuesday evening before the city council relative to the paying of Lakeview Avenue. This decision was taken last night at a gathering of the body at the Varnum school, where unanimous endorsement was given to the petition for paying the Avenue from Bridge street to the Drazot line. The organization will be officially represented at the council session by a committee of five, namely, John J. McFadden, chairman; Henry H. Harris, Thomas B. Delaney, John J. Mahoney, and Charles L. Cordeau. These were elected last evening. The presence of the complete membership of the association to back up the demands of the committee will, it is hoped, exercise an energizing influence upon the councilors.

Other important business which was transacted included the adoption of a constitution and by-laws. These were drawn up by a committee appointed at the meeting held last Wednesday evening in the hall of the Greenhalge school. The committee comprises the following members: Dr. Michael A. Tighe, Rev. Karl P. Meister, and Thomas B. Delaney. Their report was submitted to the gathering, and the matter of accepting the constitution arranged by them was taken up. The document was voted on article by article, until the twelve articles had all found favor. The name tentatively given at the last meeting, of "The Centralville Improvement Association," was finally chosen, and incorporated into the constitution as the first article. A president, four vice presidents, a secretary and a treasurer, it was voted, were to constitute the officers, and were to be elected at the annual meeting scheduled for the second Wednesday of September in each year.

It was decided that those eligible to membership should include all residents of the Centralville district over twenty-one years of age, while those eligible to active membership should embrace all those specified as eligible who should present their names and addresses to the secretary. Besides an annual meeting on the second Wednesday of September, it was determined that there should be a regular meeting on the second Wednesday of each month, held alternately at the Varnum and Greenhalge schools.

During the course of the session the matter of bond concerns, hotly discussed at the previous gathering, again was the subject of speeches. It was pointed out by Secretary Garmon that the season for concerts will soon have arrived, and that if Centralville seeks to be recognized as entitled to a share of these municipal enterprises, instant action should be launched. The consensus of opinion was to the effect that a committee should wait upon the honorable city authorities and notify them that "at least, Centralville is alive." It was referred to by members that in days gone by, some fifteen years ago, Centralville was deemed not unworthy of band concerts, but that since those ancient times the section has been blithely ignored when schedules of concerts have been made out by the municipal potentates.

Prior to adjournment, Rev. Mr. Meister suggested that all who had not already given their names to the secretary do so before leaving the hall, so that a "working list" might be compiled. It was announced by the secretary at the conclusion of the meeting that more than one hundred members are already on the roster of active participation in the designs of the body, and that many more have signified their intention to join in the near future. The complete constitution and by-

Lieut. Vurgaropoulos who is twenty-nine years of age and a lawyer by profession has served in the Greek army for the past four years and has acquitted himself well. He is now commanding a company of machine gunners and expects to carry off more honors in the projected offensive against the hereditary enemies of his fatherland.

FANCY FIRE SCREENS

The fireless grate is with us for a period of months. Sometimes, without its flame the grate is an unlovely affair. Thus the problem of a screen becomes one of importance.

That the coloring and arrangement of the screen can enhance or destroy the beauty of the room goes without saying. For it is in such details that a home finds perfection or imperfection.

Renovation

The simple two or three fold screen is easily altered and renewed to suit the new decoration of the room. First the old material should be removed and the frame cleaned well, repainted if need be.

The new filling can then be selected and tacked in place. Soft folded silk is always effective, but the other day I discovered in the home of a friend a screen which had been charmingly renewed with the use of nothing more extravagant than crepe paper.

The paper was placed in three frills, one above the other, because it was not quite wide enough to go the full length.

Colors

Hand embroidered panels of burlap are a pretty filling for a screen. If the design is rather a large plain one applique which is more quickly done, can be used effectively. For instance, if your screen is of old blue, applique of bright yellow or orange will give your room accents. If your screen is green the yellow or orange will be equally good. Yellow is also good on purple.

Some people prefer flowers and greenery as their grate screens. In that case of the old-fashioned, tiered wire cake stands is useful. Some sort of trailing green should be used. The plant is easily known as "Wandering Jew" makes a good basis for a screen of the greenery variety.

There are more than 150 steps inside the Statue of Liberty leading up to the head.

PART OF THE CROWD WHICH SAW LAST NIGHT'S GAME

Last evening on the South common the C.M.A.C. team completely outclassed the Gillespies, 3 to 1. The latter team still remains at the tail end of the league despite its heroic efforts to extricate itself from the basement. The game was notable for its scarcity of hits and a plentiful supply of errors. It was also notable in that it introduced two new pitchers into the league, both of whom displayed their wares to considerable advantage. Hobson for the victors proved that he had plenty of steam and a wicked curve that kept his opponents guessing. Sullivan was almost as good.

In the first inning Hubert of the C.M.A.C. started things in the good old-fashioned manner by whacking out a lousy single to left, McGowan followed with a similar crack to the right, and McMahon made a hero of himself by laying out a beautiful sacrifice to fly to the left fielder, springing Hubert. C. Marcotte then fled to the first base and the side was retired. In the fifth the same team got two more. Pare, who was the first at bat, grabbed off a good single to right and the next moment he fooled Twilley Sullivan by going down to second after the latter had made a wretched attempt to nail him at the first sack. Then an easy one off the bat of Hobson slid into Stanton's hands at second. Stanton had plenty of time to nail Pare at the plate but missed his cue and threw to first. Pare scored. Then Reynolds, a very fast young man, took first when Dean made a slight muck. The next moment he streaked down to second on a wild pitch and scored when O'Hare muffed what looked like an easy fly off Hubert's bat.

In the sixth inning the Gillespies got their one tally. Adams plunked to the initial sack on a slow grounder to short. Bird was assaulted by the pitcher, and Williams whacked to right. The bases were now full. McMahon handled Tuohy's grounder in fine shape but made a rotten throw to the plate and Adams scored. Brosnan and Willard proved to be easy outs and the side was retired. After the sixth the spectators might just as well have gone home for nothing more was doing. The score:

Willard, who replaced Stanton at second for the Gillespies, proved to be a capable young man in the field. His work made him popular with the crowd as was shown by the fact that he was applauded liberally when he came to the bat for the first time.

Ray Reynolds was Johnny-on-the-spot at short.

Tonight's game will fracture the triple tie for the leadership of the league.

Sullivan hails from Pepperell. He put up a creditable exhibition.

Hobson, who occupied the mound for the C.M.A.C. is a local boy and entirely new to twilight baseball.

(By Newspaper Enterprise)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 14.—The highest honor in American golf.

It will be at stake when golfers from all over the world gather on July 19, 20 and 21, at the fashionable Columbia Country club, at Chevy Chase, Maryland, near Washington, to battle for the U. S. open championship.

This year's meet, the 25th annual affair, is expected to be one of the most spectacular in years. And several outstanding factors indicate that expectations will ring more than true.

Keen Competition

For instance, at present an Englishman, Ted Ray, is holder of the coveted American golf honor. And at the same time, an American, Jock Hutchingson, is holder of the English open championship.

These two tracks will be on hand at Columbia—Ray to defend his title, 135 acres of rolling country and 11 of the 18 holes have natural brook hazards.

President Harding, who dedicated the fifth hole of the Columbia course, will present the capital prize to the winner, on the final day.

Both Know Course

At the outset there appears to be no advantage held by either man. Both Ray and Jock have played the Columbia course and are well acquainted with its bunkers, traps, greens and fairways.

Last year, when Ray, after winning the U. S. title at Inverness club in Toledo, O., toured America and played on 80 golf courses, he pronounced Columbia course prize of them all.

Should Hutchingson be on form and fail to carry away honors, America will still have distinguished stars in the field in Chick Evans, Bobby Jones, Louis Diegle, Jim Barnes and many others.

Elaborate Plans

Elaborate arrangements are being made at Columbia. The course covers 135 acres of rolling country and 11 of the 18 holes have natural brook hazards.

President Harding, who dedicated the fifth hole of the Columbia course, will present the capital prize to the winner, on the final day.

FASTEST RACE OF YEAR

Periscope Wins In Three Straight on Grand Circuit in Toledo

TOLEDO, O., July 14.—Periscope, which established the trotting record for the season at 2:03 1/4 at North Randall last week, was the sensational performer of the Grand Circuit races at Fort Miami park yesterday, beating a high-class field in the $5000 Maumee state for 2:05 trotters in the fastest three-heat race of the season.

Driven by her owner, J. L. Dodge, the little mare played with the field in all three heats, trotting right to her record of 2:03 1/4 in the second mile. The program was long drawn out, both the 2:17 and 2:13 trots requiring extra heats.

Periscope sold for $500 in the auction. Ante Guy and Charley Rex, coupled as the Murphy entry, bringing $175, Peter Coley $105, Millie Irwin $10 and the field $10. Peter Coley led at the half in the first heat, but Periscope trotted around him on the upper turn and had no trouble in winning. Charley Rex beat the start in the next two heats, but he stayed in front only until Dodge gave the favorite her head when she outthrew the old gelding with speed in the home stretch.

The favorite Walter K was easily the best in the first two heats of the 2:10 pace, but was nosed out in the final by Bush mare Lady May. Peter Belter was the choice for the 2:17 trot, but after winning the first heat he could not land. Dan Aubrey won the race, the $2 mutual tickets on him in the second heat paying $177.60, the longest of the day.

Betty Thornton won the field down in the 1:13 trot. Sis Ring, winner of the first heat, splitting a hoof in the third and being drawn. The summary:

FAME FOR THE WHITE SOX

Team Gets Reputation for Not Being Defeated Until Last Man is Out

CHICAGO, July 14.—Fans who attend the baseball games at Comiskey park, the home of the Chicago White Sox, no longer leave in droves when the sixth or seventh innings have passed and with the home team apparently hopelessly beaten.

For the Sox despite their occupancy today of seventh place in the American league, have established a reputation for being whirlwind finishers and for being defeated until the last man is out.

Since their return home from the eastern invasion, the Sox have scored 30 runs in nine games. They have won four games and 25 of the runs have been made in the seventh, eighth, ninth or extra innings. In a recent game with the New York Yankees the Sox were trailing 3 to 0 at the end of the sixth inning. In the seventh inning, however, they scored three runs in the eighth, four in the ninth and won the game with a run in the 10th inning.

In yesterday's game with Washington, the Sox scored four runs in the ninth inning and came within one run of tying the score, losing the game. On Tuesday against the same team Chicago launched another last minute attack that netted three runs but lost the game, 8 to 7.

PENNSYLVANIA HORSE WINS FAST PACE

B HD PENNSYLVANIA SPRINGFIELD, July 14.—Jackson Gratton, 2:03 1/4, owned by H. C. Pratt of Erie, Pa., featured the opening of the Short Ship racing in this city yesterday afternoon on the Eastern states exposition twice-around, by winning over the 12th mile Mary Connor, 2:10 1/4. In straight heats, in the 2:10 pace, Gratton's horse turned in a good day work going the distance in the first heat in 2:04 1/4, the best time for a mile in this circuit this year.

The Quaker entry was forced to do his best, for Fred Hyde's hopped pacer was on his trail all the time. The last mile between the two was a neck-and-neck proposition down the home stretch with Jackson Gratton having a little the best of the drive.

The meeting also furnished the first defeat of the season of Julia C. in the 2-year-old trot. Chon Suay of the Sunbeam stables of Birmingham, N. Y., a smooth-gaited stepper, topped the summary in the roll event after dropping the first heat to Crossman's filly. Dave Warman was successful in bringing his Providence trotter, Ruby Aubrey, a victor from a field of 11 starters in the 2:17 trot.

MATCH RACE AT GOLDEN COVE CALLED OFF

Nothing doing on the match race between Lawton's and Dunnigan's horses which was being planned for Saturday afternoon at Golden Cove park. Final agreements were to have been drawn up at the meeting of the Lowell Driving club Tuesday evening, but there was a knot in the proceedings that could not be untied. It seemed a simple matter at first and one that could be easily brushed aside, but it proved a snarl. It all had to do with the fact that Dunnigan insisted that the men who owned the horses should drive them. He wouldn't have it any other way. Mr. Lawton said he did not want to drive his horse. He wanted the boy who has been taking care of him, he said, to have the honor of driving and winning the race. He said he did not care who drove Dunnigan's horse. The sense of the meeting was that the owners should drive, but Mr. Lawton held firm to his decision not to drive and the race was called off.

To improve your golf game you must have the best clubs. Dickerman & McQuade has them and at prices that are reasonable.

SQUARE PLAYER COOLS IRE OF HOME FANS

(By Newspaper Enterprise)

WAHPETON, N. D., July 14.—Clean baseball scored another point recently, in a game between Wahpeton-Breckenridge and Huron, in the Dakota League.

In the ninth inning, with the score 3 to 2, in Huron's favor, a Wahpeton-Breckenridge man got on base and was advanced to third.

Close Decision

The next batter grounded to the shortstop who elected to try for the man at the plate. The ball shot home for a close decision and the runner was called out.

Wahpeton-Breckenridge fans went wild. They hurled pop bottles and cushions at the emps.

In the meantime Roy Patterson, former star in the American association, and now hurler and pilot on the Wahpeton team, had walked behind the plate and watched the close play.

The game quieted down immediately and he held up his hands. An instant hush fell over the fans.

Roy Tells 'Em

"I saw the play myself," said Patterson. "Our man was out. The umpire was correct. If you have any fight take it out on our base-runner."

The fans quieted down immediately. "Never saw anything like that before in baseball," said Mike Cantillon, president of the Dakota league. "It shows you what sort of a fellow Patterson is."

CONNIE'S CHATTER RINGS REASONABLE

And now Connie Mack expresses absolute confidence that his Athletics will be up there fighting for the top position in the 1922 baseball race in the American league.

Perhaps this will cause many fans to smile—"what do you mean, the lowly Athletics up in the first division?"

You have got to have a keen appreciation of the ability to patiently wait—and smile—in order to see where Connie is not talking through his hat.

Early this season the Athletics—all youngsters—looked poor, on paper. They were the experience. They were greenies.

Connie knew this as well as anybody.

He is devoting this season to taking the greenies out of the kids.

The baseball they are playing in the second half of the season is a big improvement better than that of the first half.

Next season the crowd will have been thoroughly trained in playing together. Every man will have had an education in the green circles. There will be no old timers ready for the minor leagues. Instead, all newcomers.

Doesn't it sound like there was something to Connie's chatter?

YANKS EAT OUT OF HIS HAND

Though the highly Yankees should probably be highly respected, there is one member of the lowly White Sox who cannot be taken that way at all. He is "Web" Dicky Kerr, hurler of the Chicago ball crew.

This diminutive 5 foot 7 moundsman has absolutely failed to consider that

DICKY KERR

The Yankees are fighting for first place in the American league while his team is fighting to keep out of the cellar. He has slipped forth in his last four contests against Yank sluggers and showed them a sweet quartet of trimmings.

"Jump," says Dicky—and the Yanks jump. He's had 'em eating out of his hand, and recently they have failed to baffle the mit that has been serving them—outs and ins and drops.

SIDE-WHEELER SINGLE G. IS DRAWING CARD

TOLEDO, O., July 14.—Single G, 145, known as the world's greatest pacer, is the chief drawing card on today's Grand Circuit racing program at Fort Miami track. The Indian side-wheeler is listed as a starter in the free-for-all pace for a purse of $1200. The competitors will be Louis Gratton and Sanardo.

Fifteen horses are named as starters in the 20.8 Fort Miami trotting stake worth $3000. This is an open race and horsemen believe the time will be around 2:04 as the track is fast. The Teddler, a big winner at North Randall last week, is one of the starters.

THE FISHING QUESTION

Commissioner Adams Coming Here to Talk Over Fishway Proposition

Director Adams of the Massachusetts game commission has evidently had change of heart and has finally decided to countenance the re-establishment of a fishway at Pawtucket falls.

It would have rejoiced the heart of the late and lamented president of the Lowell Fish and Game association, Simon B. Harris, had he lived to witness the change in attitude of the game commission. He had worked hard and earnestly for the restoration of the fishway. He appeared before commission members, legislative committees and in other ways sought, tooth and nail, to put the project through for he fervently believed that salmon would come back to the Merrimack as of yore if accommodations were provided them to negotiate the passage between Rye and Lawrence, the best Mr. Harris succeeded in getting as the result of years of hard and earnest work was a sort of promise that if the fishway at Lawrence should prove a success, if it functioned properly and proved sufficiently attractive to bring the salmon, the commission might then deem it feasible to restore the fishway here.

The following letter received yesterday by Secretary Holt of the Lowell Fish and Game association tells of the proposed visit of Director Adams here in connection with the fishway:

Mr. Willis S. Holt, Secretary, Lowell Fish and Game Association, Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir: Director Adams has just phoned me that he is planning on visiting Lowell on next Tuesday, July 19, in company with Commissioner Emmeley and Engineer Hayward to confer with officials of the Locks and Canals Canal and members of the Lowell Fish and Game association relative to the matter of a fishway at the Pawtucket dam.

He would appreciate it very much if you and other representatives of the association could meet them at the Pawtucket dam at 10 a. m. to go over the situation.

May we hear from you as to whether or not you or other representatives of the association will be present at that date?

Very truly yours,
Acting Chief Warden.

BUSTER BOY WINS AT WOODSTOCK, N. B.

WOODSTOCK, N. B., July 14.—The pating duel between Buster Boy, by Calhoun, and C. J. Hanson of Presque Isle, picked up at Chicago last winter, and Fern Hal, the veteran campaigner owned by Dr. D. H. McAllister of Sussex, N. B. was the feature of racing here yesterday. Buster Boy won in straight heats.

Sackhouse, the Northern Man pacer owned by K. M. Colbath of Presque Isle, Me., took better to the footings of the track than some of the other high-class pacers in the 2:30 class and won in straight heats.

Sankia, the St. Stephen trotter, was the only Provincial race winner, having a good margin in her favor in the 2:21 trot. Almost 5000 people were present.

LILLIPUTIAN WIELDS WICKED MASHIE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—If it takes a six-foot gaffer 32 strokes to make an 18-hole course, how long would it take a three-foot player to make the same course?

No, you're wrong. The proportions don't work out that way. Miss Vashak, 36 inches high, of the Orpheum Singer Midgets, has been showing golfers on the Pacific coast that height doesn't make so much difference after all. She says she's closer to the ball, and can handle her strokes more accurately.

Stillman Case Witness Expected to Testify to Congenial Marriage Relations

Steward to be Called to Relate Story of Doings on Yacht "Modesty"

"Glad to Get News" Comments Mrs. Stillman When Told of Trial Developments

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 14.—H. Phelps Clawson, son of a wealthy Buffalo manufacturer, was called today to testify for Mrs. Anne U. Stillman, defendant in the divorce action brought by James A. Stillman, wealthy New York banker.

It was said Mr. Clawson would tell of visits which the banker made to his estate in the Pocantico Hills on three occasions in January, 1918, while Mrs. Stillman was there.

He would testify, it was said, that the husband and wife apparently were congenial and happy together and that Mr. Stillman twice during the month remained overnight on the estate. Guy Stillman was born the following autumn.

Frank Murphy, who was a steward on the Stillman yacht Modesty, was expected to testify today regarding alleged misconduct between Mr. Stillman and Florence H. Leeds, former Broadway show girl, named by Mrs. Stillman in her amended answer to her husband's complaint.

"Glad to Receive News"

CHICAGO, July 14.—Mrs. Anne U. Stillman of New York, who is residing at the Harold McCormick estate in Lake Forest, Ill., today made only the briefest comment over what her lawyers called her victory yesterday at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., over her husband, James A. Stillman, banker, in his suit for divorce.

"I am very glad to receive the news," was all she would say. Her lawyers' jubilation was caused by a statement by the banker's counsel that evidence in support of allegations of intimacy between the banker and Florence Leeds, a former show girl, would not be disputed.

After half a dozen witnesses had testified yesterday to intimate relations between James A. Stillman and Florence H. Leeds, former Broadway show girl, the banker's counsel declared they would not dispute or contradict the evidence and asked Referee Gleason to rule that "no further evidence be required as to the adultery of the plaintiff."

The referee denied the request after it had evoked protests from the lawyers representing Mrs. Anne U. Stillman, the defendant.

Col. William Rand, of Mr. Stillman's corps of attorneys, was quoted as saying that "there being sufficient evidence to prove one adultery—and we frankly state that we will not attempt to contradict it—no occasion exists for adding further proof except to satisfy a purblind public."

CONTRACT PAVING

Chamber of Commerce Secretary Airs His Views

"It's largely bunk," said Secretary George P. Wells of the chamber of commerce this morning in discussing the contention that under the proposed contract paving system the city would be the money of a combination of the big contractors. Mr. Wells expressed an opinion that a lot of the current talk about graft and other similar abuses is unfounded and said that the administration has failed in paving work not because of graft but because of inefficiency. "Cities where the charges of graft have been most rife, the street paving has been done at one-third less expense than in Lowell," he said.

Mr. Wells said that unless something is done to stem the tide of rising expense the city will surely have a tax rate of $40 in a very few years. According to his idea the city government is inefficient because it is almost impossible to choose a good executive by popular election. He favors the new charter because it increases the salary of the mayor, a factor which might help to attract more efficient men to run for the office.

It is the opinion of the chamber of commerce headquarters that the fact that the coming election will be held during the vacation season will not have an unfavorable effect upon the results. "I think that the fact that large numbers of people are out of town will affect the opponents of the measure as much as it will affect the proponents," said Secretary Wells. A number of people have already signified their intention of returning to this city from their vacations for the purpose of voting on the question.

MUST NOT BE EXPOSED FOR SALE

Despite the warning recently given through the press by Agent Francis J. O'Hare of the health department against dealers' exposing decayed fruit for sale, at least one local dealer with place of business in the downtown district failed to heed the request of the health department and this morning Agent O'Hare was forced to order this particular dealer to remove a lot of decayed bananas from his stand. The law very plainly and explicitly states that decayed food must not be sold nor exposed for sale.

VOTING PLACES CHANGED

Election Commissioner Makes Preparations for Special Election Here

The board of election commissioners at a meeting last evening outlined plans for the part it is to play in the special election on Aug. 9 on the petition of the chamber of commerce, that street construction work here be done by contract.

In the first place it was voted to have the polls open on that date from 6 a. m. to 4 p. m. However, these hours may possibly be changed later as the trades and labor council is to submit a petition to the board asking that the hours be from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. so that laboring men will have an opportunity to vote.

It was also voted to have at least one session of registration before the special election. This will be a continuous session from 12 noon to 10 p. m. on Thursday, Aug. 4. Other sessions may be held if the demand warrants.

A number of changes in the location of polling booths have also been made by the election commissioners. Precinct 1 of ward 2, formerly located near the city library, has been changed to the basement of the Green grammar school in Merrimack street.

Precinct 1 of Ward 3, formerly a booth in Branch street, will hereafter be in the carriage shed of the branch street engine house.

Precinct 1 of Ward 4, formerly a booth in Highland street at its junction with South, will hereafter be on the South common near the Edison school instead of outside in the street.

Precinct 3 of Ward 5, formerly in the old Fayette school building which was recently torn down, will now be in the kindergarten of the schoolhouse in Lower High street.

Precinct 1 of Ward 9, formerly upstairs in the High street engine house, the only precinct in the city where voters have been compelled to climb stairs, will hereafter be downstairs in the former carriage shed of the engine house.

These changes, where firehouses and schoolhouses are involved, have been made through the courtesy of the Commissioner John P. Salmon of the water and fire department and the officials of the school department.

The juices of clover and alfalfa are added to destroy the tuberculous germ, according to the American Institute of Homeopathy. Use of the grass juices has aided in fights against the disease in the treatment of former service men at the Alpine sanatorium. The treatment calls for well-selected food, the utilization of rays, energies and vibrations, and for surroundings of a cheerful nature.

RALLY TO SAVE BOOZE

Wheeler Declares Medical Beer Fight Intended to Destroy Law Enforcement

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Declaring that "the eleventh hour rally in the senate to save medical beer as a substitute for booze shows the purpose of the opposition to destroy prohibition enforcement," Wayne R. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league, in a statement today said:

"The proposed law limiting prescription of alcohol to physicians in a protection to that large percent of the medical profession, who are true to their ideals."

"The anxiety of the irreconcilable wets like Senator Wadsworth, about bringing prohibition into disrepute with the pending bill fools no one," Mr. Wheeler continued.

"If some of these violent opponents of prohibition thought this bill would accomplish that purpose they would not oppose it. The real friends of the 15th amendment are not disturbed over the enactment of a measure that means honest law enforcement."

MANY PERFECT PLAYS

Braves Win Two Contests, Making Total of Seven Straight Victories

NEW YORK, July 14.—A total of 148 perfect plays were made in the double-header between the Boston and Chicago Nationals at Boston yesterday. The Braves won both contests, scratching their winning streak to seven straight victories. In the second contest the Cubs outbatted their opponents and made four extra base hits to one for the Braves.

Hits were frequent in the American league contests. The total for the Washington-Chicago game was 25 and the Senators won despite seven errors and a four run rally by the White Sox in the ninth inning. Twenty-six hits were made in the New York-St. Louis and the Boston-Cleveland contests and 21 in the Philadelphia-Detroit game. All of the Yankee players hit the ball and pitcher Mays knocked out a home run.

The feat of making three home runs in one game was performed by two American association players yesterday. Jim Thorne, for National league player and noted in football and athletics, who is now with Toledo, and "Hunny" Brief of Kansas City were the slingers.

COX WANTS PEOPLE TO UPHOLD HARDING

(Special to The Sun) BOSTON, July 14.—Americans without regard to political affiliations should uphold the president in his program of limitation of armament, Gov. Cox states today in a statement to the people of the state on the president's plan.

Says Gov. Cox, "President Harding's message to the principal allied power calling for a conference on the limitation of armaments has deservedly received the commendation of citizens of every walk of life in America and of many of the large European powers. It is a great forward step in a sane and practical manner to limit the tremendous expenditures for armament and one which gives promise of practical operation without in any way endangering the safety of the nation involved. This act of President Harding will be considered in the years to come as a wise, practical and statesmanlike effort to solve one of the really great problems of our time. American citizens without regard to political affiliations should uphold the president in this program and earnestly hope for his success."

Armed Bandits Get Truckload of Alcohol

ALLENTOWN, Pa., July 14.—Four armed motor bandits held up David Linderman of Egypt, Pa., early today, and after a lively fight succeeded in escaping with a truckload of whiskey and alcohol, which Linderman was bringing from Ambler. Despite death threats, Linderman held one of the men until a policeman arrived.

Courtroom Crowded as Charge is Delivered in Sacco-Vanzetti Case

Judge Says Real Issue for Jury to Determine is One of Identity

DEDHAM, July 14.—The jury in the trial of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti for the murder of a paymaster and his guard at South Braintree last year, was charged by Judge Webster Thayer today to seek courage in its deliberations, "such as was typified by the American soldier boy as he fought and gave up his life upon the battlefields of France."

The Italian consul, Marquis A. Ferrante and Vice Consul Silvio Vitale occupied front seats in the bar enclosure under the judge's charge. The courtroom was crowded as the judge began to speak, and flowers banked the bench.

Crimes Affect Safety

"Crimes committed affect the safety of human lives, the sanctity of homes and the security of private and public rights," Judge Thayer said.

"The law grants to every person the same rights and privileges and imposes upon each corresponding duties, obligations and responsibilities. For whoever is willing to accept the blessings of government, should be perfectly willing to serve with fidelity that same government."

"In the administration of our laws there is and should be no distinction between parties. Under our law all classes of society, the poor and the rich, the learned and the ignorant, the most powerful citizen as well as the humblest, the believer as well as the unbeliever, the radical as well as the conservative, the foreign-born as well as the native born, are entitled to and should receive the same rights, privileges and consideration as the logic of law, reason and sound judgment, justice and common sense demand."

Pleas Against Prejudice

"I therefore beseech you not to allow the fact that the defendants are Italians to influence or prejudice you in the least degree. They are entitled to the same rights and consideration as though their ancestors came over in the Mayflower."

"The law does not require proof so positive, so unerring and convincing that it amounts to a mathematical or absolute certainty. You might obtain proof of that character in the exact sciences, but not in human investigations. For you must remember that we are all engaged in human investigations in which all the evidence must be considered, weighed and determined by jurors who are human beings."

The judge instructed the jury on the degrees of murder, first and second, carrying respectively, the death penalty and life imprisonment.

The Real Issue

The real issue that you must determine is a very narrow one," he said. "It is one of identity. Although the evidence has been voluminous, yet a jury could hardly have an issue more narrow for its determination than the one involved in these cases. That murder in the first degree has been committed there seems to be little or no dispute, according to the arguments of counsel. But there is a most strenuous contest or dispute as to the identity of the murderers."

"Identity may be established by direct or by circumstantial evidence. In the eyes of the law there is no important distinction between circumstantial evidence and any other kind of evidence introduced. Over positiveness in identification might, under some circumstances and conditions, be evidence of weakness in the testimony rather than strength. Certainty varies in degree. Any evidence that tends in any degree however slight to prove a likeness or similarity between the defendants and the assailants is admissible."

The Nickel-Plated Revolver

Judge Thayer pointed to the contested issue of the 38-calibre nickel-plated revolver found on Vanzetti. The state claims it was snatched by one of the murderers from the paymaster's guard before he died, and the defense claims that Vanzetti bought it from a friend several months before the crime. He also called upon the jury to determine whether the bullet which killed Berardelli was fired from the pistol found on Sacco, as claimed by the state, or by some other

It takes iron to make strong, magnetic, forceful men with the power and energy to win.

Many a capable intelligent man falls just short of success—nearly "gets there" but not quite—simply because he lacks sufficient iron in his blood to give him the physical strength and power to furnish the proper FORCE TO HIS BRAIN and the "STAY THERE" STRENGTH TO HIS "WILL."

THERE ARE 30,000,000,000,000 RED BLOOD CORPUSCLES IN YOUR BLOOD and each one must have iron as iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living cells and tissues and to carry oxygen from your lungs to your brain. Without this your brain cannot do its work right—THINK THE THOUGHTS THAT WIN—any more than a locomotive can pull a big train of cars with a weak, smoldering fire under its boiler.

WHEN YOUR BLOOD IS STARVING FOR IRON no mere tonics nor stimulants can put you right. You must have iron. To get iron you must eat the husks of grains and the peels and skins of fruits and vegetables as our forefathers did or take a little organic iron from time to time and eat more such iron-containing foods as spinach and apples. But be sure that the iron you take is organic iron and not metallic or mineral iron which people usually take. Metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the action of iron on acids on small pieces of iron, and is therefore an entirely different thing from organic iron. Organic iron is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. It may be had from your druggist under the name Nuxated Iron. Nuxated Iron is a concentrated form of iron in a highly condensed form that one dose of it is estimated to be approximately equivalent to eating one-half quart of spinach, one quart of green vegetables or half a dozen apples. It's like taking extract of beef instead of eating pounds of meat.

Over 4,000,000 people annually are using Nuxated Iron. It will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. A few doses will often commence to enrich your blood, give you new strength and energy and help revitalize your worn-out, exhausted nerves, and thereby will strengthen your will power and aid in restoring your falling memory. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results.

Beware of substitutes. Always insist on having genuine organic iron—Nuxated Iron. Look for the letters N. I. on every tablet. Sold by all druggists in tablet form only.—Adv.

REQUIEM MASSES

O'CONNOR—There will be an anniversary mass for the repose of the soul of Cora Teresa Fitzgerald O'Connor at the Sacred Heart church, Saturday morning, July 16, at 8 o'clock.

Weapons as contended by the defense.

Referring to the matter of consciousness of guilt, which the state claims Sacco and Vanzetti manifested because of their part in the murder, and which the defense claims they showed as draft dodgers and radicals, Judge Thayer said:

Innocence or Guilt

"The mind being conscious of every bodily act theretofore committed, it knows whether or not such act is one of innocence or guilt. It indicates guilt, that is evidence of self-consciousness of a guilty act, tending to prove the commission of such guilty act, and evidence of the commission of a criminal act tends to prove the identity of the author of such criminal act."

But the jury to find the defendants guilty, must be satisfied that any consciousness of guilt shown by Sacco or Vanzetti was related to the murder of Parmenter and Berardelli and not merely to the fact that the defendants were slackers or radicals, the judge explained.

This consciousness of guilt must be shown to connect alleged attempts of the defendants to draw their weapons when they were arrested for the South Braintree crime, if the jury finds they indeed tried to draw such weapons, Judge Thayer said.

Gravity of Crime

"If a person is willing to use a deadly weapon such as a revolver upon an arresting officer in order to gain his liberty, what would you naturally expect would be the gravity of the crime of which such person must be consciously guilty?" he asked.

INVESTIGATION OF CLOTHING TRADE

Nothing Like That Needed When One Considers the Bargains Offered by One of Our Local Clothing Stores

There's no need of an official investigation or inquiry into the local clothing trade, so far as the Merrimack Clothing Co. is concerned, unless it is to determine "how they can do it at such reasonable prices." If you have wondered at the prices quoted by this concern in the recent past, you will surely marvel at the Annual July Mark-Down Sale prices being quoted now.

Clothing is absolutely low in price at the present time. It's lower than it has been for some years and is lower than it will be in the fall, judging from present indications. Don't delay. Pick up the bargains while they're hot. To hesitate means a loss to you. The Merrimack Clothing Co., "across from city hall," is the place.

Think of purchasing an absolutely all wool $60 men's suit at $29.75, or a $40 suit at $24.50, or a $30 suit at $19.75! It seems quite improbable, doesn't it? If you "are from Missouri" and want to be shown, then step in and be convinced. Boys' clothing is also selling at about one-half the original selling cost, and men's shirts, neckwear, underwear and hosiery also show truly remarkable reductions. As for ladies' suits, coats and dresses, we can assure the shrewd purchaser a saving of from 25 to 50 per cent. Store open Friday night till 9 o'clock for your accommodation.—Adv.

Josephine Bolofsky, a twenty-three-year-old Lowell girl, was locked up last night without bail at the House of Detention, in Boston, charged with murder of her one-day-old baby boy. This action followed a trip to this city made by the girl in custody of Police Inspectors Campbell and Metting of the neighboring city. The journey was made by automobile, and its object was to test her story of the infant being strangled by another woman in a Lowell residence.

The Bolofsky girl's first story was to the effect that on July 4 the black bag, found containing the baby's body in the shrubbery lining the Charles river esplanade, was given her at Lowell by a Mary Lazofsky, who asked her to take it to Boston and get rid of it there. She persisted in this explanation even after being grilled at the Joy street station. However, Continued to Page Six

Four automobile accidents, one involving the injury of Bronis Yankauskas, a boy who was taken to St. John's hospital, suffering from a contusion of the right eye, occurred within a few hours of one another here today. Shortly before noon Norman Miller reported operating a car on Gorham street near Davis square, when a truck attempting to cross from Congress street became stalled and caused Miller's machine to crash into it sustaining considerable damage.

It was early in the afternoon that John H. Johnson notified the police that while operating his machine on East Merrimack street he knocked down the Yanvrupus boy, who ran from behind another car. Johnson picked the boy up and drove to the hospital with him.

Frank A. Frappier reported colliding with the machine of Allen H. Taylor of Rhode Island, on Nesmith street. Alfred W. Hurke reported operating a machine for Derby the electrician, on Westford street toward the rear by another machine the headlight of which was bent.

BOSTON, July 14.—Incidents surrounding the surrender of Herman L. Barney, an escaped murderer, whose return to prison by District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts of Middlesex county, has been made the basis of one of the charges on which Tufts' removal is sought, were described today by Stephen C. Bresnahan, a lawyer.

Bresnahan, who admitted in testimony before the supreme court yesterday, that Barney visited his house in North Cambridge at midnight on May 31, 1920, the day after he and two others escaped from the state prison, said he met him a month later in Northampton, at the home of Joseph Meisse. Bresnahan had gone there, he said, with Edward O'Halloran, a Newton police inspector. Three days later, while stopping at a Greenfield hotel, he was aroused about 2 a. m. and found Tufts and O'Halloran down stairs.

Talked With Stepfather
The three drove to the Northampton railroad station, where Tufts talked with Earl O. Barney, Herman's stepfather, urging the elder Barney to induce his son to surrender.

"You knew Mr. Tufts was a candidate for governor?" Assistant Attorney General Henry F. Hurshurst demanded of the witness.

Bresnahan replied that he knew he was not.

"You saw an announcement in the paper that he was?"

"I saw an announcement in the paper that he was not."

Convinced Tufts
Bresnahan said he had convinced Tufts that they could induce Barney to surrender and O'Halloran suggested that they talk with him. Bresnahan declined to tell where Barney was staying at any time, he said.

"I told them it was none of their business and if they wouldn't let me handle it our way, I'd wash my hands of the whole thing."

Up to that time, the witness said, no information so far as he knew, had been given to any police officer in Northampton or to the district attorney of that district as to Barney's whereabouts.

Wanted to See Mother
Barney would not agree to surrender unless he could see his mother, Bresnahan said. After two or three days, the witness took the elder Barney and his wife to Northampton. Asked if he saw Tufts at that time, he said he thought he saw him on the road behind him. They stopped by the roadside in Northampton, and Mr. and Mrs. Barney saw Herman. Later, the mother and father, O'Halloran, Tufts and the witness held a conference at the railroad station.

While Tufts waited at the station, Bresnahan said, he with Mr. and Mrs. Barney, drove to the home of Joseph Meisse and saw Barney. The fugitive agreed to surrender in three days and Bresnahan so reported to Tufts. The Continued to Page Seven

HAPPY GROUP OF STORE CLERKS ON WAY TO BEACH SNAPPED AT DEPOT

Ideal summer outing weather that made park and seashore welcome places of assembly characterized the annual get-togethers of the employees of various downtown stores today. A hot sun, clear air and just enough breeze to temper the heat furnished the atmospheric setting for the clerks' outings at various beaches and parks. Rarely have the store people had a better day for their picnics.

Bright and early this morning the exodus began and not until after the noon hour when members of the Lowell Rotary club scooted forth on their way to Lawrence did the leavetaking stop. It seemed that practically everybody was journeying somewhere or other and the downtown section presented a forsaken and deserted appearance.

Not only were all the large stores closed but many of the smaller ones also discontinued business for the day. In addition many individuals took advantage of special excursions to the seashore and the net result of the general exodus was a midsummer holiday. The chief outings of the day were those of the clerks of the A. G. Pollard, J. L. Chaffin, F. E. Nelson, Bon Marche, Gagnon, Cherry & Webb and D. L. Page stores, the druggists' outing at Fitchburg, the Lowell Rotary club outing at Lawrence and the outing of the Angel Guardian sodality of St. Joseph's parish at Canobie Lake.

OPPOSED TO OIL TARIFF

Massachusetts' Representative Says Duty Would Only Favor Monopoly

WASHINGTON, July 14.—The first public expression of dissatisfaction among republican members with the proposed tariff on oil came today from Representative Treadway of Massachusetts, a member of the ways and means committee, who told the house that the duty would aid only the "monopoly" which markets the product. He estimated that the rates of 35 cents a barrel on crude and 25 cents a barrel on fuel oil, would mean at least one cent a gallon extra in the cost of oil to New England.

No tariff could relieve conditions in the Oklahoma oil industry due to "inordinate speculation and general business depression," the speaker said. To restrict oil imports, he added, was a blow at the policy of conservation of natural resources.

JAPS ACCEPT INVITATION

Ready to Discuss Disarmament But Fail to Mention Far East Question

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Japan's acceptance of President Harding's suggestion that a conference to discuss limitation of armaments was received at the state department today but made no reference to the question of a discussion of the Far Eastern question. Unqualified acceptance by the Chinese government also was received. State department officials would make no comment on the form of the Japanese reply which was not made public in text.

Silence of the Japanese government as to discussion of far eastern problems was not believed to have interposed any serious obstacle to the carrying out of the present plan. The Japanese reply was made through the American embassy at Tokyo, which is understood not to have supplied it with any explosion. Unofficial despatches from Tokyo and from London have created the impression that Japan would be willing to join in a frank discussion of the far eastern questions, although other informal despatches also have indicated that the Tokyo government must move with caution on account of the political factions and schools of thought in Japan.

CONFIDENT U. S. WILL JOIN WITH CANADA

MONTREAL, July 14.—Confidence that the United States would join with Canada in opening the St. Lawrence river to deep sea vessels as a part of a deep waterway from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic, was voiced by United States Senator Townsend of Michigan at a reception tendered the party touring the tours of the proposed waterway here today.

The senator said he felt sure the report of the joint commission that spent 18 months investigating the feasibility of the project would be favorable and that it would meet the approval of congress.

Possibilities of power development, Senator Townsend said, were of as great importance as development of a waterway and revenue derived from sale of the power he believed would pay for the project.

MAJOR KNOX SPEAKS OF SHOE BUSINESS IN ENGLAND

Says There Is Little Chance of Demand for American Footwear There—McElwain Co. at Manchester Doing a Big Business

In the following article Major Knox, editor of the Manchester Union, tells of the shoe industry in England, pointing out that there is little chance of any large demand from Britain for American footwear. The American McElwain Shoe company at Manchester, Eng. has a large plant and is doing a prosperous business according to this writer. The letter:

BY FRANK KNOX
LONDON, June 14.—Amid all of the gloom which surrounds British industry I found today one spot upon which, through a rift in the clouds, shone the sun of prosperity. It was a shoe factory in the shoe-making city of Leicester, and it possessed for an American, an interest aside from its exceptional busy-ness, for it was the last detail a little bit of New England, set down in the midst of an extremely British type of industrial city. As a matter of fact, this factory of which I speak, is modelled exactly after the McElwain central plant of the great McElwain Shoe company, at Manchester, and not only is it a faithful reproduction of the physical equipment (on a much smaller scale) but one finds within its walls also a successful attempt at reproduction of the McElwain system of handling employes and happily a very successful achievement of the shoe psychology for which the McElwain people have been straining every effort in the development of their great group of shoe factories.

This particular factory, modelled after the best and latest of American methods and equipment, instinct with the spirit of pride in workmanship and loyalty to shop and craft, which is the goal every manufacturer in America seeks, is the one factory in a city with over two hundred shoe factories which was running at full capacity and selling its output as fast as it was turned out! Here was justification for American efficiency, in the very heart of Britain! Tangible and convincing evidence that the British workman is sensitive to the same suggestions and susceptible to the same arguments which control American workmen in these industries where substantial progress has been made toward establishment of sound and successful relations between employee and employer. And not only was this particular factory manufacturing all of the shoes of which it was capable, and selling them readily, to the satisfaction and profit of its owners but what is of equal importance, its ties of the engineering department on the third floor of the municipal building. Very near the roof. But, joking aside, Stephen has one of the most important positions of anybody in city hall. There are constant demands upon his time and with the assistance of a bustling corps of workers, he is called upon to solve many difficult mechanical problems and there are few that have yet baffled him.

For the past several months Mr. Kearney has been acting as superintendent of streets and his performance during his brief reign caused widespread favorable comment. He got a lot of work done and done well without over-heralding the fact and for the first time in many years systematic monthly reports of what was being done in the department were made public while Mr. Kearney had charge.

Mr. Kearney was also called upon to assist in the water department in Commissioner Salmon's absence but now that the commissioner has returned and a new superintendent of streets has been elected, Mr. Kearney has returned to his own department and will concentrate all his efforts there.

Stephen is a world war veteran having served in the western part of the country with an engineering outfit. He is one of the best looking officials in city hall and his friends say that the best part of it is that he isn't aware of the fact. He is a prominent member of the Washington club and one of his hobbies is walking. Not a noon passes that he doesn't walk from the hall to his home in Third street. He was one of five brothers to offer their services in the recent conflict.

BRITISH TO KILL 30,000 ARMY HORSES

LONDON, June 25.—Horse lovers throughout the country have been shocked by Colonial Secretary Winston Churchill's announcement in the house of commons that 30,000 army horses in Mesopotamia are to be killed because it is too expensive to bring them home.

It was explained that they are mainly heavy draft horses for which there is no local use, and that they had to be fed on imported fodder. The nearest possible markets are India or Egypt but the difficulties and cost of transportation there are said to be prohibitive.

Shipping men say it costs 40 to 50 pounds to bring a horse from the east to England, not counting horsemen's wages.

The war office view is that it is better for the horses to be killed humanely and scientifically than to be left in the hands of natives who would not care for them properly, and no one would suggest turning them adrift in the desert.

FLOWERS

Crushed and faded looking artificial flowers can be made new and fresh looking if held over the steam of a boiling kettle a few minutes. They should be pulled and shaken into shape while being steamed.

SMELLING SALTS

After You Are Fifty

You can expect almost anything because your vitality is fast becoming used up and as a rule one becomes over-anxious to lay aside money enough to care for their old age, and during this nerve-breaking period, and worries, you are liable to have a nervous breakdown, and become a fit subject for kidney, liver, and heart troubles.

When you find yourself approaching or afflicted with these troubles, you can build yourself up again by taking from 10 to 25 drops in a little water of the old and reliable remedy, SEVEN BARKS. Don't wait until you are down sick, but step into your nearest grocery and invest a small sum for a bottle of SEVEN BARKS and be prepared.

It doesn't matter whether you are twenty or fifty if you find that your digestive organs resent what you eat, your heart palpitates on the slightest exertion, your back aches after a day's work, you need a good tonic, kidney and liver regulator, this you will find in SEVEN BARKS, the old fashioned root and herb remedy that our parents and grandparents used to keep their families rugged and well.

If you want to get the greatest efficiency out of your body, enjoy, and prolong your life, take SEVEN BARKS. For sale at druggists.—Adv.

NO PARADE HERE

ON LABOR DAY

There will be no parade in Lowell on Labor day. This was definitely decided at a meeting of the Trades and Labor council last evening. There will be a band concert on the South common in the evening and a speaker of national reputation will be brought here to deliver an address.
The council also voted to ask the election commission to have the hours for the special election on the chamber of commerce initiative petition from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.

It is said that a branch of the I. W. W., with office files and records complete, was organized in the Northumberland, Pennsylvania, county prison. The organizer was sentenced to seven additional months in the prison for his work in connection with the affair.

PLAN BIG OUTING AT SPALDING PARK

An important meeting of the committee in charge of arrangements for the big outing to be held at Spalding park Labor day under the auspices of the local councils of the American association for the recognition of the Irish republic, was held last evening with Michael J. Sharkey acting as temporary chairman. Interesting committee reports were given and the council voted to have booths around the field for the sale of delicacies and fancy articles. Michael Quinn reported that he had made arrangements at state headquarters for the appearance of Miss Mary McSwiney, sister of the late lord mayor of Cork, who is now touring the country, and also that he had secured the services of an Irish pipers' band from Worcester. The proceeds of the affair will be devoted to the Irish refugee fund.

Eno and Giroux & Labaie, who have contributed automobiles, ice cream, cake, bread and other things which helped to make the day enjoyable for the little ones. The drawing contest, which was organized in connection with the outing was brought to a close and the winners and prizes were announced as follows: Pierre Caron, gold beads; Miss E. J. Lelacheur, $2.50 gold piece; P. Morrisette, bag of flour; Miss A. Bibeault, girl's dress; Miss A. Delisle, fancy napkin and Miss Alphonsine Cyr, cut glass vase. The president of the circle is Mrs. C. H. Boisvert.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

THE STRAND

If there were more photoplays like "Her Lord and Master," which is to be shown at The Strand for the last half of the week, beginning with matinee today, there would be less need of a censorship and fewer complaints about motion pictures. It is a clean, wholesome production, free from kung-fay, swag, clemens and miltan plot absurdities. It presents Alice Joyce in as charming a role as she has ever portrayed. The character of Indiana furnishes her material for clever picture studies of a spoiled child who becomes the obedient wife. Holmes E. Herbert plays opposite Miss Joyce and presents a British aristocrat in capable manner. He has a role that could easily be overacted and spoiled; but this artist betrays a temperance in drawing his character with a result that is entirely satisfactory.

An expose of the methods used in a crooked gambling house is one of the features of interest in "The Freeze Out" in which Harry Carey is featured. The picture shows the star as a "straight" gambler who arrives in a lawless western town to drive out the crooked followers of the game of chance. He succeeds, but not until he has experienced some adventures of a most thrilling and hair raising kind. The picture is a masterpiece of the rough working deputy villain of equal film prominence. Besides these two high grade pictures, there will be a good comedy and an excellent Weekly. Don't forget it's always cool and comfortable and that there are 1000 seats sold at 10 cents each at all performances.

S. H. HARRISON CO.

166 CENTRAL STREET

"Formerly the Old Putnam Store"

workers were earning on the average, so I was informed, about 50 per cent. more than the workers in the other plants in the city run on the old-fashioned British model. All work in Leicester is done on the piece basis, and the rate paid is identical, so this increase in the pay of the employees of this factory, modelled after our own, represents only the different spirit which animates the worker, plus the added fact that conditions and pay had both attracted to this particular plant the cream of the shoe-making craft of the city.

On the whole, the shoe-making business of Great Britain has been going through the same liquidating process as has the American. A seven year contract between the shoe-makers' unions and the shoe-manufacturers ran out this spring and was renewed at the same rates of pay for another six months, pending the readjustment incident to the making of another long-term contract. Most of the factories are running on about one-third time and the shoe trade is in the doldrums.

A development in the shoe business

of Great Britain which will be of interest to the shoe-making communities of New England is the rapid spread of the chain store principle in the retailing of shoes. This has at its root the economic principle of eliminating middlemen and bringing producer and consumer nearer together. Most of the customers of the British shoe factories are chain store proprietors. Some firms operate as many as five hundred separate retail establishments, and as a result the shoe jobber in Great Britain is by way of passing out. This process, however, is about to enter upon another phase which will further reduce the number of middlemen in shoe merchandising, and that is the purchase, or establishment, of chain shoe stores by the factories themselves thus bringing to either, without intermediary, the producer and consumer. This common practice is already being exemplified in the United States by the makers of the Heaton, Douglas, Walkover, and other makes of shoes. British shoe men incline to the idea that ultimately practically all of the shoes made in Great Britain for the domestic market will be sold in this way.

facturers seeking export business. Without attempting to be derisive of English taste in footwear, or to indulge in any glib at the expense of the size and contour of British women's feet, it is quite within the facts to say that American styles in footwear will never have a wide appeal in Great Britain because most of them would make British feet dencely uncomfortable. English women as a rule have wide feet. The great bulk of women's shoes are made only in "4" or "5" widths, and one can fancy the results when they try to squeeze such a foot into the long narrow models of women's shoes so popular in America. Then there is a great deal of rain here and soles of shoes are habitually made heavier. An English woman's dress shoe carries a sole that reminds one of a sport shoe in America, while well-dressed Englishmen carry around brogans on their feet that look awkward and clumsy to the American eye.

But while Great Britain does not offer a very promising market for our surplus output of shoes, neither does British competition in the markets of the world in footwear present any great difficulties for the American shoes on the continent when business gets back to normal and exchange

NEW YORK, July 14.—The photoplay producer and the author have reached a stalemate. Neither knows how to meet the other.

Producers, in an effort to gain the best story material available, used ready money to induce the better writers to devote their attention to the screen.

Many writers who had pooh-poohed the photoplay became willing converts to the screen when the price per scenario reached a handsome figure.

Goldwyn and Famous Players were leaders in bringing most of the prominent writers of the day to the screen. This was on the false supposition that great authors write only great stories.

Pictures that have been made with the closest co-operation of the author have shown no improvement over those made without benefit of the writers' suggestions.

That is because the mind trained to express action and setting in pretty phrase and high sounding hyperbole does not adapt itself to the exigencies of pantomime action.

It is the belief of this writer that of all the authors who are spending their time at the studios to have a direct hand in the filming of their stories Rupert Hughes is the only one who has thoroughly grasped the needs of screen writing.

It would be unfair to pass judgment on Ellnor Glyn. Her first story for the screen has not yet been shown. It should show definitely the value of an author's help.

She wrote the story, followed every movement of the players, dictated the

Booth Tarkington went into great detail in his suggestions on the filming of "The Conquers of Canaan." Yet the picture is not provincial Indiana as Tarkington knew it, or as his writer knows it, or as anyone who ever lived in Indiana knows it.

The two pictures of the last six months that have been faithful to their stories from A to Z are "Sentimental Tommy" and "Without Benefit of Clergy." Barrie had little to do with the former and although Kipling offered suggestions on the latter he was in England when the story was filmed in America.

Rex Ingram made a masterpiece of "The Four Horsemen" with no appreciable aid from Ihanez.

John Emerson and Anita Loose, deans of scenario writers, continue to grind out sure-fire pictures. Universal has announced that it wants product of scenario writers. No more novelists for that concern.

The biggest pictures now in production are from the works of authors whose only criticism can come from the spirit world—Dumas, Charlotte Bronte, Balzac.

I Don't Believe I Would Be Here But for Tanlac, States Thomas Normile

"I'll say this much: If I hadn't got Tanlac when I did, I believe I would have been missing in this world in just a little while longer," was the emphatic statement made by Thomas Normile, widely known and popular city official residing at 14 Viall street, New Bedford, Mass.

The way I eat corned beef and cabbage, pork sausage, turnips and other things like that since Tanlac has fixed me up, one would think I never had a sick day in my life. But for the past five years I've been in such bad shape that only through will power was I able to keep at my work. For weeks I could scarcely eat enough for a kitten, and the food in my stomach burnt me like liquid fire. I lost 23 pounds in weight just before I started on Tanlac, and was getting weaker every day. I was as nervous as a bed, and day or night, it was all the same with me. I just could not rest or sleep.

"Well, I don't believe I would be alive to tell my story if it hadn't been for a lady who thought so much of Tanlac that she was determined that I should try it. She gave me half a bottle, and it helped me so much that I didn't lose any time in getting more, and now I'm in fine shape in every way and have picked up 15 pounds in weight. Tanlac has made me the happiest man in the world by restoring my health, and nothing pleases me more than to tell others what I think of the medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Green's drug store under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, by Wright Drug Co., Haverhill, Mass.; A. D. Fells, Chelmsford, Mass.; Pharmacy, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

This promises to be one of the most valuable educational features ever placed on the silver screen.

The British producers of Paramount pictures have moved into a new studio at Acton costing $240,000.

Eve Unsell and Mary Murillo, scenario writers, have signed contracts to write stories for Robertson-Cole.

Julien Josephson, scenario writer, does his best work when the producer is urging him to make speed with his script.

"Beating the Game" is the first picture Hazel Daly ever appeared in which was not directed by her husband, Harry Beaumont.

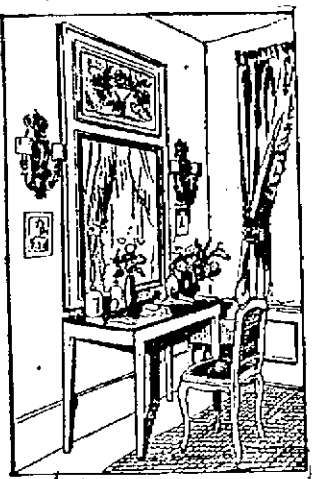

Alce Duor Miller is writing another original screen story. It is called "Say It With Flowers" and will probably star Tom Moore.

Emanuel List, basso profundo, has sung "Ell, Ell," 500 times as the prologue to "Humoresque" and "The Goat" at New York theatres. He wins the endurance handicap.

"The Spirit of '76," historical picture which is being revived, was made five or six weeks ago but was withdrawn because some censors believe it is unfavorable to England at a time when we were allied with that nation against Germany.

The drawing room of the Duke of Buckingham and the ornate palace of Louis XIII are two of the massive sets erected for "The Three Musketeers." The film is to be given its New York premier Aug. 14.

YOUR DRESSING TABLE

AN EFFECTIVE DRESSING-TABLE ARRANGEMENT.

If your dressing table isn't a restful, refreshing, inspiring place, it isn't serving the purpose that it should.

The wise woman will have as few things on the top of the table as possible. She will have only those things which she uses constantly. The remainder of her toilet articles will be closed in a smart little folding top cabinet, which stands on four legs quite high from the floor.

An exceedingly effective arrangement for the woman who loves the distinctive is the black enamel-topped table over which a long mirror is hung. A source of interesting design on either side of the mirror adds much to the charm of the place.

With a black enamel top, black bottles for cologne, astringent and so on will harmonize and can be made quite easily by simply coating them in black sealing wax.

If a few artificial flowers are desired, and surely they do add to the beauty of the arrangement, old blue would be the tint to use in summer and yellow or burnt orange in winter.

Mrs. Britten Tells How She Was Restored To Health After Suffering for More Than A Year.

Dimondale, Mich.—"I had inflammation and a displacement and weakness, and it had been neglected so long that it caused great pain, and this affected my mind and nerves so that I was very irritable. I had severe pains every month, so that I was often obliged to lie in bed for two days at a time. I suffered for more than a year before my friends said, 'Why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' So I purchased one bottle after another until I had taken ten bottles, then Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I received so much benefit from this treatment that I am now able to do my own work."—Mrs. W. D. BRITTEN, R. No. 2, Dimondale, Mich.

Another Michigan Woman says: "I was bothered for a long time with female troubles and was so nervous I felt almost afraid at times. I also had a pain in my right side and was certainly in a bad way. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has relieved me of these nervous feelings and pains and I am much better in every way. I don't know just how many bottles I have taken, but I took it for nearly a year and it has done me a world of good."—Mrs. JESSIE GRANGER, R. No. 8, Box 51, Kalamazoo, Michigan.

Good health is a woman's greatest asset. With it she may be the inspiration of her husband, a happy mother, and the life of the home. Without it she suffers agonies herself, household duties are a burden, and her family is made miserable by her condition.

Is it any wonder that these women were nervous and irritable after suffering so long from such deranged conditions? Such ailments act directly upon the nerves, and it has been said that a large percentage of nervous prostration, nervous dependency, "the blues," and nervous irritability of women arise from some derangement of the female organism.

If women who are in this condition would only profit by the experience of others and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, much suffering and unhappiness would be averted, as everyone knows a nervous, irritable, ailing mother makes the home unhappy and her condition irritates both husband and children.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

STEPS TOWARD FORMING BALTIC ALLIANCE

RIGA, June 22.—Rapid steps toward the formation of a new Baltic triple alliance embracing Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania, which may later take in Finland, are expected by political leaders here to result from the formation of a new Lettish coalition cabinet headed by Sigmund Meyerovitch as premier and minister for foreign affairs, which latter post he held under the old government.

The new coalition includes almost all the numerous Lettish parties except the most radical left wings. K. Umnis, formerly an instructor at the University of Nebraska who headed the old regime, is left out, as is also A. Berg, whose persecutions of the communist and socialist elements as minister of interior led to the downfall of the old cabinet. Berg has been succeeded by A. Quesis of the farmers' union, which forms part of the Meyerovitch party.

(Aids to Beauty.)

A simplified method is here given for the quick removal of hairy or fuzzy growths and rarely is more than one treatment required. Mix a stiff paste with some powdered talc and water, apply to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every hair has vanished. This simple treatment cannot cause injury, but care should be exercised to get real talc.—Adv.

Mayor Thompson May Be Called Upon To Close All Soft Drink Establishments Here

(Special to The Sun)
STATE HOUSE, Boston, July 14.—Mayor Perry D. Thompson of Lowell may be appealed to before Sunday to close all of the ice cream parlors and similar places dispensing light drinks if Lowell dealers do not charge fair prices for all such concoctions.

The commission on the necessities of life today received from Mayor Walter E. Cramer of Lynn information that he was acting to shut off the business of Lynn dealers unless they lowered prices.

Mayor Cramer believes that other Massachusetts mayors should take this speedy way of ending ice cream soda and ice cream cone profiteering and has advised the commission to send a request to each mayor of Massachusetts to do so. The commission has the plan under advisement today. In an order to the Lynn city council Mayor Cramer says: "In view of the decided fall in the price of foodstuffs, I desire to call your attention to the fact that through your committee on license you have the power to refuse the right to do business on Sunday to all common victuallers neglecting to make their charges conform with present conditions."

"I have references especially to the wartime prices still demanded for sandwiches, ice cream and soda drinks of all kinds. Restaurants generally, with some commendable exceptions, have failed to give customers the advantage of present food costs. Permit me to ask speedy action on your part."

Up to noon today Mayor Thompson had not received a request to close local ice cream establishments if their owners were found to be profiteering but he had received a letter from Chairman Eugene C. Hultman of the commission on the necessities of life requesting data concerning prices of soft drinks and ice cream here and enclosing a number of copies of a memorandum to retail dealers in ice cream and soft drinks which his honor is urged to deliver to dealers as soon as possible.

The mayor has instructed local police officers to make an investigation of prices being charged for these articles in stores on their routes and to report to the superintendent as early as possible their findings.

Foreign Exchange

The foreign market had a severe break Monday. The opening this morning is greatly improved. Sterling opened 1 1/2 points higher. Francs 6 points, Lire 2 1/2 points, Marks 6 1/2 points, Drachma 10 points.

Recent developments in European countries lead us to believe, that foreign exchange ought to sell much higher. We expect that through a gradual resumption of world wide trade, reconstructed industries, removal of commercial relations, and steady work on the part of all nations, exchange will again become normal, trade balances will right themselves and general prosperity will again rule. We sincerely believe that present buyers of foreign exchange and internal securities will realize prodigious returns. Liberty Bonds bought and sold. Call, write or telephone for information.

MRS. KABER WAS INSANE

Physician Says She Was in Abnormal Condition at Time of Murder

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 14.—The trial of Eva Catherine Kaber on a charge of murdering her husband, Daniel F. Kaber, was resumed today.

Physicians who examined Mrs. Kaber as to her physical condition reported her to be almost normal with the exception of some nervousness due to strain of the trial.

Mrs. Kaber appeared more refreshed when she entered the courtroom than at any time since the trial began, but before the trial had progressed far she appeared to weaken. Large drops of perspiration coursed down her face and neck.

The first witness to testify as to Mrs. Kabers' mental condition was Dr. James O. Hassel of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, a specialist in mental diseases. After questioning him as a witness, Attorney William J. Corrigan began to read a hypothetical question on which Dr. Hassel is to base his answer as to whether he believes Mrs. Kabers' sane or insane.

In answer to the hypothetical question, Dr. Hassel said it was his opinion that Mrs. Kabers was insane at the time of the murder.

WANT WAR OF CLASSES INTENSIFIED

LONDON, July 14.—Resolutions declaring it a necessity that class war be intensified in all countries, were adopted by the Congress of Communist Trades Unions at Moscow on Monday, says a despatch from that city to the press.

The vote of the congress on the resolution was 282 to 32, and this action was taken according to the despatch, with a view to "ending capitalist control of labor and consequently the political power of capitalism, by establishing closest unity between the various sections and forms of the revolutionary labor movement."

The congress also decided to take steps to unite all trade unions into one fighting organization with the Congress of Communist Trades Unions as the international center. Close contact would be established with the third international by joint representation on executive committees and in joint conferences. It was asserted the connection thus established would prepare for revolutionary action.

ANOTHER TASTE OF SUMMER TODAY

A constantly rising temperature gave Lowell people a further taste of summer weather today. Early this morning the weatherwise looked toward the sky and remarked knowingly, "Guess we're in for another hot one."

The first thing they knew their words were coming true, for from a temperature of 70 at 2 o'clock this morning the mercury kept advancing until it had reached 81 in Merrimack square at 2:30 this afternoon. However, there was a brisk cooling wind to temper the heat and there was a slight drop in humidity.

If the heat continues this evening it is probable that members of the fire department will wet down the congested districts.

The hot wind brought another large crowd to the municipal swimming pool of the Pawtucket boulevard this afternoon and there were few empty lockers available for late-comers.

MANY GO TO REVERE BEACH

Seven special cars carrying over 350 people left Merrimack square at 5:15 o'clock this morning for Revere beach on the regular outing trips conducted by the Eastern Massachusetts street railway company. Today's crowds were the largest that have gone to Revere so far this year, owing to the fact that nearly all of the stores in the city were closed all or part of the day. The Eastern Massachusetts street railway reported heavy riding all over the city today, especially on lines to parks and pleasure places.

Mrs. Charles S. Harvey, president of the congregation was in charge of the outing.

STOCK MARKET

The following is a complete report, giving high, low and closing quotations:

NEW YORK, July 14.—Selected issues, particularly utilities, equipments, oils and tobaccos featured today's dull and reactionary stock market. Sales approximated $50,000 shares.

The strength of oils and chemicals and the heaviness of motors and equipments were the contrasting features at the opening of today's stock market. Mexican Petroleum, which enlivened yesterday's late dealings with a sudden advance of seven points, was in further demand with American and Houston Oils, Virginia-Carolina Chemical preferred, Atlantic Gulf, Central Leather and American Tobacco also made a veritable parade.

Studebaker, Chandler, General Electric and American Sugar comprised the reaction shares. Oils canceled much of their advance within the first half hour.

Mexican Petroleum fell back three points in the reversal of the first hour, other oils losing 1 to 2 points. Motors, especially Chrysler, reacted further to pressure and Bethlehem, Crucible, Republic and United States Steels forfeited one to two points with Baldwin Locomotive and other equipments. Dealing in rails was on the lightest scale and at nominal changes, excepting Northern Pacific, which lost one point. Mexican Petroleum made full recovery before noon, but other leaders showed little improvement. Call money opened at 6 per cent.

A four point break in Western Union Telegraph to the low price of the year was the feature of the dull noon hour. Mexican Petroleum again reacted from its second rally and rails, equipments and food specialties were mostly heavy.

Mexican Petroleum, Sumatra Tobacco, General Electric and Western Union showed extreme losses of 2 to 5 points in the more general reversal of the last hour. The closing was heavy.

BRIAND CANNOT ATTEND DISARMING PARLEY

PARIS, July 14 (By the Associated Press).—Political circles in general look with favor upon the suggestion that Premier Briand go to Washington personally to represent France at the disarmament conference, but since it appears that the conference is not likely to be held before November, it has been pointed out that the parliament will then be in session, thus raising complications over the question of the premier's personal attendance.

In parliamentary circles it is noted that the chamber of deputies, after the summer recess, will have to take up the grave problem of French finances, including budget questions of such importance that the presence of the responsible head of the government would seem to be required.

No opposition to Premier Briand's going to Washington, however, has materialized thus far, but it is regarded in political circles as quite likely that the strong minority in the chamber opposed to the government will raise objection if the suggestion becomes official.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—The naval court of inquiry on the free balloon fight in the Canadian wilds last Tuesday by Lieut. Louis A. Knorr, pilot and Lieut. Stephen A. Farrell and Walter Hinton, passengers, called for no disciplinary action and held that differences between Lieut. Hinton and Farrell which came to blows, were adjusted in a "manly way."

The court filed its report during Secretary Daniels' tenure of office but it was not accepted until Secretary Denby approved it and made it public.

The court filed its report during Secretary Daniels' tenure of office but it was not accepted until Secretary Denby approved it and made it public.

PACIFIC COAST IS TO SEND TENNIS TEAM

BOSTON, July 14.—The Pacific coast will send east for the national lawn tennis championship tournaments in singles and doubles this summer a team of four men, according to advices received here today. Howard and Robert Kinsey, the western sectional champions, will team again on eastern courts and will play also in the singles competition. William J. Johnston, Pacific singles champion, and Wallace Davis will complete the team. From the fact that Griffin Johnston's partner, in the championship doubles play last year was not named, it was assumed that Johnston and Davis would team up.

BOSTON, July 14.—Investigation of the operation of the street railway system of the Cape and Vineyard Electric Co. was ordered by the Public Utilities commission today in response to complaints of summer residents at Hyannis and surrounding resorts. The commission was told that the company's service was undependable and that recently it was suspended for four days.

SAYS COLLECTIONS ARE AN ADMISSION FEE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 14.—An ordinance of the city of Pomona, near here, prohibiting Sunday amusements for which an admission fee was charged, was held unconstitutional by Superior Judge Funnell. The judge declared it was class legislation because, while prohibiting theatres and similar enterprises from operating on Sunday, it allowed churches to take up a collection, which he said, was virtually an admission fee, at Sunday services.

OAKLAND, Calif., July 14.—An airplane from the Jacuzzi Brothers air-plane factory in Berkeley fell at Modesto, killing the pilot and three passengers today, according to word received by the Oakland Tribune.

Tufts Case

surrender took place on the road from Northampton to Brattleboro, Vt.

"How Are You, Mr. Tufts?"

At the appointed time they went to the place designated by Barney, Bresnahan said. They met the convict who shook hands with O'Halloran, said "How are you, Mr. Tufts?" and got into the machine.

Barney said he did not want to go back but supposed he'd have to, adding that he didn't mind going back but hated the humiliation.

Then Barney wanted to go back to the Meisse home to change his clothes, and after some demur, Tufts allowed him to go with Bresnahan. While at the Meisse home, the witness said they had lunch.

Barney hesitated about returning to give himself up and while Mrs. Meisse was urging him to do so, Bresnahan went back to tell the district attorney about it. When he returned to the Meisse house after that Barney had disappeared and the witness reported to Tufts that he thought Barney had "cold feet." A search was started. After about three-quarters of an hour, Barney reappeared and entered the car. They drove to Greenfield where the witness left the party.

When shown Tufts' statement published in the newspapers on the day after Barney's surrender, the witness said he knew it was untrue and added that he had given Tufts false data. Counsel for the defense said it was admitted that Tufts' statement as to where he met Barney was untrue and asked if it were contended that anything else in the statement was untrue. For the prosecution, Mr. Hurlbert said he contended that the statement was untrue for the purpose of deceiving the public and that the whole of it was false.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 14. (By the Associated Press.)—Turkish nationalists and Greek forces are locked in battle before Kutaia, about 75 miles southeast of Brussa. Airplanes are taking part in the struggle for mountain heights near the town, which is the first objective of the Greek offensive which began last Monday. The nationalist forces consist of the Third Turkish army corps, commanded by Col. Arif Bey, who recently received reinforcements from the Armenian front.

A national official statement declares the Greeks are holding a line running southward from Yen-Shehr, a village situated near the northern branch of the Bagdad railway. The Greeks are said to be advancing with four divisions.

Rioting Again in Cork Street Area

BELFAST, Ireland, July 14. (By the Associated Press.)—Rioting broke out again in the Cork street area, here this morning. A bomb was thrown and damaged a grocery store, which was looted, and another house was set afire. A number of people were slightly injured by snipers. Several windows were broken. The police managed to restore order without being compelled to use firearms.

French Celebrate Bastille Day

PARIS, July 14.—France today celebrated Bastille day, the anniversary of the fall of the ancient prison which symbolized the oppressor which brought about the French revolution. Observance of the holiday was begun last night, when vast crowds gathered in the streets of the city and danced for many hours. There were, in addition, great torchlight parades along the boulevards.

NEW YORK, July 14.—French quarters in New York today celebrated Bastille day. The French consul general kept open house until one o'clock, and practically every French organization in the city arranged a fitting program for the event. A grand ball in the evening, sponsored by the French veterans of the world war, will feature the celebration.

Find Rich Gold Field in Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, July 14.—Strikes of gold quartz apparently bearing more than $100 to the ton in a district 30 miles south of here, were reported here today. Prospectors stumped to the area of the discovery. Men returning from there said a dozen big fissures of quartz, heavy in gold, had been uncovered within a region 12 by 7 miles. The first strike was at Girdwood, on the government railroad. According to messages received here the original find was followed by numerous others of equal importance. The quartz is described to have been found largely in porphyry rock formations. Mining men here who have made preliminary investigation of the discovery predicted it would prove epochal. Some of the strikes they said, developed in railroad cuts along Turnagain arm.

By A. H. PALMER

The accompanying photograph illustrates a novel way of obtaining cool and refreshing sleeping conditions where the weather is warm and at times sultry.

This sleeping tower was designed by and erected at the residence of L. H. Gregg, city engineer of Winters, California.

It is constructed of 2-inch galvanized pipe with a 1/2-inch steel rod in the center, the pipe then being filled

The excessive humidity of the present week has served as a great obstacle to the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. In its efforts to restore to normal the hundreds of local telephone lines that were put out of commission by the big storms last Saturday morning and evening. Conditions are about as bad today as they were last Saturday morning, Manager Chas. J. Leathers said this noon. All new work of the company is being sidetracked for the present so that the damage done to lines already installed may be repaired.

Manager Leathers explains that when lightning strikes a cable it is liable to jump from the place it strikes to another place 10 feet, 20 feet or even a greater distance beyond and do more damage. Thus, when employees of the company think they have a cable repaired, they later find that there is more work to be done on another part of the cable. This necessitates delay and slow results. Another matter with which the workmen have to contend is the burning of fuses. A fuse may be burned almost enough to destroy its value for service but not quite enough to render it useless. Then suddenly, when to all appearances it is in O. K. condition, it will break.

Manager Leathers says that the humidity of the present week has been most disastrous to the company's lines. Even in his own office, high and dry above the earth, he has been compelled to keep a fan blowing on the distributing board so that the instruments won't be affected. From this one can get an idea of what damage the humidity could do to instruments down in a cellar, for instance.

However, the company is making every effort and employing every available man to remedy conditions and Manager Leathers asks for the indulgence of the public for a little while longer.

Pincers with shear handles have been invented for crushing crab and lobster shells.

with rich concrete. Each section is cross-braced with 1/2-inch galvanized cables.

The pipe posts are anchored in solid concrete blocks, and have a wind resistance of more than 200 miles per hour.

The floor of the sleeping apartment is 35 feet above ground, and is reached by a weight elevator lifted by an electric motor, and lowered by gravity guided by a 2-inch galvanized pipe. It can be operated in a 50-mile gale.

The tower and elevator are absolutely safe under all conditions. Comparative thermometer readings have shown that the temperature of summer nights is about ten degrees lower in the sleeping compartment than at the surface of the earth below.

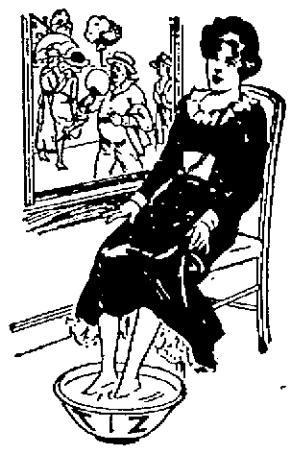

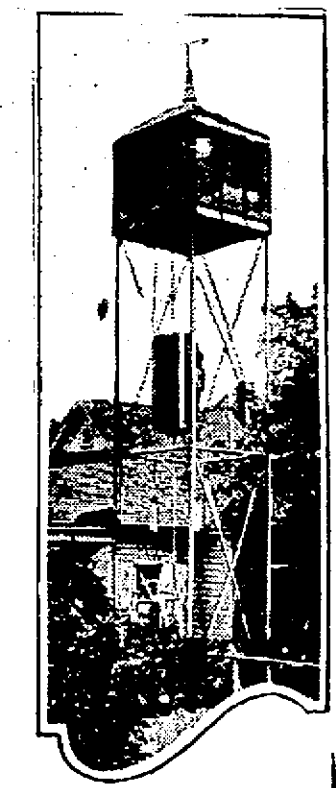

The sleeping tower here described has proved to be so effective in providing the conditions sought that it is already being imitated in many places in the hot, interior valleys of California.

AT LAKEVIEW PARK

A special car carrying members of the Pawtucket Congregationalist church left Merrimack square at 3:30 o'clock this morning bound for Lakeview park where the annual outing of the church was held. A program of sports and a basket luncheon were enjoyed and the party was scheduled to return at an early hour to this city.

Smoking was introduced into Scotland as an antidote for rheumatism and ague.

IN THE POLICE COURT

Maine Man Arrested and Woman Detained Here Yesterday Released Today

Mrs. Ethel Tibbetts, detained here in company with Lewis R. Dearborn yesterday when the woman's husband, through the Newport, Me., police, notified the local authorities that his wife and an automobile were missing, returned to Maine this morning with her seven-year-old daughter and her husband, who reached this city on an early train this morning. Lewis R. Dearborn, the man in whose company she came here in a Dodge touring car said to be the joint property of herself and her husband, had a charge of operating without a license dismissed. It was testified in the police court that Mrs. Tibbetts had a license in her possession, and that in view of the fact that there was a license in the car, no breach of the law was committed. The case created a great stir in police circles here yesterday. The sheriff of Newport, Me., communicated yesterday morning with local headquarters, saying that Tibbetts was searching for his wife, who had departed with a Dodge car with a Maine registration number, with a number of household articles, and with her daughter, a child of a former marriage. Word was despatched at once to the officers on routes, to look for a car answering the description given and hearing this way, Officer Frank R. Murphy located the machine as it reached Bridge street, and the machine with its occupants were taken to police headquarters, where a charge of operating without a license was lodged against Dearborn.

Mrs. Tibbetts and her child were detained in the detention room. It was stated by counsel this morning, that during the latter part of yesterday afternoon he demanded the release of the woman from Superintendent Redmond Welch, claiming that there was no charge against her. It is stated that she was freed, and that later Dearborn was allowed to bail himself out.

This morning he appeared in the police court, and the charges against him were dismissed for lack of prosecution. Officer Murphy told the court that Mrs. Tibbetts had a license in the car to operate alone, and that he was in the car when she was arrested. He was in the car when she was arrested, and that he was in the car when she was arrested.

Later Mr. Tibbetts requested the key to the machine from his wife, but it was refused. It is understood that she consented to the machine being taken to them jointly. A traffic officer from the Maine town accompanied Tibbetts when he arrived in Lowell this morning, as the man is unable to drive the car himself. He told the officials here, it is stated, that he purchased the car for his wife to drive. After a session in the inspectors' room behind closed doors, it is understood that Mrs. Tibbetts agreed to return to Maine with her husband. The numerous articles brought with her when she came here were replaced in the trunk, and husband, wife and the latter's child, together with the traffic officer who was at the wheel, started back in the direction of home.

Other Offenders

Ludger Langlois, charged with drunkenness, told the court that he wished to go away to the hospital. He was informed that the house of correction was the nearest substitute the court could furnish. The defendant then requested to be released, so that he could seek a hospital on his own account. He was allowed to go, although already on probation.

The case of Toni Barbinski, charged with assault and battery on a companion was filed on payment of costs, $2.20. It appeared that the two men were good friends until the time of the quarrel, when they fell upon each other and fought while on their way to "get a glass of beer." It was testified that "you can get beer anywhere in Lowell," but witness added that "it is like water." "You mean, I suppose that it flows as freely as water," interjected counsel. Judge Enright, in filing the case, characterized the quarrel between the pair as "childish."

The case of Maurice Orbach, charged with operating a cinematograph at a local movie palace, without the machine having been properly inspected and approved, was held over for one week. Angus N. McDonald, for the state, complains that the cinema machine had not been inspected and approved by an inspector of the building inspection department of public safety.

The case of John J. Cookley, charged with drunkenness and assault and battery on Costas Blestas, was put over to July 21. The defendant, while out on bail on the intoxication charge, was taken into custody on the complaint of assault.

The case of Charles P. Korsack, charged with larceny of $500 from the International Sewing Machine Company, was dismissed for lack of prosecution after settlement had been made.

The case of Manuel Silva, arrested by Lieutenant David Petrie and Officer Owen Conway, charged with assault and battery on a girl, was put over to Saturday, on his plea of not guilty. One version of the affair is to the effect that the defendant accosted the girl in an indecent manner. Then she is said to have slapped his face. He is alleged to have smitten her in return, with such force as to cause her mouth to bleed. Bystanders then assisted Silva. It is stated, beating him up copiously.

Silva displayed bruises on his countenance and added that he was "the same all over." He continued to shout that these contusions were inflicted on his anatomy by "some of her witnesses."

He was advised by his counsel to remain quiet.

Held for Murder

when Captain Richard Fitzgerald of the station declared that he intended to have Dr. Nicholas Duvalle, of the West End, make an examination of her physical condition, she broke down and changed her narration. She said that she gave birth to the infant in Lowell on July 4, and that a short time afterwards a tape was placed about the infant's neck by some woman in the house. The little one was thus strangled, she said. Continuing, she said that the infanticide took place at 2 P. M., and that she started for Boston about six hours later, reaching her residence in that city about an hour prior to midnight.

This, she claimed, was the correct and complete story, but the Boston authorities discredited it as the result of her journey to this city. It was stated at police headquarters here this morning. According to the information given out today here, Sergeant Thomas McLoughrey, of the local force, accompanied the girl and the inspectors in a search for the dwelling where she claimed the crime was committed. It is stated that when first queried on her arrival here as to the location of the house, she replied that it was situated on Church street. She was asked to lead the officers to the place, and the authorities here state that instead of going to Church street, she proceeded to Appleton street, where she failed to point out any dwelling as the scene of the alleged strangling by another woman. As the girl is said to be a former resident of this city, her inability to assign any location for the alleged crime by another was considered evidence of the falsity of her statements. It was announced this morning. At the police station here it was added that the whole body of details, relative to the presence of a Mary Lofosky when the child was born, is believed to be a fabrication. Investigation will be made by the Lowell officials, of course, in co-operation with the police of Boston; but it is definitely given out that the Boston inspectors are satisfied, as the result of the girl's failure to identify the house where the event is alleged by her to have occurred, that the story is a fiction.

After Sergeant McLoughrey had accompanied the Boston inspectors and their prisoner on the fruitless trip around Lowell, the Bolofsky girl was returned to Boston by auto before noon.

Place Crime in Boston

Mrs. Sawiska, with whom the girl roomed in the West End, has been queried at the house of detention by the Boston police in the presence of the prisoner. It is stated that the Bolofsky girl is to remain as a patient at a maternity hospital for some days, because of her physical condition.

The Boston officials believe the true facts of the case may be that the child's death occurred in the West End, at a short distance from the room engaged by the prisoner some two weeks ago, the time when she says she departed from this city. Mrs. Sawiska is looked upon as being an important state witness.

The baby's body was found in the bag by John Stack, of Leverett street, Boston. A note in Polish furnished no clue, except for the address spelled out in English. This read "Causeway street," and after inspectors Metting and Campbell had queried a number of people there a man was found who told of writing the note for Miss Bolofsky. It was then that she was taken to the Joy street station, and told her first story of being given the bag by a doctor in Boston, by a Lowell woman, Mary Lofosky, for which a fruitless search was instituted by the police here.

Mrs. Sawiska, after a lengthy questioning last night by the inspectors, declared that she first met the prisoner at a dance during Easter week. Miss Bolofsky left Lowell in a search for employment, she declared, but failed to secure it. Then, said Mrs. Sawiska, she left her Joy street lodgings to room with the girl on Causeway street. Miss Bolofsky went away Saturday, July 3, saying that she was going to see a woman on a Lowell farm in whose possession her trunk was. The girl came back at 3 a. m. July 5, said Mrs. Sawiska, but had no bag answering the description of that in which the child was found. The Boston police believe that both women are hiding something back, and they claim that Miss Bolofsky could not have returned from Lowell at 3 a. m. as no trains run at that late hour.

ALCOHOL LADEN BARK IS SEIZED

Boston Officers Find Large
Liquid Has Disappeared

Mystery Ship's Cargo Originally Had a Value of Over

BOSTON, July 14.—United States prohibition enforcement agents yesterday afternoon seized the three-masted bark Tiburon, anchored in the harbor, and its contents, supposed to consist of 27,500 gallons of high grade alcohol, and assert that examination of 50 of the alcohol drums revealed that 40 were empty, four contained water and only six were filled with alcohol.

What became of the missing alcohol is, in reality, a mystery. The agents express the opinion, however, that the contents of the empty drums were siphoned out before the vessel had been seized.
This belief, they say, is based on the fact that small launches have been detected running alongside the Tiburon since her arrival in Boston, causing a thorough examination of the cargo and resulting in the seizure.

The agents will continue their examination of the drums, and just how much of the liquor is missing will not be known until a federal inventory is taken. It is expected that the cargo will be removed as speedily as possible to the Massachusetts Storage Warehouse on Washington street, there to be gauged and tested.

A strong guard was placed aboard the vessel after the raid. The value of the cargo before, as is alleged, any had been removed, was estimated at $275,000.

The seizure was made only after a long conference in the United States marshal's office, in which U. S. Atty.
Harris, Asst. U. S. Atty. White and Acting Field Supervisor Albert Lynch

HOW I PUT ONE OVER ON MY WOMEN FRIENDS

They Said I Was Showing My Age,
That I Dressed Too Young For My Face

They made unkindly remarks about my wrinkles and bad complexion to men folks—"Cat-like," you know.
But one day what I call a real and true friend told me about Kijja, a remarkable beauty secret or old Egypt.
That very night I got some and used it on my face, neck and arms, and I kept using it every night and morning for a week. Then I went to a Saturday night dance where most of my women friends go. Well, you should have seen them! First they pretended not to notice me, then when all the gentlemen asked me to dance, some women came around and said: "What have you been doing to yourself, Mary?" Nothing, I replied, but felt I heard them say injected under her skin, or had her face "shamed" or some facial operation performed. I just let them talk, because Kijja gives such a natural look that its use cannot be detected, besides it certainly made me look far younger and more beautiful than I ever thought it possible for anything to do. So I glided in the fact that at last I certainly had fooled them all. It did me good to put one over on some of the old dames and I write this hoping that some woman or women who have suffered as I have on account of slurs about dressing too young for one's face may see it and fool some of the "old cats" as I did.

By request the name of the writer of the above is withheld, but you can purchase a bottle of Kijja on an absolute guarantee that it will produce sufficiently successful results in your case in three days' time to prove to you that its continued use for a short time will marvellously enhance your beauty and make you look years younger, or the manufacturers will refund your money. Kijja will positively increase the beauty of any woman any age—girls or grandmothers.

By special arrangements the dealers named below will give you with each bottle of Kijja an intensely interesting and extremely valuable booklet entitled "How to Increase Your Beauty—Secrets and Arts of Fascination employed by Cleopatra, the greatest enchantress of all time." If you do not wish to purchase Kijja, a copy of the booklet will be given you free anyway. After using Kijja we shall be thankful if you will write what it does for you. For publication—your name will not be used. Kijja (pronounced Kezha) is for sale in this city by all leading department stores and drug stores.—Adv.

of the prohibition force took part. After the prohibition agents are said to have produced proof that non-beverage alcohol had been diverted for beverage purposes. Commissioner Hayes issued a search warrant.

As there was no one on the vessel competent to accept service, the official document was tacked to the foremast, and the officers began a search. After taking off the main hatch and entering the holds, the alcohol drums were found packed in a bed of gravel on the ship's bottom.

There were 250 drums, each supposed containing 110 gallons of alcohol.

The Tiburon is somewhat of a mystery ship and has been sailing to many different American and European ports under many different officers. Its papers are made out with the Atlantic

HORSE ASSOCIATION

NEW YORK, July 13.—All of the corn belt states are working to secure more efficient horses and mules, according to a statement just issued by the Horse Association of America. This organization reports that many stallion associations are springing up, the purpose of which is to secure better breeds of work animals on the farms.

Scientific experiments are being made in increasing the size of animal motive power units in farm work. On one farm it was found that one man driving ten horses on a three-horse plow may average nine acres per day, despite hot, dry weather and difficult soil conditions. Under the same conditions a driver has been using twelve horses on a double-disc harrow, cutting a strip sixteen feet wide, averaging about forty acres a day.

The use of large seedling units has also been brought out very effectively on this farm where experiments are being tried out. Three grain seeders are hitched abreast, drawn by twelve or sixteen head of horses. With this equipment one man seeds seventy-two acres per day or eight times as much as accomplished by the ordinary farmer in the corn belt with three horses.

Farmers in the last few years have found that by slight variations in their horses and mule power units they greatly increase the efficiency of their work. They have found how easy it is to change from two to four, six, eight, or even ten horse teams.

Census figures of 1920 show that the corn belt continues to be the main breeding section of the country for horses and mules foaled in 1919 were produced in the following states: Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, and North Dakota.

The policy of producing the motive power needed on corn belt farms and selling before depreciation sets in is one of the potent factors contributing to the wealth of farmers in this region.
Oklahoma alone had more colts enumerated in the eastern zone which consists of Pennsylvania, Maryland, the District of Columbia, and the states east and north. Only 40,530 colts were foaled in 1919 in the eastern zone.

however, fell far short of producing as many animals as were actually needed.

Four-Fruit Jelly
Two quarts currants, 2 quarts raspberries, 2 quarts cherries, 2 quarts strawberries, measure for measure of fruit juice and sugar.

Hell strawberries and heat to extract juice. Stone cherries, preserving juice that is lost in stoning. Heat and crush to extract juice from fruit. Pick over currants and raspberries and heat separately to extract the juice.

Mix the fruit and strain through a jelly bag. Use cup for cup of sugar serving kettle and boil for 3 minutes, skimming frequently. Try the jelly on a cold plate. When it sets it is done. Pour into sterilized glasses and

WILL OF HELEN BARKER FILED FOR PROBATE

By the will of the late Helen M.
Barker of Methuen, just filed for probate, there are several public bequests, effective after the death of relatives who are given a life interest. There is no estimate given of the size of the estate but the sum of $5000 is left in trust for the benefit of testatrix sister, Alice M. Megitt, and on her death the trust fund is to be divided, half going to the town of Derry, N. H., to be known as the Merrill-Taylor fund, the income to be used for the purchase of books for the public library; the other half goes to the First Church, East Derry, to be known as the Miss S. C. Merrill fund, the income to be used for general church purposes.

After a few private bequests the sisters and sister-in-law of testatrix are given the life interest in the residuum of the estate and if anything remains upon their deaths it is to go to the Forest Street Union church of Methuen to be known as the Stephen J. and Helen M. Barker Memorial fund, the income to be used for general church
purposes.

ATTEMPT TO BURN CASTLETOWN MOUNT

BELFAST, Ireland, June 25.—An attempt has just been made to burn Castletown Mount (the ancient castellated building near Dundalk which tradition says was the birthplace of "Cuchullain" (meaning the "Hound"), the Irish hero and leader of the Red Branch knights.

Members of the Archaeological society were in the building, which is used as a museum, and they had to jump for their lives.

Military forces were to occupy the place shortly and this is believed to be the reason for the attempted burning.

BOY INJURED
John Petrosky, aged nine years, was taken to the Lowell Corporation hospital last evening, with a deep cut in the head, alleged to have been caused by a blow given by a companion, Joon the first street dump. The boy's injury is not serious.

AT WILLOW DALE
An outing for the boys and girls of the Dally Vacation Bible school, which is being conducted at the Worthen Street Baptist church, will be held tomorrow at Willow Dale. The excusionists will leave this city on trucks at 1 o'clock and will be entertained with games and sporting events at the resort. Dinner will be served and the homeward trip will be started late in the afternoon.

The remains of Priv. Albert W.
Vinal, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Vinal of the Groton road, North Chelmsford, who died in France, arrived in this city yesterday afternoon and were immediately removed to the North vil-

The parents of the young man as well as a large delegation from Chelmsford post 212, American legion, were at the

THE COAL QUESTION

At the present time the people of this city are giving earnest attention to the matter of getting in their winter coal. The prices are high and as a result some people are holding off expecting a reduction. There is little or no reason to expect a reduction, however, when all the conditions surrounding the production and sale of coal are considered.

There is much difference between the market for anthracite or hard coal and that for bituminous or soft coal. In fact the production of both represents two very different industries. The soft coal mines of the United States produce in a single day as much as the anthracite mines turn out in a week. Small quantities are mined in Virginia, Arkansas and Colorado, but Pennsylvania has the great monopoly of the anthracite supply in an area of 450 square miles, or about one-third of the area of the state of New England.

The anthracite lands were bought up long ago and are now owned almost entirely by eight companies known as the railroad coal companies. These coal companies were supposed to divide the coal business from that of railroading; but somehow the dual relation is still maintained.

These companies mine about 75 per cent of the anthracite and the independent companies the remainder. The railroad companies usually agree upon a price for the various grades of coal; but the independent companies sell sometimes higher and sometimes lower than the railroad companies. They have to pay higher for storage and have fewer advantages on the railroads. The big rule the price except where the government steps in.

But the general public seems to be expecting a reduction in prices resulting from a cut in labor costs and freight rates. In this, however, there can be no change to be effective this fall, nor perhaps before next summer. In the first place the miners are working under a contract that runs till April 1, 1922, so that there is absolutely no chance of a reduction in wages. Furthermore, it is almost a certainty that there will be no reduction in freight rates as these come only after a long agitation and hearings before the Interstate Commerce commission, and at present there is no proposition before the commission from which a reduction might be expected this year.

The one great danger, therefore, is that if the public refuses to buy there will be a demand in the fall that will overwhelm the railroads and cause what is known as a "runaway market." That is what happened last year and caused a rapid advance in the price of coal.

For this reason it is good policy to buy now, as soon as possible and get your winter supply stored in your cellar. There is evidently nothing to be gained by waiting until the fall rush sets in. The strike against buying that is now in progress will defeat its purpose. It is necessary to keep the mines working and the product moving out to the retailers through whom it is delivered to the consumers. Beware of a runaway market. Get your coal now. Those who want to get full information on the coal question are advised to watch for the articles to appear in this paper next week giving the result of a thorough investigation of the situation as referred to below.

Special Investigation

In order to get at the bottom facts in the coal situation and to be able to draw a fair conclusion as to future price probabilities, the New England Newspaper Alliance, of which The Sun is a member, decided some weeks ago to send a representative to the coal fields, to Washington and wherever the information might be found, to investigate the coal question and prepare a report of his findings to be published simultaneously by all the papers in the association.

Mr. E. Robert Stevenson of Waterbury, Conn., was selected for the job and he has notified the various papers concerned, that he has concluded his work and is ready to report.

The first article will appear in The Sun next Monday, and will be followed by three others. These articles will be of great importance and should be read by every business man and every manufacturer in Lowell.

CHASING AUTO THIEVES

We are supposed to have a first class police department, one that uses all modern conveniences for overcoming time and space in the capture of criminals. It is but a few weeks ago, that in this column, we suggested a wireless outfit for the police department so that they could use the fastest methods known to science in heading off criminals. We felt that the police department, headed by an experienced official who goes out lecturing on police work and police methods, would gladly grasp at any opportunity of improving the service by a quicker method of sending out to neighboring cities notifications of crime committed and descriptions of criminals to be captured.

We had no reason to believe otherwise than that the present appliances were used with the utmost haste and to the greatest possible advantage until we heard something to the contrary in connection with a theft of an automobile from a Pawtucketville garage early Tuesday morning. About 2.30 in the morning, it appears that a man stole a Hudson coupe from the garage of Mr. Adolph Lamontagne on Mt. Hope street. Owing to the noise made by the machine in leaving the garage, Mr. Lamontagne was aroused and got to his window in time to see his auto turn the corner into Riverside street. He notified the police promptly and assumed that they in turn would notify the police departments of all neighboring cities. To his great surprise about 15 or 20 minutes later he received a call from the police station asking with the utmost simplicity, whether he wished to notify the Nashua police. He supposed that the Nashua police had already been notified and were on the lookout for the man who had stolen his auto. It seems that in such cases the citizen who calls upon the police department for assistance is required to pay for any tele-

Asked about Mon the other day after he had returned from a business trip as to the status of business in general, "Business is poor, too many selling, too few buying and too many losing," was the answer.

Very Polite Man

An extremely polite traveller had been for a walk along the deck. When he came back to his deck chair he found a very buxom woman in possession. He approached her timidly and said, "Excuse me, madam, but could you tell me—without getting up, whether you are sitting on my hat?"

Dying Poor

The late Franklin D. Lane, who was secretary of the interior in the Wilson cabinet, left an estate worth $10,000. It's very well to say that he died rich in the esteem of his fellow citizens and rich in the legacy of good service rendered. But the best tribute that can be paid to a public servant who, like Lane, had in his keeping the fabulous undeveloped resources of the nation, is to say this of him: He died poor!

Gun-Toting

Gun-toting has been made an unpardonable offense in Kentucky. Never will a gun-toter sentenced to prison be pardoned by him, says Gov. Edwin H. Morrow. The gun-toter is the potential man-killer. To give him a good lesson before he has a chance to kill someone is much cheaper for all concerned than a good lesson after he has committed murder. Governor Morrow's crusade for disarmament in Kentucky should be studied by the more backward communities, like New York, Chicago and Lowell.

Hard to Believe

An English farmer hired a man to help him gather his corn last season. Now, the farmer had a reputation for being an efficient worker, but the hired man was not daunted by it. They started out side by side, the hired man being advised by the farmer to keep as close to him as he could with the row he was gathering. But the new worker, after a few minutes of keeping up with the farmer, passed him and soon was several feet ahead. Frantically the farmer worked, but the new man still kept gaining. Then all at once he heard the farmer shout, "Stop! He's gone! Stop, if you want to work for me. I never yet let any man who worked for me get ahead of me." And because he wished to hold his job the hired man "slowed up."

Let Something Good Be Said

When over the fair fame of friend or foe
The shadow of disgrace shall fall,
Instead
Of words of blame, or proof of thus and so,
Let something good be said.

Forget not that no fellow-being yet
May fall so low but love may lift his head;
Even the cheek of shame with tears
If something good be said.

No generous heart may vainly turn aside
In way of sympathy; no soul so dead
But may awaken strong and glorified.
If something good be said.

And so I charge ye, by the thorny crown,
And by the cross on which the Saviour bled,
And by your own soul's hope of fairer morn,

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Mayor Thompson has not yet mapped out any definite program of activity for the remaining months of 1921, he told newspapermen the other day when asked about his ideas on what the city government should undertake before the close of the year. On various projects that have come up in the past the mayor has always expressed the opinion that they could wait until later on in the year when the city would have more money available and would be a greater distance from the debt limit. It is well known that there are several large projects waiting action by the municipal council. The first street oval, the new highway there, the purchase of Washington park and Spaulding park and the expenditure of more money on the proposed improvements in Pawtucketville are all matters that have been urged for some time. However, the mayor seems to think that provision should be made to carry on the regular routine work of the various municipal departments before new projects are entered into. For instance, he says that it would be unfortunate if the street department early in September should have to cease operations because of lack of funds and thus throw several hundred men out of employment. He believes such contingencies as these should first be taken care of before steps are taken to lay out money on projects that are not absolutely urgent.

That common war is caused by a virus having a long incubation period is indicated by the result of recent experiments, including those at the University of Michigan medical school.

The experiments seem to show also that war is contagious, as indicated by their tendency to occur in crops. These conclusions were reached by planting the skin with powdered warts and producing new warts.

The evidence may not be conclusive. But at any rate the new explanation is more convincing than the familiar superstition that warts result from touching a toad, and can be charmed away by hocus-pocus with a peach twig.

Belief in such charms has been fostered by the fact that warts often disappear suddenly. Also they seem peculiarly susceptible to suggestion, and the belief that a wart will disappear can make it vanish.

A correspondent writes The Sun asking where the frogs come from that fall like rain in a thunder storm. The question is one that has puzzled many people who wondered if the frogs came from some other planet. But they belong to our planet. They were taken up into the clouds by a watery vapor that draws the water from ponds under certain conditions of the atmosphere. When the disturbance ceases the frogs fall back to the earth. A short time ago a great number of frogs fell in Rhode Island. No one knows where they came from. They might have been carried many bridge police testified yesterday afternoon that he arrested "Brownie" Kennedy under the name of "Helen A. Morse," Jan. 19, 1918, in a raid on suite 6,353 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge; that he identified her as the former keeper of Mishawum Manor, and convicted her in the Cambridge court; that on her appeal she defaulted, and that he asked Tufts for a capias for her arrest. In conclusion he declared that although Tufts promised to send the capias, he never did.

Ralph N. Smith, assistant clerk of the superior court for Middlesex, presented the original records against "Brownie" Kennedy and "Helen A. Morse, alias Lillian Dale," showing how cases were placed on file by Mr. Tufts, and also presented the record of an affidavit, executed by Dist. Atty. Tufts, averring that the reason the case of "Helen A. Morse," for selling liquor, was placed on file, was because she was out of the commonwealth. The Fresho evidence is depended on by the commonwealth to bear out the allegation that Tufts made a false affidavit, since Sergt. Fresho avers he told Tufts he knew she was in Brookline.

On a Window Sill

Sergt. Fresho was corroborated to some extent by Lieut. Wyman of the Cambridge police, who testified he found "Brownie" in her pajamas, straddling the window sill, in the attempt to escape via the balcony. One man, James G. Whitney, and three girls as witnesses, were also taken into custody, together with two and a half pints of champagne, 10 bottles of beer, and some glasses.

The "find" of most importance in the present case, however, was the "Brownie" book, containing the names of men of consequence in the community, and of girls, and money paid, and a big bundle of cancelled checks, numbering nearly 100, also slips, used at Mishawum Manor in her business. The attempt on the part of Mr. Hurlburt to introduce these literary curiosities met with fierce objections from the defense.

Never Showed Exhibits

As for a "bitter quarrel" between Capt. Hurlburt of the Cambridge police and Tufts, the witness admitted that there has been a "disagreement," but didn't know that Tufts had ordered Hurlburt out of the district-attorney's office "because of an attempt to influence the jury in the Hurlburt case."

Sergt. Fresho denied that he had always stood with Hurlburt. Admitting that he had never shown the exhibits to Tufts, the witness averred that "Mr. Tufts said I needn't bring the evidence." The name under which "Brownie" was arraigned in Cambridge was "Helen A. Morse, alias Lillian Dale," because "Dale" was on her door-plate, and she sometimes went under that name, but the witness informed the clerk of the court that her name was Kingston.

Didn't Ask for Information

miles in the air although usually the watery vapor falls near where they were drawn into the air.

Chivalrous as our natures may be, we are sometimes forced to admit to ourselves that certain characteristics of certain of the ladies are somewhat of an irritation. Those of us whose wives occasionally intrust to our care the purchase of more simple family groceries often find ourselves marooned before cashier's windows, because a female ahead of us evinces no haste to gather up her change. Standing directly in front of the opening, she opens her purse, carefully counts her pennies, nickels, dimes, transacts other hasty business, and when she is through meditating she moves aside to allow us to pay for our goods. I have never yet seen a man do this trick. Men invariably glance behind them when at the cashier's desk, and if anyone is waiting, they hurriedly gather up their money and move to one side. Whereas the average woman doesn't give a hoot, apparently, whether you miss your car, lose your temper, or are otherwise physically or mentally incensed. Sublimely self-centered, she attends to her concerns, and the devil take the individuals whom she inconveniences.

Bottled soft drinks in the United States annually require 136,000 tons of sugar.

for any information concerning the case. Questions as to whether Presho told the witness of his talk with Tufts concerning "Brownie" were excluded on objections by the defense.

Probation Officer James P. Ramsey of the superior court testified that it is his business to obtain the records of defendants, and he remembered the Kingston case. He obtained the woman's record from the probation officer at Woburn. The defense interposed objection, and Atty.-Gen. Allen said he purposed to show that the record of this woman was in the possession of the probation officer long before any of the cases against her were disposed of, and Mr. Tufts disposed of them without inquiry of the probation officer and had knowledge that the woman was the same under the different aliases.

Chief Justice Rugg, inquired of Mr. Allen: "Do you claim that was ever communicated to Mr. Tufts?"

The court, after further colloquy, excluded further questioning along that line, except that the witness was allowed to say that he was not consulted by Tufts before the cases against "Brownie" were disposed of. In cross-examination, undertaken by Senior Counsel Johnson, the witness was led to state that his office is not a part of the district attorney's, that he does not report to the district attorney but to the court direct; and that he is never consulted by the district attorney in defaulted cases when the defendant is not in court.

Tells of Barney Case

Mr. Bresnahan, now a member of the bar, told of Barney's escape, May 30, 1920, and how on the next night, at midnight, he came to the home of the witness, 67 Montgomery street, Cambridge. He saw Barney there or four times in North Cambridge, the last time on a lumber pile in Russell's Field, and in Northampton, June 30, going there with Inspector O'Halloran, following the receipt of a letter, and finding Barney at the house of Joseph Meisse. After two trips to Boston, the witness went to Greenfield, and Dist. Atty. Tufts appeared at 2 a. m. in his automobile.

Ralph N. Smith, clerk of the Cambridge court, identified the original court records against "Brownie" showing that in the Woburn court she was fined $100 and given four months on the charge of selling liquor at Mishawum Manor, and sentenced to six months for keeping a house of ill-fame. On her appeal the cases were returnable the first Monday in June, 1917. On June 27 she pleaded guilty to the liquor charge and paid a fine of $100, the other cases being continued, and on Nov. 18 it was placed on file.

Helen A. Morse, alias Lillian Dale, was sentenced Jan. 24, 1918, to six months for keeping a house of ill fame in Cambridge. Chief McDermott of the Woburn police being one of the witnesses against her. She appealed. On her appeal, the case was returnable in February. On Sept. 27 the case was placed on file, and on Nov. 13, 1917, the case was returned in February. On March 13 the case was called and the security defaulted. On Nov. 4 the case was placed on file.

Attached to the papers was an affidavit, signed by Nathan A. Tufts, averring that:

she is reported to have left this commonwealth. The affidavit was executed before Clerk Smith as justice of the peace.

Affidavit Necessary

In cross-examination, the witness was led to explain that an affidavit was necessary, in all liquor cases, by the district attorney, whenever such cases were filed. He also stated that a case placed on file may be restored to the list at any time; that he had no record of any other alias than "Morse" or "Dale"; and that the affidavit itself was made out by Mr. Tufts' assistant, Quinn.

Daniel H. Coakley, admitted, on the stand, that he felt bound by the agreement to obtain claims against his clients, and especially every one of the women at the manor that night, but protested that he was able to locate only five claims.

Contrary to what might have been expected, Mr. Coakley's voice on the stand was so low during the greater part of the time that some of the justices had to request him to speak louder, although they were better located than the majority of those in the room, as far as acoustics was concerned.

The Stearns Case

Only once did he raise his voice to even his ordinary tone. That was when Mr. Hurlburt demanded if Coakley did not go to Long Island within the fortnight to interview Mrs. Stearns, who is accused by the government of being a conspirator, with Tufts, to induce her former husband to commit a crime that she might obtain a divorce. The witness denied that he knew her deposition was to be taken and defended his attempt to induce her to come to Boston and testify.

Mrs. Stearns is now Mrs. Benjamin Sewall. Coakley said: "Mrs. Sewall and I were charged with a criminal transaction, and I went there to induce her to come to Boston to testify here because I knew that if she came here and she testified before these worthy gentlemen and they took one look at her, they would know it wasn't true."

The papers he took down there, he said, "were newspapers and others" to show her the whole situation. They were the only two papers in the Stearns case that haven't been stolen.

False Claims.

WE hope there is no Mother who thinks she can treat her sick baby without calling in a Physician, or with remedies that she uses for herself.

Most Mothers know that Baby requires remedies especially prepared for babies, yet there are some who think that what is good enough for them is good enough for Baby, and it is to these Mothers we appeal to give nothing to their babies that is not specially prepared for babies or recommended by their Physician.

IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION

Constitution and By-Laws
Adopted by the Centralville Improvement Association

Members to Attend Hearing on Question of Paving
Lakeview Avenue

The members of the newly organized Centralville Improvement Association, over 100 strong, will attend in a body the hearing to be held Tuesday evening before the city council relative to the paving of Lakeview Avenue. This decision was taken last night at a gathering of the body at the Varnum school, where unanimous endorsement was given to the petition for paving the Avenue from Bridge Street to the Ocean line. The organization will be officially represented at the council session by a committee of five, namely: John J. McPadden, chairman; Henry H. Harris, Thomas B. Delaney, John J. Mahoney, and Charles L. Cordeau. These were elected last evening. The presence of the complete membership of the association to back up the demands of the committee will, it is hoped, exercise an energizing influence upon the councilors.

Other important business which was transacted included the adoption of a constitution and by-laws. These were drawn up by a committee appointed at the meeting held last Wednesday evening in the hall of the Greenbald school. The committee comprises the following members: Dr. Michael A. Tighe, Rev. Karl P. Meister, and Thomas B. Delaney. Their report was submitted to the gathering, and the matter of accepting the constitution arranged by them was taken up. The document was voted on article by article, until the twelve articles had all found favor. The name tentatively given at the last meeting, of "The Centralville Improvement Association," was finally chosen, and incorporated into the constitution as the first article. A president, four vice presidents, a secretary and a treasurer, it was voted, were to constitute the officers, and were to be elected at the annual meeting scheduled for the second Wednesday of September in each year.

It was decided that those eligible to membership should include all residents of the Centralville district over twenty-one years of age, while those eligible to active membership should embrace all those specified as eligibles who should present their names and addresses to the secretary. Besides an annual meeting on the second Wednesday of September, it was determined that there should be a regular meeting on the second Wednesday of each month, held alternately at the Varnum and Greenbald schools.

During the course of the session the matter of band concerts, hotly discussed at the previous gathering, again was the subject of speeches. It was pointed out by Secretary Garmen that the season for concerts will soon have arrived, and that if Centralville seeks to be recognized as entitled to a share of these municipal enterprises, instant action should be launched. The consensus of opinion was to the effect that a committee should wait upon the honorable city authorities and notify them that "at least, Centralville is alive." It was referred to by members that in days gone by, some fifteen years ago, Centralville was deemed unworthy of band concerts, but that since those ancient times the section has been blithely ignored when schedules of concerts have been made up by the municipal potentates.

Prior to adjournment, Rev. Mr. Meister suggested that all who had not already given their names to the secretary do so before leaving the hall, so that a "working list" might be compiled. It was announced by the secretary at the conclusion of the meeting that more than one hundred members are already on the roster of active participation in the designs of the body, and that many more have signified their intention to join in the near future.

laws, as adopted last evening, are subjoined.

Proposed Plan of Organization for The Centralville Improvement Assn.

Preamble

Whereas, we the citizens of Lowell, residing in that section of the city known as Centralville, have duties to perform as citizens which require for their intelligent performance an understanding of the public questions of our time, and broad acquaintance with our fellow citizens;

FIGHTING THE TURKS

Lowell Man's Brother Has

ceived a letter from his brother, Lieut. Charilaos Vurgaropoulos of the Greek army stating that he has taken part in all the recent battles against the Turks in Asia Minor and has survived without injury.

Lieut. Vurgaropoulos who is twenty-nine years of age and a lawyer by profession has served in the Greek army for the past four years and has acquitted himself well. He is now commanding a company of machine gunners and expects to carry off more honors in the projected offensive against the hereditary enemies of his fatherland.

The fireless grate is with us for a period of months. Sometimes, without its flame the grate is an untidy affair. Thus the problem of a screen becomes one of importance.

That the coloring and arrangement of the screen can enhance or destroy the beauty of the room goes without saying. For it is in such details that a home finds perfection or imperfection.

Renovation

The simple two or three fold screen is easily altered and renewed to suit the new decoration of the room. First the old material should be removed and the frame cleaned well, repainted if need be.

The screen filling can then be selected and tacked in place. Soft folded silk is always effective, but the other day I discovered in the home of a friend a screen which had been charmingly renewed with the use of nothing more extravagant than crepe paper.

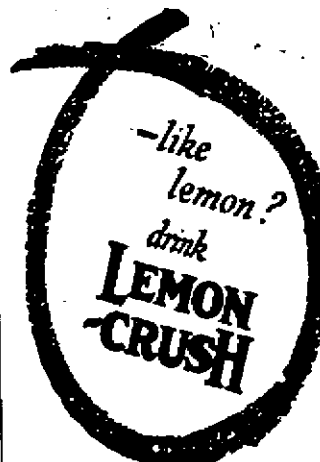

The paper was placed in three frills, one above the other, because it was not quite wide enough to go the full length.

Colors

Hand embroidered panels of burlap are a pretty filling for a screen. If the design is rather a large plain one, applique which is more quickly done, can be used effectively. For instance, if your screen is of old blue, applique of bright yellow or orange will give your room accent. If your screen is green the yellow or orange will be equally good. Yellow is also good on purple.

Some people prefer flowers and greenery as their grate screens. In that case of the old-fashioned, tiered wire cake stands is useful. Some sort of trailing green should be used. The plant ordinarily known as Wandering Jew makes a good basis for a screen of the greenery variety.

There are more than 150 steps inside the Statue of Liberty leading up to the head.

Kidney and Bladder Troubles HAVE TO GO

Clogged Up Kidney Deposits are Dis- solved and the Toxins (Poisons) Completely Driven Out. Druggists Told to Guarantee it in Every Instance.

"Your very life," says Dr. Carey, "depends upon the perfect functioning and health of your kidneys, so whatever you do, don't neglect them."

Dr. Carey's famous prescription No. 777, known as Marshroot, is not recommended for everything, but we cannot too strongly urge its use if you suffer from annoying bladder troubles, frequent passing of water night and day, with smarting or irritation, brick dust sediment or highly colored urine, bloating, irritability with loss of flesh, backache, rheumatism or any other tendency to Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Gravel, or kidney disease in its worst form may be stealing upon you. Don't wait until tomorrow to begin the use of this wonderful prescription if you have any of the above symptoms. Kidney and Bladder troubles don't wear away. They will grow upon you slowly, stealthily and with un-failing certainty.

Remember the failures of the past if you even suspect that you are subject to Kidney Disease, don't lose a single day, for Fred Howard, 197 Central Street, Boston drug store and every good druggist has been authorized to return the purchase money on the first two bottles to all who state they have received no benefit.—Adv.

Last evening on the South common, the C.M.A.C. team completely outclassed the Gillespies, 3 to 1. The latter team still remains at the tail end of the league despite its heroic efforts to extricate itself from the basement. The game was notable for its scarcity of hits and a plentiful supply of errors. It was also notable in that it introduced two new pitchers into the league, both of whom displayed their wares to considerable advantage. Hobson for the victors proved that he had plenty of steam and a wicked curve that kept his opponents guessing. Sullivan was almost as good. In the first inning Hubert of the C.M.A.C. started things in the good old-fashioned manner by whacking out a lousy single to left. McGowan followed with a similar crack to the right, and McMahon made a hero of himself by laying out a beautiful sacrifice fly to the left fielder, scoring Hubert. C. Marcotte then tied to the first baseman and the side was retired. In the fifth the same team got two more. Pare, who was the first at bat, grabbed off a good single to right and the next moment he fooled Twifler Sullivan by going down to second after the latter had made a wretched attempt to nail him at the first sack. Then an easy one off the bat of Hobson slid into Stanton's hands at second. Stanton had plenty of time to nail Pare at the plate but missed his cue and threw to first. Pare scored. Then Reynolds, a very fast young man, took first when Dean made a slight muf. The next moment he streaked down to second on a wild pitch and scored when O'Hare muffed what looked like an easy fly off Hubert's bat.

In the sixth inning the Gillespies got their one tally. Adams plunked to the initial sack on a slow grounder to short. Bird was assaulted by the pitcher, and Williams whacked to right. The bases were now full. McMahon handled Tuohy's grounder in fine style but made a rotten throw to the plate and Adams scored. Brogan and Willard proved to be easy outs and the side was retired. After the sixth the spectators might just as well have gone home for nothing more was doing. The score:

NOTES OF THE GAME
Broadways vs. Centralvilles tonight.

Willard, who replaced Stanton at second for the Gillespies, proved to be a capable young man in the field. His work made him popular with the crowd, as was shown by the fact that he was applauded liberally when he came to the bat for the first time.

Ray Reynolds was Johnny-on-the-spot at short.

Sullivan hails from Pepperell. He put up a creditable exhibition.

Hobson, who occupied the mound for the C.M.A.C., is a local boy and entirely new to twilight baseball.

(By Newspaper Enterprise) WASHINGTON, D. C., July 14.—The highest honor in American golf will be at stake when golfers from all over the world gather on July 19, 20 and 21, at the fashionable Columbia country club, at Cherry Chase, Maryland, near Washington, to battle for the U. S. open championship.

This year's meet, the 55th annual affair, is expected to be one of the most spectacular in years. And several outstanding factors indicate that the U. S. open will be a record-breaking event.

For instance, at present an Englishman, Ted Ray, is holder of the coveted American golf honor. And at the same time, an American, Jock Hutchinson, is holder of the English open championship.

These two cracks will be on hand at Columbia—Ray to defend his title, and Hutchinson to attempt to bring in his first honors, in order to present America with the world's golf honors.

It is Hutchinson's title that will rest on American shoulders. If Ray hangs on to his title here, he will have an opportunity to become world champion next season when the English championship will have its annual session.

At the other there appears to be no advantage held by either man. Both Ray and Jock have played the Columbia course and are well acquainted with its bunkers, traps, greens and fairways.

Last year, when Ray, after winning the U. S. title at Inverness club in Toledo, O., toured America and played on 60 golf courses, he pronounced Columbia the best place of the year.

Should Hutchinson be off form and fail to carry away honors, America will still have dangerous stars in the field in Chick Evans, Solley Jones, Louis Diegle, Jim Barnes and many others.

Elaborate Plans
Elaborate arrangements are being made at Columbia. The course covers 135 acres of rolling country and 11 of the 15 holes have natural brook hazards.

President Harding, who dedicated the fifth hole of the Columbia course, will present the capital prize to the winner, on the final day.

FRENCH TENNIS STARS ARE COMING OVER
BOSTON, July 14.—The summer colonists on the north shore are going to get the first glimpse of Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen of France, the world's greatest woman tennis player, when she is to make her American debut at the Essex County club at Manchester. According to an announcement made by Nathaniel W. Niles, the Longwood player, who is assigning dates for the remarkable French girl on nearby courts, he has already arranged for her to play at Manchester early in August.

The dashing French girl, whose tennis has enabled her to defeat her opponents with ease the last two years, also will appear at Chestnut Hill, when the Longwood Cricket club conducts the mixed doubles championship tournament, which is to take place at Forest Hills, L. I., Aug. 15.

Andre Gobert, of the French team, one of Europe's best players, will be her partner. Edw. Sheafe, president of the Longwood Cricket club, says the entry has been made.

FASTEST RACE OF YEAR

Periscope Wins In Three Straight on Grand Circuit in Toledo

TOLEDO, O., July 14.—Periscope, which established the trotting record for the season at 2:03 1/4 at North Randall last week, was the sensational performer of the Grand Circuit races at Port Miami park yesterday, beating a high-class field in the $3000 Maunee state for 2:05 trotters in the fastest three-hat race of the season.

Driven by her owner, J. J. Dodge, the little mare played with the field in all three heats, trotting right to her record of 2:03 1/4 in the second mile. The program was long drawn out, both the 2:10 and 2:13 trots requiring extra heats.

Periscope sold for $500 in the auctions, Ante Guy and Charley Rex, coupled as the Murphy entry, bringing $100. Dan Aubrey won the $10 and the field $10. Peter Coley led at the half in the first heat, but Periscope trotted around him on the upper turn and had no trouble in winning the first heat, splitting a hoof in the third and being drawn. FAME FOR THE WHITE SOX

CHICAGO, July 14.—Fans who attend the baseball games at Comiskey park, the home of the Chicago White Sox, no longer leave in droves when the Sox lose a game. The team has passed and with the home team apparently hopelessly beaten.

For the Sox, despite their occupancy of seventh place in the American league, have established a reputation for being whirlwind finishers and for not being defeated until the last man is out.

Since their return home from the eastern invasion, the Sox have scored 60 runs in nine games. They have won four games and 23 of the runs have been made in the seventh, eighth, ninth or extra innings.

In yesterday's game with Washington, the Sox scored four runs in the ninth inning and came within one run of tying the score, losing the game, 10 to 6. On Tuesday against the same team Chicago launched another last minute attack that netted three runs but lost the game, 8 to 7.

In yesterday's game with Washington, the Sox scored four runs in the ninth inning and came within one run of tying the score, losing the game, 10 to 6. On Tuesday against the same team Chicago launched another last minute attack that netted three runs but lost the game, 8 to 7.

The Quaker entry was forced to do his best, for Fred Hyde's hopped pacer was on his trail all the time. The last mile between the two was a neck-and-neck proposition down the home stretch with Jackson Centian having a little the best of the drive.

The meeting also furnished the first defeat of the season of Julia C. In the 2-year-old trot, Chop Suey of the Sunbeam stables of Birmingham, N. Y., a smooth-galleted stepper, topped the summary in the colt event after dropping the first heat to Crossman's filly.

Dave Warman was successful in bringing home Providence trotter Ruby Aubrey, victor from a field of 14 starters in the 2:17 trot.

MATCH RACE AT GOLDEN COVE CALLED OFF
Nothing doing on the match race between Lawton's and Dunnigan's horses which was being planned for Saturday afternoon at Golden Cove park. First thing the race to have been drawn up at the meeting of the Lowell Division club Tuesday evening, but there was a knot in the proceedings.

A simple matter at first and one that could be easily brushed aside, but it proved a stickler. It all had to do with the driving. Dunnigan insisted that the men who owned the horses should drive them. He wouldn't have it any other way. Mr. Lawton on the other hand said he did not want to drive his horse. He wanted the boy who has been taking care of him, he said, to have the honor of driving and winning the race. He said he did not care who drove Dunnigan's horse. The sense of the meeting was that the owners should drive, but Mr. Lawton held firm to his decision not to drive and the race was called off.

Hunters killed more than 25,000 wolves, coyotes and other predatory animals last year.

SQUARE PLAYER COOLS

IRE OF HOME FANS
WAHPETON, N. D., July 14.—Clean baseball scored another point recently, in a game between Wahpeton-Breckenridge and Huron, in the Dakota league.

In the ninth inning, with the score 3 to 2, in Huron's favor, a Wahpeton-Breckenridge man got on base and was advanced to third.

Close Decision
The next batter grounded to the shortstop who decided to try for the man at the plate. The ball shot home for a close decision and the runner was called out.

Wahpeton-Breckenridge fans went wild. They hurled pop bottles and cushions at the ump.

In the meantime Roy Patterson, former star in the American association, and now hurler and pilot on the Wahpeton team, had walked behind the plate and watched the close play.

He rushed to the front of the stands and held up his hands. An instant Bush fell over the fans.

Ray Tells 'Em
"I saw the play myself," said Patterson. "Our man was out. The umpire was correct. If you have any fight take it out on our base-runner."

"Never saw anything like that before in baseball," said Mike Cantillon, president of the Dakota league. "It shows you what sort of a fellow Patterson is."

Though the highly Yankees should probably be highly respected, there is one member of the lowly White Sox who cannot see it that way at all. He is "Wee" Dicky Kerr, hurler of the Chicago ball crew.

This diminutive 5 foot 7 moundsman has absolutely failed to consider that the Yankees are fighting for first place in the American league while his team is fighting to keep out of the cellar.

He has stepped forth in his last four contests against York sluggers and batted them a sweet quartet of trimmings.

"Jump," says Dicky—and the Yankee jumps. He's had 'em eating out of his hand, and recently they have failed to hit the mitt that has been serving them—outs and ins and drops.

THE FISHING QUESTION

Commissioner Adams Coming Here to Talk Over Fishway Proposition

Director Adams of the Massachusetts game commission has evidently had change of heart and has finally decided to countenance the re-statement of a fishway at Pawtucket falls.

It would have rejoiced the heart of the late and lamented president of the Lowell Fish and Game association, Simon B. Harris, had he lived to witness the change in attitude of the state commission. He had worked hard and earnestly for the restoration of the fishway. He appeared before commission members, legislative committee and in other ways sought, tooth and nail, to put the project through for he fervently believed that salmon would come back to the Merrimack as of yore if accommodations were provided them to negotiate the falls in this city and in Lawrence.

The best Mr. Harris succeeded in getting as the result of years of hard and earnest work was a sort of promise that if the fishway at Lawrence should prove a success, it if functioned properly and proved sufficiently attractive to bring the salmon, the commission might then deem it feasible to restore the fishway here.

The following letter received yesterday by Secretary Holt of the Lowell Fish and Game association tells of the proposed visit of Director Adams here in connection with the fishway.

Mr. Willis S. Holt, Secretary, Lowell Fish and Game Association, Lowell, Mass.
Dear Sir: Director Adams has just phoned me that he is planning on visiting Lowell on next Tuesday, July 19, in company with Commissioner Emery and Engineer Hayward to confer with officials of the Locks and Canal Co. and members of the Lowell Fish and Game association relative to the matter of a fishway at the Pawtucket dam.

He would appreciate it very much if you and other representatives of the association could meet them at the Pawtucket dam at 10 a. m. to go over the situation.

May we not hear from you as to whether or not you or other representatives of the association will be present at that date?

Very truly yours,
Acting Chief Warden.

BUSTER BOY WINS AT WOODSTOCK, N. B.

WOODSTOCK, N. B., July 14.—The pacing duel between Buster Boy, by Balboa that C. J. Hanson of Presque Isle, picked up at Chicago last winter, and Fern Hal, the veteran campaigner owned by Dr. H. McAllister of Sussex, N. B., was the feature of racing here yesterday. Buster Boy won in straight heats.

Saccharose, the Northern Man pacer owned by M. Colbath of Presque Isle, Me., took better to the footing of the track than some of the other high-class pacers in the 2:30 class and won in straight heats.

Saskia, the St. Stephen trotter, was the only Provincial race winner, having a good margin in her favor in the 2:21 trot. Almost 5000 people were present.

LILLIPUTIAN WIELDS WICKED MASHIE
SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—If it takes a six-foot golfer $2 strokes to take an 18-hole course, how long would it take a three-foot player to make the same course?

No, you're wrong. The proportions don't work out that way. Mizzy Vah-Singer, 35 inches high, of the Orpheum Singer Minstrels, has been showing golfers on the Pacific coast that height and size don't make so much difference after all. She says she's closer to the ball, and can handle her strokes more accurately.

Stillman Case Witness Expected to Testify to Congenial Marriage Relations

Steward to be Called to Relate Story of Doings on Yacht "Modesty"

"Glad to Get News" Comments Mrs. Stillman When Told of Trial Developments

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 14.—H. Phelps Clawson, son of a wealthy Buffalo manufacturer, was called today to testify for Mrs. Anne U. Stillman, defendant in the divorce action brought by James A. Stillman, wealthy New York banker.

It was said Mr. Clawson would tell of visits which the banker made to his estate in the Pocantico hills on three occasions in January, 1918, while Mrs. Stillman was there.

He would testify, it was said, that the husband and wife apparently were congenial and happy together and that Mr. Stillman twice during the month remained overnight on the estate. Guy Stillman was born the following autumn.

Frank Murphy, who was a steward on the Stillman yacht Modesty, was expected to testify today regarding alleged misconduct between Mr. Stillman and Florence H. Leeds, former Broadway show girl, named by Mrs. Stillman in her amended answer to her husband's complaint.

"Glad to Receive News"

CHICAGO, July 14.—Mrs. Anne U. Stillman of New York, who is residing at the Harold McCormick estate in Lake Forest, Ill., today made only the briefest comment over what her lawyers called her victory yesterday at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., over her husband, James A. Stillman, banker, in his suit for divorce.

"I am very glad to receive the news," was all she would say.

Her lawyers' publication was caused by a statement by the banker's counsel that evidence in support of allegations of intimacy between the banker and Florence Leeds, a former show girl, would not be disputed.

After half a dozen witnesses had testified yesterday to intimate relations between James A. Stillman and Florence H. Leeds, former Broadway show girl, the banker's counsel de-

The referee denied the request after it had evoked protests from the lawyers representing Mrs. Anne U. Stillman, the defendant.

Col. William Rand, of Mr. Stillman's corps of attorneys, was quoted as saying that "there being sufficient evidence to prove one adultery—and we frankly state that we will not attempt to contradict it—no occasion exists for adding further proof except to satisfy a purblind public."

CONTRACT PAVING Chamber of Commerce Secretary Airs His Views

"It's largely bunk," said Secretary George F. Wells of the chamber of commerce this morning in discussing the contention that under the proposed contract paving system the city would be at the mercy of a combination of the big contractors. Mr. Wells expressed an opinion that a lot of the current talk about graft and other similar abuses is unfounded and said that the administration has failed in paving work not because of graft but because of inefficiency. "I'll wager," he said, "that in the cities where the charges of graft have been most rife, the street paving has been done at one-third less expense than in Lowell."

Mr. Wells said that unless something is done to stem the tide of rising expense the city will surely have a tax rate of $10 in a very few years. According to his idea the city government is inefficient because it is almost impossible to choose a good executive by popular election. He favors the new charter because it increases the salary of the mayor, a factor which might help to attract more efficient men to run for the office.

It is the opinion of the chamber of commerce headquarters that the fact that the coming election will be held during the vacation season will not have an undesirable effect upon the results. "I think that the fact that large numbers of people are out of town will affect the opponents of the measure as much as it will affect the proponents," said Secretary Wells. A number of people have already signified their intention of returning to this city from their vacations for the purpose of voting on the question.

MUST NOT BE EXPOSED FOR SALE

Despite the warning recently given through the press by Agent Francis J. O'Hare of the health department against dealers' exposing decayed fruit for sale, at least one local dealer with place of business in the downtown district failed to heed the request of the health department and this morning Agent O'Hare was forced to order this particular dealer to remove a lot of decayed bananas from his stand. The law very plainly and explicitly states that decayed food must not be sold nor exposed for sale.

The board of election commissioners at a meeting last evening outlined plans for the part it is to play in the special election on Aug. 9 on the petition of the chamber of commerce, that street construction work here be done by contract.

In the first place it was voted to have the polls open on that date from 6 a. m. to 4 p. m. However, these hours may possibly be changed later as the Trades and Labor council is to submit a petition to the board asking that the hours be from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. so that laboring men will have an opportunity to vote.

It was also voted to have at least one session of registration before the special election. This will be a continuous session from 12 noon to 10 p. m. on Thursday, Aug. 4. Other sessions may be held if the demand warrants.

A number of changes in the location of polling booths have also been made by the election commissioners. Precinct 1 of ward 2, formerly located near the city library, has been changed to the basement of the Green grammar school in Merrimack street.

Precinct 1 of Ward 3, formerly a booth in Branch street, will hereafter be in the carriage shed of the Branch street engine house.

Precinct 2 of Ward 4, formerly a booth in Highland street at its junction with South, will hereafter be on the South common near the Edison school instead of outside in the street.

Precinct 3 of Ward 5, formerly in the old Fayette school building which was recently torn down, will now be in the kindergarten of the schoolhouse in lower High street.

Precinct 1 of Ward 9, formerly upstairs in the High street engine house, the only precinct in the city where voters have been compelled to climb stairs, will hereafter be downstairs in the former carriage shed of the engine house.

These changes, where firehouses and schoolhouses are involved, have been made through the courtesy of the Commissioner John F. Salmon of the scaler and fire department and the officials of the school department.

The judges of clover and alfalfa are adding to destroy the tuberculosis germ, according to the American Institute of Homeopathy. Use of the grass juices has aided in fights against the disease in the treatment of former service men at the Alpine sanatorium. The treatment calls for well-selected food, the utilization of rays, energies and vibrations, and for surroundings of a cheerful nature.

Predatory animals in the western ranges destroy more than $26,000,000 worth of livestock annually.

Wheeler Declares Medical Beer Fight Intended to Destroy Law Enforcement

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Declaring that "the eleventh hour rally in the senate to save medical beer as a substitute for booze shows the purpose of the opposition to destroy prohibition enforcement," Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league, in a statement today said:

"The anxiety of the irreconcilable wets like Senator Wadsworth, about bringing prohibition into disrepute with the pending bill fools no one," Mr. Wheeler continued.

Last year 69,197 tons of peat valued at $705,532 were produced in the United States.

MANY PERFECT PLAYS

Braves Win Two Contests, Making Total of Seven Straight Victories

NEW YORK, July 14.—A total of 148 perfect plays were made in the double-header between the Boston and Chicago Nationals at Boston yesterday. The Braves won both contests, stretching their winning streak to seven straight victories. In the second contest the Cubs outbatted their opponents and made four extra base hits to one for the Braves.

Hits were frequent in the American league contests. The total for the Washington-Chicago game was 29 and the Senators won despite seven errors and a four run rally by the White Sox in the ninth inning. Twenty-six hits were made in the New York-St. Louis and the Boston-Cleveland contests and 21 in the Philadelphia-Detroit game. All of the Yankee players hit the ball and Pitcher Mays knocked out a home run.

The feat of making three home runs in one game was performed by two American association players yesterday. Jim Thorpe, for National league player and noted in football and athletics, who is now with Toledo, and "Bunny" Brief of Kansas City were the sluggers.

COX WANTS PEOPLE TO UPHOLD HARDING

(Special to The Sun)

BOSTON, July 14.—Americans without regard to political affiliations should uphold the president in his program of limitation of armaments, Gov. Cox states today in a statement to the people of the state on the president's plan.

Says Gov. Cox, "President Harding's message to the principal allied power calling for a conference on the limitations of armaments has deservedly received the commendation of citizens of every walk of life in America and of many of the large European powers. It is a great forward step in a sane and practical manner to limit the tremendous expenditures for armament and one which gives promise of practical operation without in any way endangering the safety of the nations involved. This act of President Harding will be considered in the years to come as a wise, practical and statesmanlike effort to solve one of the really great problems of our time. American citizens without regard to political affiliations should uphold the president in this program and earnestly hope for his success."

Thomas S. Lees, manager of the local division, made the presentation address. The following took part in an informal entertainment which followed the presentation: Arthur Harrington, Fred McNaney, Patrick Kieran, Mrs. Leavitt, Thomas Sayers, and Miss Elizabeth Forrest. SPRING

MR. SPRINKLE-BLOW, THE FAIRY WEATHER MAN, TOLD MR. SUN JUST HOW HOT TO SHINE.

After the Nuisance Fairies were locked up, spring began in earnest. The Fairy Queen had sent the Spring Fairy and her helpers to decorate woodlands, hills and valleys and soon the whole world was a bower of color. Mr. Sprinkle-Blow, the fairy weather man, told Mr. Sun just how hot to shine, and sent lovely, soft, refreshing showers when things got dry. Ben and Nancy and Nick would sit on the edge of fleecy gray clouds and tilt their watering-pots and give everything a drink. Night times they would send down sprays of mist, and the mist would become drops and hang over the blades and leaves and violet-petals, and blossoms, and earth people called it dew.

Things grew and grew and grew and grew, first the snow-drops, and pussy-willows, and crocuses appeared and even Mr. Jack-in-the-Pulpit poked up his head to preach, next the violets and forget-me-nots, butter-cups and ragged-robins as well as all the sweet wood flowers appeared. And blossoms! The orchard looked like a wedding, and the wood trees with their lovely trimmings of white and pink (dogwood and hawthorne, wild cherry and wild-crab) looked like brides and bridesmaids.

Farmer Smith's sass-patch garden, too, was a sight for sore eyes, with a dozen different shades of green. Ben and Blossom Bunny had had lettuce got only for their Sunday dinners, but for every other dinner as well, for two weeks now, also beet greens, new pea-shoots, and parsley.

And everywhere birds' nests had little speckled blue, pink, white, or gray eggs. In them, depending on the kind of birds they belonged to. Indeed, Mrs. Robin called over to Mrs. Flicker one morning that she'd heard a little peck-sound inside of one of hers.

WELCOME BACK! BROCADES!

By MARIAN HALE
NEW YORK, July 14.—Sound the lute and trip forth lightly to the minut!

That is if you want to be in the picture. Brocade, that neocromancer who calls forth spirits of a Watteau past, brocade that visions for us those bygone days of gallantry and charm, is to influence the evening toilettes of the coming season.

The exquisite costumes designed for Ethel Barrymore and her court ladies in Clair de Lune may be responsible to some extent for the coming of brocade in the evening costumes.

This means that embroidery will not be used so extensively, for with the gorgeous and rich effects from the brocades no ornamentation is needed. Naturally brocade lends itself to those lovely draped effects.

One gorgeous costume which commands attention is of white brocade silk panier effects. These are really an overskirt, draped over the hips, which fall over an underskirt of heavy white satin with tiny chenille flowers in black scattered in unconventional design near the hem.

The brocade bodice, which is cut low, is square-necked and is slightly pointed in front at the waist line. There are no sleeves but straps of chenille and pearls which are suggested around the top of the bodice also are the substitutes for sleeves. The skirt is long compared with our past and present standards.

Brocades in deep rose and Egyptian green are especially effective while mauve and black, both lighted with old lace, bring the white-haired elderly woman into her own.

"Kissing"—Divorce Comedy in Court

By MILTON BRONNER
LONDON, July 14.—The title of the play: "Kissing."
The principal scene: The London divorce court.
The main characters are: Edward Vidal, pianist and song composer.
Primrose Vidal, his wife, a concert hall singer.
Dr. Arthur William Wilson, a famous benevolent old physician.
Vidal asked for divorce, naming the doctor. The doctor and the wife denied the charges. The wife also filed countercharges against her husband.
And after ten days' trial the jury has decided that none of the charges and countercharges in the case was true, cleared everybody and dismissed all the petitions.

Vidal said they were married when 17. Early in 1915 his wife joined a theatrical touring company with his reluctant consent. He joined the army and while he was away his wife became ill and was attended by Dr. Wilson.

Mrs. Vidal admitted as to the doctor that:
He called her boss.
He often kissed her.
She sat on his knee at a party.
He sent her on a vacation trip and paid the expenses.
He paid for her singing lessons.
He gave her a little ring.

A Man's Knee
As to the knee incident, Mrs. Vidal said she got up at a party to sing and when she finished there was no chair for her to sit on.
"So you sat on Dr. Wilson's knee?"
"Yes."

"Why didn't you sit on a woman's knee?"
"It is not usual to sit on a woman's knee, is it?"

More Smart Stuff
That wasn't the only time when the lines reminded one of those spoken in certain comedies.

A witness for the petitioner was telling what he saw in Mrs. Vidal's room which was opposite his home.

"Do you send your time looking into the room opposite?"
"That is an offensive suggestion."
"Are the blinds lace or cambric?"
"I am not in the dry goods line. I don't know."

"Was there a dressing table before the window?"
"I don't know. I saw the woman and I didn't look at the furniture."

Even the lawyers in the case insisted upon their little comedy lines. One of the attorneys for Dr. Wilson, in his final speech to the jury, said:

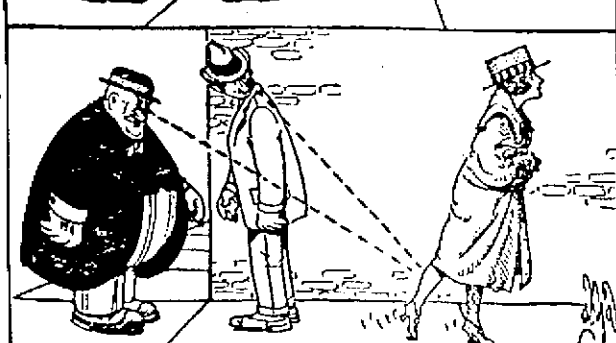

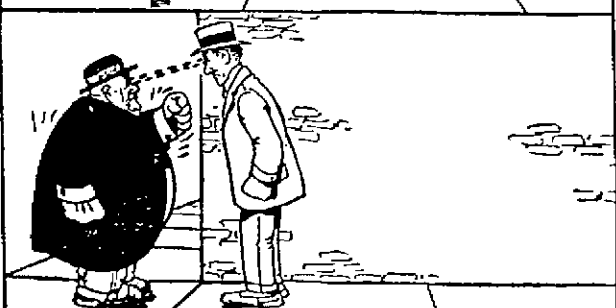

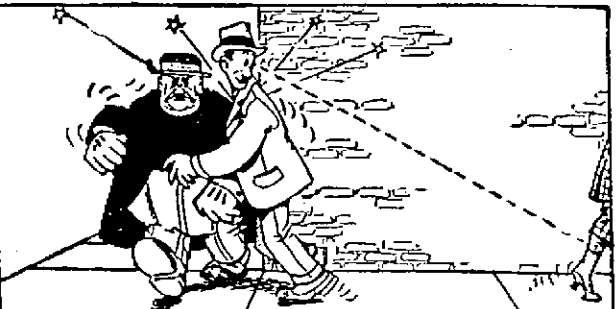

"I am not here to say that this old doctor is the most discreet person in the world. If he will excuse my saying so, I think he is about as big a fool as anybody could imagine."

USE SALT
Put a pinch of salt or bicarbonate of soda into the milk as soon as it arrives and it will keep sweet longer.

SILENCERS
In a room only partially carpeted, a piece of felt glued to the feet of the chair will prevent a great deal of noise. These can be cut from an old hat.

FLOWERS BANK JUDGE'S BENCH

Courtroom Crowded as Charge is Delivered in Sacco-Vanzetti Case

Same Rights Urged for Defendants as Though of Mayflower Descent

Judge Says Real Issue for Jury to Determine is One of Identity

DEBHAM, July 14.—The jury in the trial of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti for the murder of a paymaster and his guard at South Braintree last year, was charged by Judge Webster Thayer today to seek courage in its deliberations, "such as was typified by the American soldier boy as he fought and gave up his life upon the battlefields of France."

The Italian consul, Marquis A. Ferrante and Vice Consul Silvio Vitale occupied front seats in the bar enclosure during the judge's charge. The courtroom was crowded as the judge began to speak, and flowers banked the bench.

Crimes Affect Safety

"Crimes committed affect the safety of human lives, the sanctity of homes and the security of private and public rights," Judge Thayer said.

"The law grants to every person the same rights and privileges and imposes upon each corresponding duties, obligations and responsibilities. For whoever is willing to accept the blessings of government, should be perfectly willing to serve with fidelity that same government."

"In the administration of our laws there is and should be no distinction between parties. Under our law all classes of society, the poor and the rich, the learned and the ignorant, the most powerful citizen as well as the humblest, the believer as well as the unbeliever, the radical as well as the conservative, the foreign-born as well as the native born, are entitled to and should receive the same rights, privileges and consideration as the logic of law, reason and sound judgment, justice and common sense demand."

Pleads Against Prejudice

"I therefore beseech you not to allow the fact that the defendants are Italians to influence or prejudice you in the least degree. They are entitled to the same rights and consideration as though their ancestors came over in the Mayflower."

"The law does not require proof so positive, so unerring and convincing that it amounts to a mathematical or absolute certainty. You might obtain proof of that character in the exact sciences, but not in human investigations. For you must remember that we are all engaged in human investigations in which all the evidence must be considered, weighed and determined by jurors who are human beings."

The Real Issue

"The real issue that you must determine is a very narrow one," he said. "It is one of identity. Although the evidence has been voluminous, yet a jury could hardly have an issue more narrow for its determination than the one involved in these cases. That murder in the first degree has been committed there seems to be little or no dispute, according to the arguments of counsel. But there is a most strenuous contest or dispute as to the identity of the murderers."

"Identity may be established by direct or by circumstantial evidence. In the eyes of the law there is no important distinction between circumstantial evidence and any other kind of evidence introduced. Over positiveness in identification might under some circumstances and conditions be evidence of weakness in the testimony rather than strength. Certainty varies in degree. Any evidence that tends in any degree however slight to prove likeness or similarity between the defendants and the assailants is admissible."

with the power and energy to win:

Many a capable intelligent man falls just short of success—nearly "gets there" but not quite—simply because he lacks sufficient iron in his blood to give him the physical strength and power to furnish the proper FORCE TO HIS BRAIN and the "STAY THERE" STRENGTH TO HIS "WILL."

THERE ARE 30,000,000,000 RED BLOOD CORPUSCLES IN YOUR BLOOD and each one must have iron as iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living cells and tissues and to carry oxygen from your lungs to your brain. Without this your brain cannot do its work right—THINK THE THOUGHTS THAT WIN—any more than a locomotive can pull a big train of cars with a weak, smoldering fire under its boiler.

WHEN YOUR BLOOD IS STARVING FOR IRON no mere tonic nor stimulant can put you right. You must have iron. To get iron you must eat the husks of grains and the peels and skins of fruits and vegetables as our forefathers did or take a little organic iron from time to time and eat more such iron-containing foods as spinach and apples. But be sure that the iron you take is organic iron, not just metallic or mineral iron which people usually take. Metallic iron is not just as it comes from the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron, and is therefore an entirely different thing from organic iron. Organic iron is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. It may be had in your system under the name of Nuxated Iron. Nuxated Iron represents organic iron in such highly condensed form that one dose of it is estimated to be approximately equivalent to 4,000,000,000,000 molecules of iron.

Over 4,000,000 people annually are using Nuxated Iron. It will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. A few doses will often commence to enrich your blood, give you new strength and energy and help revitalize your worn-out, exhausted nerves, and thereby greatly strengthen your will power and aid in restoring your failing memory. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results.

Beware of substitutes. Always insist on having the organic iron of Nuxated Iron. Look for the letters N. I. on every tablet. Sold by all druggists in tablet form only.—Adv.

NUXATED IRON ENRICHES THE BLOOD—GIVES YOU NEW STRENGTH AND ENERGY

REQUIEM MASSES
O'CONNOR—There will be an anniversary mass for the repose of the soul of Cora Teresa Fitzgerald O'Connor at the Sacred Heart church, Saturday morning, July 16, at 8 o'clock.

Referring to the matter of consciousness of guilt which the state claims Sacco and Vanzetti manifested because of their part in the murder, and which the defense claims they showed as draft dodgers and radicals, Judge Thayer said:

Innocence or Guilt

"The mind being conscious of every bodily act theretofore committed, it knows whether or not such act is one of innocence or guilt. It indicates guilt, that is evidence of self-consciousness of a guilty act, tending to prove the commission of such guilty act, and evidence of the commission of a criminal act tends to prove the identity of the author of such criminal act."

But the jury to find the defendants guilty, must be satisfied that any consciousness of guilt shown by Sacco or Vanzetti was related to the murder of the paymaster and Berardelli and not merely to the fact that the defendants were slackers or radicals, the judge explained.

This consciousness of guilt must be shown to connect alleged attempts of the defendants to draw their weapons when they were arrested for the South Braintree crime, if the jury finds they indeed tried to draw such weapons, Judge Thayer said.

Gravity of Crime

"If a person is willing to use a deadly weapon such as a revolver upon an arresting officer in order to gain his liberty, what would you naturally expect would be the gravity of the crime of which such person must be consciously guilty?" he asked.

Consciousness of guilt must be considered in deliberating on the significance of Sacco's and Vanzetti's falsifying to the district attorney and the police, when arrested, he added.

The alibi evidence which placed Sacco in Boston and Vanzetti in Plymouth on the day of the crime, must be weighed carefully, the judge said.
